Pilot lands karate chops, helps nab hijackers

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) — Police and a pilot throwing karate chops Saturday captured three hijackers who commandeered an Avianca airlines Boeing 727 jetliner, demanded $400,000 ransom and safe passage to Cuba.

One of the hijackers died in the battle with police. The passengers and crew escaped without serious injury.

The three hijackers, armed with sticks of TNT and pistols, hijacked the plane Friday night and took it on an erratic journey over the Andes in a frantic attempt to get the Colombian government to meet their demands.

They threatened to blow up the plane.

The drama ended when policemen posing as a relief crew boarded the jetliner late Saturday. Police traded shots with one hijacker, subdued another and the pilot captured one of the men by hacking him with karate chops.

During the battle, the passengers leaped from the parked aircraft onto a remote airstrip. Some of them suffered slight injuries in the fall.

Police identified the three hijackers as Colombians. Two of the men held sticks of TNT clutched in their hands and one of them kept a pistol against the pilot.

The hijacking ended 19½ hours after it began on a domestic flight from the city of Pereira to Bogota. The band of men forced the pilot to fly an erratic journey from Bogota to the Colombian cities of Cali, Pereira and back again to Bogota.

The hijackers set two deadlines threatening to destroy the plane if their demands were not met. The government refused and called on them to surrender.

Presidential spokesman Ramon Naranjo Villegas said the government would "not negotiate under threats, pressure or blackmail."

The airline said 94 persons were still aboard —seven crew members and 87 passengers including the hijackers. The crew was all-Colombian but among the passengers were seven foreigners, some of them believed to be Americans.

The airline said it did not know the nationalities of the foreigners but identified them as Walter Greenberg, George Kinkel, Antonio Swartau, Peter Schmidt, Franklin Dawson, Majin Arten and Wolf Shiger.

The confusing hijack saga started Friday night when the plane was on a domestic flight from Pereira, a coffee-growing city in central Colombia, to the capital of Bogota. The hijackers took control two minutes before landing at Bogota's Eldorado international airport.

"If you try to get out, nobody will stay alive," Dora Currea, one of the passengers let off, quoted one of the hijackers as shouting at a man who tried to get up from his seat.

"Everyone was pretty nervous at first but they stayed in their seats and calmed down later," Mrs. Currea said. "Everyone was pretty quiet, though."

The plane was refueled at Bogota, where the hijackers first said they wanted $320,000 and safe passage to Cuba.

When the government refused, the plane was forced to Cali in western Colombia where it spent most of the night. After dawn the hijackers ordered — and got —breakfast and increased their ransom demands to $400,000. They said they would hike the sum even further if the government kept refusing.

DRAMATIC END TO HIJACKING

Passengers of an Avianca Airlines Boeing 727 jetliner escape through emergency exits on side of plane as police subdue hijackers inside Saturday. The hijacking ended when plane landed at Bogota.

A man who 'sees his dreams crumbling'--Julie

Nixon to take it 'down to the wire'

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Julie and David Eisenhower said Saturday President Nixon confided Friday night he would take impeachment "constitutionally down to the wire" rather than resign. They said the tape transcripts merely show him as "a human being who saw his dreams crumbling."

Standing in front of a grape arbor in the Jacqueline Kennedy garden, their voices catching occasionally with anger and emotion, they flatly denied rumors Nixon was preparing to resign and said the nation had no grounds for shock over the profanity or moral tone of the transcripts.

The President's younger daughter —who said she was "so proud" of her father" — and her husband conducted the outdoor news conference while Nixon worked in his Executive Office Building hideaway before leaving for Oklahoma.

Eisenhower, who spent Friday evening cruising the Potomac aboard the Presidential yacht with Julie and the President, said Nixon told them he meant to see the impeachment process through to a Senate trial if necessary.

'He would take this constitutionally down to the wire and he would go to the Senate and he said that if there were one Senator who believed in him, that's the way it would be," Eisenhower said. "He believes that its a constitutional process. He believes this is the best way to handle the situation."

Asked whether there were any truth in the rising wave of rumor that Nixon is preparing to resign, he said, "no," and added, "I think that's categorical— he wouldn't."

Julie described her father as "disturbed" by the increasing calls from Republicans for his resignation, but determined to resist them.

David said the President was now "stronger than ever" and Julie added that her mother also "takes things with a grain of salt ... she's weathering this storm."

Heatedly denying suggestions they had been sent out to speak as mouthpieces for the President, the couple took issue with charges that the transcripts show shocking immorality in the Oval Office.

"I don't see how you can be shocked by the transcripts," Julie said.

She said they should be read with the understanding that, at the time, Nixon was "a man who saw his dreams crumbling down around him."

David used that same phrase. The transcripts, he said, reveal "a man who was reacting as a human being who saw his dreams crumbling."

He said these were "private talks under the most compelling situation in which the President was trying to remove the taint of any criminality from the White House . . ."

"Its unfair to hold the tone of these conversations against him," he said.

Julie worked visibly to hold back her anger when a reporter suggested the couple was merely conveying the White House line on Nixon's behalf.

"I'm so proud of him that I would never be afraid to come out here and talk to any member of the press about resignation or anything, even though it goes against my grain, because I know he doesn't want me to come out here," she said.

"He doesn't want anyone to construe that I'm trying to answer questions for him."

'Kindness Day' is violent at Washington Monument

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Annual "Human Kindness Day" festivities on the grounds of the Washington Monument ended Saturday night in rock and bottle throwing, looting of concession stands and beatings as a crowd which had numbered in the tens of thousands turned angry.

U.S. Park Police armed with tear gas pellets formed a line of men and horses and moved across the monument grounds to break up crowds of youths who threw bottles and shouted jeers.

Large numbers of Metropolitan police patrolled the downtown business area near the monument with motorscooters as festival goers turned to windowbreaking and other vandalism against cars and stores. The 14th Street Northwest corridor, still scarred with gutted buildings from the 1968 riots, was strewn with broken glass.

Police said several persons, most of them white, were taken to area hospitals after being beaten by youths. The injuries were not believed serious. There were at least 10 arrests on the outskirts of the monument grounds. The festival crowd was largely black, as is Washington's population.

The "Human Kindness Day" festival, sponsored in part by the U.S. Park Service, had featured a free concert and celebrities such as Muhammad Ali. Singer Nina Simone was honored at the concert. Earlier in the day families had picnicked on the monument ground and youths danced gaily to the music of a variety of bands which performed in a carnival atmosphere.

Wall cuts view of Red Square

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet authorities sealed off Red Square Saturday, building a new Kremlin wall that allowed tourists only a knothole view of Moscow's best-known landmark.

Officials gave no warning, apology or explanation for the solid wooden fence which will surround most of the quartermile-long square for the entire tourist season.

Marijuana plants growing in yard

POMONA — A guy named Flowers got mixed up with some unusually tall weeds growing in his backyard, and police decided to take a look Saturday.

They found about 100 marijuana plants, 18 inches to 2 feet tall, being cultivated at 1050 E. La Verne Ave.

Dennis Flowers, 21, occupant of the house, and a 16-year-old girl companion were arrested for cultivation and possession of marijuana. Flowers was booked into Pomona jail, and the girl was released to the custody of her parents.

CONSTRUCTION SITE BLAZE

Ontario firemen quickly damped a $10,000 fire late Saturday at a North Elderberry Avenue condominium construction site. The top floor of one of four units was gutted in the fire, thought to have been caused by youths playing with matches.

SLA chief said to be an informer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Donald DeFreeze, leader of the Symbionese Liberation Army which kidnaped Patricia Hearst, faced accusations in hiding Saturday that he has been a police informer. The police denied it.

Los Angeles Police Chief Edward Davis conceded that DeFreeze once turned in a crime partner in Los Angeles, but Davis said his department "never considered using him as an informer."

However, the San Francisco Chronicle quoted sources saying DeFreeze fed information to police from 1967 until 1969 when he was committed to state prison. A Los Angeles police sergeant, who was said to have been DeFreeze's contact, said he was under orders not to comment.

DeFreeze, now calling himself Cinque, is being sought by the FBI along with eight others including Miss Hearst, who stated in tape recordings after the Feb. 4 kidnaping that she willingly is remaining with the terrorist group. Cinque and Miss Hearst were among an SLA group that robbed a San Francisco bank of $10,000.

Flies to Oklahoma

President full of emotion in address to graduates

STILLWATER, Okla. (UPI) — President Nixon flew to this college town Saturday night amid mounting demands for his resignation and told a friendly crowd greeting his arrival, "We never give up."

A crowd of perhaps 9,000 greeted Nixon at nearby Vance Air Force Base where the presidential party switched to helicopters to fly to Oklahoma State University.

"To go by and have people say, 'Hang in there, we are with you.' Believe me that does your heart good," the President told the air base crowd. "I have the old Okie spirit —I got it deep down inside —we never give up."

Nixon was accompanied on the flight from Washington by four members of the Oklahoma congressional delegation, three Republicans and one Democrat. The State's four other congressmen declined his invitation to accompany him.

After a 25 minute helicopter ride, the presidential party arrived at a practice field adjacent to Lewis Stadium where graduating exercises were held for OSU. One in the crowd brandished a sign saying, "Pope and Kennedy are usurping U.S. aid."

A crowd of 25,000 cheered as the President entered the stadium to address the graduating class of about 2,500. It was Nixon's first venture to a college campus in six months.

Addressing the graduates in what was repeatedly stressed was a nonpolitical occasion, Nixon spoke of his hopes for lasting peace, prosperity and independence for the nation in coming years.

He made only one reference to his Watergate problems, saying in the introduction to his speech that he was aware Americans "have been concerned, as I have been deeply concerned, by the political problems that we have had in Washington."

His voice trembling as he was briefly interrupted by catcalls, Nixon declared: "I can only say on this nonpolitical occasion this —that having presented all of the evidence to the Congress of the United States, that I trust that the House of Representatives will act promptly so that we can reach a decision so that the President, the Congress can get on with the people's business as we should."

His comment was loudly cheered.

Cites administration 'bungling'

Kennedy says he will soon introduce tax cut measure

CHICAGO (UPI) — Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., Saturday charged the Nixon administration with "the worst five years of economic bungling in the nation's history," and told a labor group he will soon introduce a tax cut bill.

He also said that while he could urge President Nixon to resign, he preferred to let impeachment proceedings run their course.

"We need a tax cut to stop the recession. We need a tax cut to provide relief for the low and middle income workers who bear the heaviest burden of inflation," Kennedy said.

He said that "within a few weeks" he will introduce amendments to end the oil depletion allowance and close what he called tax loopholes for business and "the nation's wealthiest citizens."

He estimated those amendments would "save the treasury" about $4 billion a year, which he apparently would pass along to low and middle income families in the form of unspecified tax cuts.

Kennedy spoke at a dinner marking the 60th anniversary of Joseph D. Keenan's membership in the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. Keenan is international secretary of the IBEW and served in federal advisory posts under Presidents Eisenhower, Johnson and Nixon.

Rumors run rampant--White House denies all

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House aides Saturday rebutted a barrage of rumors ranging from presidential resignation to presidential illness with the words "wrong, absolutely wrong." They insisted morale is high and there is no panic at the White House in spite of the runaway gossip.

"There's no panic down here," one White House official said. "Everyone is concerned, yes.

"I sense more panic outside than inside."

The momentum of the resignation rumor, especially, built up through the week as one Republican leader after another suggested the President step aside, and one White House aide commented on the rumor wave with some exasperation.

"I don't know how I can emphasize," he said, "that morale is high here and the President is continuing with the business of the people.

"The President believes that Watergate is a constitutional problem which will be settled in the House, and if not there then in the Senate."

In spite of repeated White House denials, however, the resignation rumor built up increasing steam as members of Congress began reading the President Nixon's Watergate transcripts.

On three separate days this week from the podium in the White House press room, Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren told reporters Nixon had no intention of resigning and every intention of completing his term of office.

Another rumor given widespread publicity was the claim that James D. St. Clair, Nixon's chief Watergate lawyer, had become disenchanted and wanted to resign.

"Absolutely wrong," said a high White House official.

St. Clair, who leads Nixon's legal defense against impeachment, reportedly had become dissatisfied because he did not have all the access he needed to evidence bolstering his case. Some felt he had given a hint to his feelings when he said Thursday, at the opening of the impeachment proceedings on Captiol Hill, "I'd rather be back in Boston practicing law."

"St. Clair is representing the President," the White House official said. "We're hoping the true facts will come. The facts sustain the President. He will be exonerated."

The official responded with the answer "absolutely wrong and totally wrong" to these other rumors which have hit the White House in the past few days:

—That Nixon had suffered a slight stroke near his right eye.

—That Senate and House Republican leaders had come to the White House to urge Nixon to resign in order to save the Republican party in the Fall congressional elections.

—That Nixon had summoned his Cabinet to announce that he was quitting.

—That Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger had been summoned back from his Middle East mission to be on hand for an imminent resignation.

That the Nixon's daughters and sons-in-law, Julie and David Eisenhower and Tricia and Edward Cox, were breaking up.

CHINO CHAMPION

Tami Barbee, 11, pounds the ground in encourangement as her frog leaps off the starting pad to capture the Chino frog jumping championship and a trip to Calaveras County Frog Jumping Contest later this year. The frog, which earned the name "Fast Herman" in honor of Chino City Manager Herman R. Fast, covered a distance of 5 feet 9 inches to capture the final round of competition. In all, 15 entries took part in the annual leaping event Saturday morning on the City Hall lawn.

Gains court decision

Media fights Zebra gag order

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The news media Saturday fought against a court order gagging coverage of the Zebra street shootings case.

In the first round, the media won an appellate court decision modifying the order, pending further hearings.

The State Court of Appeal said the media could publish or broadcast information which they obtained from sources other than police, other city officials and attorneys in the case.

Municipal Judge Agnes O'Brien Smith had originally issued an order gagging the officials, and extended the order Thursday to the media.

Professional journalism groups immediately expressed outrage, news organizations called their lawyers, and the American Civil Liberties Union announced that it would appeal the order.

Only 24 hours later, the San Francisco Chronicle and its broadcasting company filed "a petition for extraordinary writs of prohibition," and late Friday obtained the temporary modification.

However, reporters continued to be prohibited from reporting "statements, opinions or conclusions" obtained out of court from officials connected with the case.

Judge Smith had said the order was necessary to assure a fair trial for defendants in a city excited and fearful because of 18 random shootings of whites by blacks, 12 of them fatal, since November.

The three men charged in case, Larry C. Green, 22, J. C. Simon, 29, and Manuel Moore, 29, all have pleaded innocent.

An affidavit filed by the Chronicle stated that the order limited media ability "to cover the story, all its essential elements, and all its implications and ramifications."

For example, the affidavit said there were "ongoing and daily political implications which relate to the Democratic gubernatorial primary."

This was a reference to Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, a candidate for governor, who received great publicity in California from various announcements he made about the police investigation. Some citizens groups have accused him of using the Zebra case to boost his campaign.

News organizations said the order was a prior restraint violating free speech rights under the 1st and 14th amendments.

The order prohibited news of an accused's prior record or reputation, the existence of a confession or statement, anything about prospective witnesses, and the possibility of a guilty plea.

Nixon signs $3.6 billion AEC measure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon Saturday signed a bill appropriating $3.6 billion for the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) during the 1975 fiscal year.

The bill provides for increases in several AEC areas, including weapons development, naval and civilian reactors development and operating expenses.

Nixon also signed three other major bills, including a measure extending the life of the $3,000-a-year re-enlistment bonuses in the armed forces from three years to at least four in critical areas.

The new law is aimed at providing enlistment and reenlistment incentives which will enable the armed forces, including the Coast Guard, to attract manpower in needed but often unattractive skills such as the infantry in the all-volunteer system.

The President also signed:

—Amendments to the Environmental Education Act which, among other things, extend the moratorium on water resource projects and mineral withdrawal until Oct. 2, 1978.

—Amendments to the Wild and Scenic Rivers Act which designate the Chattooga River in North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia as part of the National Wild and Scenic Rivers system.

Driver distracted by detour?

Bus smashes into disabled truck; six killed, 32 hurt

CHARLESTON, Mo. (UPI) — A Greyhound bus smashed into a disabled truck trailer near a highway detour Saturday and was "ripped open like a tin can."

Six persons were killed and state police said at least 36 others were injured.

Robert Ritchey, Charleston police chief, said the detour signs on U.S. 60-62 in connection with construction of an Interstate 57 overpass had been posted Wednesday and the driver of the bus may not have been advised of the charge in the road.

Ritchey, one of the first policemen on the scene after the bus crashed into a disabled truck trailer on the side of the road at 4:15 a.m., said the impact "ripped the right side of the bus completely out.

'No passengers were thrown from the bus," he said. "Everything was inside the bus. It was ripped open like a tin can."

Names of those killed in the crash had not been released more than eight hours after the accident, pending notification of next of kin.

The casualties were first taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital at Sikeston, Mo., about 15 miles from the crash, and three passengers were transferred to Baptist Hospital at Memphis, Tenn.

They were identified as James Middleton, Edna Griffith and Gloria West, all of Chicago. They were reported in serious condition.

The bus left Effingham, Ill., just after midnight Friday and was headed for Memphis. Ritchey said the roads were dry when the crash occurred and that the bus went off the right side of the road as it was heading around a curve to the left.

An accident little more than an hour earlier had left a tractor-trailer rig disabled to the side of the road. Ritchey said the tractor was gone by the time the bus reached the scene but the trailer was lying on its side about nine feet off the edge of the roadway.

The driver of the bus was identified as Cloyd Dobbs, 30, of Memphis. He was not injured.

"The only thing I can figure,' Ritchey said, "is that he was used to the road and wasn't used to the detour that went up last Wednesday."

Ritchey said six ambulances and several vehicles took the injured to the hospital from the accident at the eastern city limits of Charleston.

Handcuffed officer found shot dead

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The body of an off-duty police officer who had been handcuffed behind his back and shot several times in the head was found early Saturday in a vacant apartment by two boys.

Police said the officer, whose identity was not immediately disclosed, was found by Wallace and David Rayne.

The boys said they spotted the legs of the victim protruding from an alcove in the apartment and called to him. When there was no response they told their mother, Mrs. Helen Rayne, who lived nearby.

She told officers she had heard four or five shots between 12:30 and 1 a.m. Saturday.

Police spokesman, Cmdr. Pete Hagan, said the body was clothed in gray pants and a red sports coat had been thrown over the head.

Hagan said it was not yet known if the slaying occurred at the vacant apartment or elsewhere.

The dead officer's private car also was missing.

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Prime Minister-designate Yitzhak Rabin has formed a new majority coalition government and replaced Defense Minister Moshe Dayan in the new cabinet, Israeli television said Saturday.

Rabin, who will become Israel's first native born chief of government, excluded the orthodox Jewish National Religious Party from the ruling majority for the first time since the early 1950's, the broadcast said.

Instead, he defied the advice of outgoing Prime Minister Golda Meir and agreed to join forces with the tiny Citizens Rights Movement, giving his Labor party alliance a 61-vote majority in the 120-member Knesset (parliament).

The broadcast said Rabin appointed Information Minister Shimon Peres as his defense minister, replacing Dayan, Israel's outspoken war hero who came under fire for his handling of the October, 1973, Middle East war.

Rabin, 52, will present his cabinet Sunday for approval Tuesday by the Labor party's central committee, the broadcast said.

Then he must go to President Ephraim Katzir to declare the government as successor to outgoing Mrs. Meir's caretaker cabinet.

The three-party coalition would thus be composed of Labor's 54 Knesset deputies, three Citizens Rights members and four Independent Liberals.

It would be Israel's first government since the early 1950s without representatives of the nation's religious Jewish minority.

Rabin formed the coalition after the religious party announced it would not participate in the new government because of a quarrel with the Labor party over the constitutional definition of who is a Jew.

The issue took on importance because the NRP demanded that only persons converted by Orthodox rabbis should be eligible for automatic citizenship in Israel.

Political analysts said formation of the new government did not preclude the necessity for national elections by the end of 1974, considering Rabin's slim majority in parliament.

Mrs. Meir, who resigned abrubtly April 12, angrily walked out of a Labor party meeting Thursday over the issue of bringing the Citizens Rights movement into the government.

Bill to bar Nixon plea bargaining

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Ogden Reid, D-N.Y., said Saturday he will introduce legislation next week barring President Nixon from plea bargaining to escape possible prosecution in exchange for his resignation.

"If it should be proven that the President of the United States committed illegal acts," Reid said in a letter to House members, "he should be prosecuted to the fullest entent of the law just as any other citizen."

Reid's bill would forbid any law enforcement officer or agency from entering into "any agreement or understanding to abstain from prosecution of, or grant immunity to any President or former President" for criminal acts committed prior to or during his term of office.

NO SLEEP FOR THESE SAILORS

Acupuncture practitioner's technique

Got to stop smoking, get the point?

WINNIPEG, Man. (UPI) — Dr. Shdung Chi Man is needling people to stop smoking. And it's working.

Dr. Man, Manitoba's only acupuncture practitioner, is using a variation of the ancient Chinese needle treatment to cure people of smoking.

The technique involves placing a stitch—similar to those used to close wounds—near three nerves inside the ear. A small bead is attached to the stitch, and when the patient feels the desire to smoke he can apply pressure to the stitch by pressing the bead.

Agitation of the stitch sets up a nerve impulse which blocks out the urge to smoke.

Dr. Man, 31, is a native of Taiwan, where he received his medical degree. Last year he was assistant professor of medicine at the University of Manitoba, and is a licensed physician.

He has been researching acupuncture relief of arthritis and is now in the third year of a five year research project that claims a 60 to 70 per cent success rate.

The anti-smoking stitch, invented by Dr. Man, is in the experimental stage and not available to the general public.

The study so far has involved about 30 patients, Dr. Man said. To make sure the effect was not all psychological, a control group was used, in which the stitch was planted in an innocuous location. None of these stopped.

In the other half of the group, 80 percent of the subjects kicked the smoking habit.

The almost invisible stitch is inserted into the eight, ninth and 10th cranial nerves in the autonomic nervous system, the acupunturist explained. The operation takes 15 minutes.

Within two weeks, a two-pack a day smoker has usually cut down to half a pack, he said. At the two week point, the stitch is removed and, if necessary, a new stitch inserted.

It usually takes three treatments to cure the urge to smoke.

YTS ward uses belt, hangs self

CHINO — A 21-year-old Youth Training School ward, an apparent suicide, was found dead in his room here Friday night

YTS officials said Edwin Brockman of Los Angeles County was found by a staff member making a routine security count at about 10:30 p.m.

Brockman, authorities said, had used his belt to hang himself from a window in his room. No notes were found at the scene, school officials said.

Medical personnel at the school attempted unsuccessfully to revive Brockman. He was pronounced dead at the scene.

Brockman had been transferred to YTS from a Northern California conservation camp in April of this year on a narcotics possession offense.

California paper urges resignation

BAKERSFIELD (UPI) — The Bakersfield Californian, which has consistently supported President Nixon since his 1950 U.S. Senate campaign, called in its Sunday edition for his resignation.

The newspaper labeled the impeachment inquiry an "unacceptable liability" and called resignation "preferable to what certainly will be a bitter and partisan television spectacular which will further shame and divide an agomized nation."

Sweet Adelines

POMONA — Local members of the American Association of Retired Persons will hear the "Sweet Adelines" at a meeting Monday at 1:30 p.m. at the Pilgrim Congregational Church. The program will be directed by Lois Whitney. Coffee and donuts will be served.

PUBLIC PARTICIPATION IN PLANNING—Laymen join professional planners and city officials in one of a series of workshops being conducted in the old Pomona Post Office by Lawrence Halprin and Associates of San Francisco in the updating of Pomona's master plan. The last workshop focused on the city's needs. Next workshops are scheduled May 16, 17 and 18, June 13, 14 and 15, and July 11, 12 and 13. Participation is open to the public.

Citizens view Pomona:

Lacking in lighting, housing for elderly, etc. . . . but city progressive, residents helpful

POMONA — The trouble with Pomona is there isn't enough suitable low-cost housing for the elderly, street lighting in some areas is inadequate and the physical appearance of neighborhoods is suffering.

On the plus side, the city has plenty of churches and plenty of citizens working together to solve mutual problems, there is much room for growth in the Phillips Ranch area, and there is an "open-minded and progressive" city government and administration.

These observations come from a list of 72 "major city needs" and some 56 "unique opportunities" drawn up by a large group of laymen working with city officials and professional planners in the updating of the city's master plan.

Series of workshops

The planning process involving the public is going on through a series of "take part" workshops being held in the old Pomona Post Office by the San Francisco environmental design and planning firm of Lawrence Halprin & Associates.

The firm is holding the workshops under a contract it received from the City Council.

The last workshop, on community needs, took place April 19 and 20. The next workshop, on community "image" is scheduled Thursday and Friday, May 16 and 17, from 7 to 10 p.m., and Saturday, May 18, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The "needs and opportunities" the planning group discovered — which are listed in a public announcement from the workshop participants in today's Progress-Bulletin—will form the basis of three more workshops designed to include laymen in the act of planning for their environment.

A workshop on "plan development' is slated for Thursday and Friday, June 13 and 14, from 7 to 10 p.m. and on Saturday, June 15, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

A third workshop, on "plan implementation" will be held Thursday and Friday, July 11 and 12, from 7 to 10 p.m., and on Saturday, July 13, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Participation invited

Anyone who has an interest in the shape the city takes in the future and wants to have a say about it is invited to participate in the workshops, according to City Planner Sanford Sorensen.

What will come out of these innovative sessions in people's participation?

A plan for Pomona.

What the participants come up with will be used by the city planning department as the key resources in an active-orientated plan for the city, one that is aimed at real, positive, physical results.

Pomona is one of some 12 in a line of cities in America where the new participatory process has been used successfully to let people make input into planning, city officials said.

Results elsewhere

Originated by Halprin and Associates, the "take-part community workshop" process has produced positive results in a rebirth of the Trinity River in downtown Fort Worth, Tex., city officials said.

Other places where the process has been used include Cleveland, Ohio; Charlottesville, Va.; Wilmington, Del.; Everett, Wash.; and Tulsa, Okla.

Just beginning is a six-month series of regional workshops along 58 miles of the Missouri River between Iowa and Nebraska, in which about 20 communities will have a say in how they want a river rejuvenation program to affect them.

Future workshops are in the works for Wichita, Kan.; Cedar Rapids, Iowa; and a village in Washington state threatened by flood waters from a dam expansion.

Participants in the Pomona Take-Part Community Workshops so far have experienced their city in a number of different ways, leading them to share a new knowledge of the community.

Moving about

They have taken walking tours around downtown, eaten their lunch out-of-doors in places where they have never eaten before, and gone on bus tours to places selected by workshop members themselves in which people shared their neighborhood problems and potential with everyone else.

They have rebuilt Pomona from the ground up using potting soil, boxes, graphics, greenery, and other materials.

This is learning by doing, say Halprin spokesmen, not by just sitting and being lectured at.

The participants have taken part in sessions on how to communicate the workshop experience to their fellow citizens and elected officials, on how they would like the workshop process to reflect their own concerns and in establishing the "Needs and Opportunities Bill of Rights" for planning Pomona.

"Everyone with an interest in the future of the city should come to the Workshop Center in the Old Post Office and participate," said Sorensen.

Council may exempt some building demolition fees

POMONA — Certain buildings considered unsafe would be exempt from the payment of demolition permit fees under the provisions of a city ordinance to be introduced at the City Council's meeting Monday night.

Eugene Pester, director of community development, said the ordinance would exempt one and two-family dwelling and accessory buildings, such as garages, "when they are demolished voluntarily prior to the instigation of formal nuisance abatement proceedings by the city."

Pester said the new ordinance was designed to encourage the voluntary razing of small buildings deemed undesirable and to reduce the work and administrative costs of his department in abating hazardous buildings.

A demolition fee presently is based on the value of the building to be razed.

Other matters scheduled for the 8 p.m. meeting include:

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

After his trip through the United States in 1831, French author Alexis de Tocqueville said "Americans of all ages, all conditions and all dispositions constantly form associations. They have ... associations of a thousand kinds, religious, moral, serious, futile, restricted, enormous or diminutive. The Americans make associations to give entertainments, to found establishments for education, to send missionaries to the antipodes."

First Dimes poster boy a millionaire

MIAMI (UPI) — In Neal Harrington's view, the affliction that made him the first March of Dimes poster boy had a lot to do with his becoming a selfmade millionaire at age 44.

"As far as I'm concerned, I prefer to be like I am," Harrington said. "If I had to be born again, I'd be born exactly as I am. I think I have an asset."

Harrington was born with a deformed right leg—not from polio, but something close enough to polio so that doctors used him in polio research. With his leg brace, he became the first March of Dimes poster boy in 1936, when he was 6.

Doctors also told him the only way to avoid dragging around a useless leg for a lifetime was to have it amputated and replaced with an artificial one. Young Neal turned them down.

"I decided to stick with what I'd got," he said. He went on to learn how to swim, bowl and play golf.

Defect an asset

He attended two universities, discovered he was a flop as an insurance salesman, went to work for a shipping company and after five years quit to found his own shipping firm.

His defect was the "asset" which drove him to the top, as head of one of the South's largest steamship agencies.

Harrington and Co., started nine years ago, now handles the loading, unloading and other shipping-related business of more than 50 per cent of the passenger and cargo ships that dock at Miami's seaport. Harrington has branches in 10 other ports and represents 46 steamship companies worldwide.

Remembers FDR

The son of a toll booth caintaker on Miami's Venetian Causeway, Harrington has fond recollections of his early brush with the famous. He remembers particularly being the guest of honor at President Franklin D. Roosevelt's birthday party at the old Roney Plaza Hotel in Miami Beach. He also "hobbled," he said, in Orange Bowl parades with movie star Mary Pickford.

Harrington keeps abreast of developments in polio research. Although the disease now can be prevented, Harrington says, the progress in helping those already afflicted or born with defects such as his is in the area of artificial limbs.

"Psychologically, I don't think they can do any more today than they could before," he said, adding that it still is up to the individual to conquer his own problem.

He has won the battle himself. "I have no regrets, no remorse," he said.

Baylor U. invites expelled Russian

WACO, Tex. (UPI) — Baylor University, the world's largest Baptist school, has invited Alexander Solzhenitsyn, the expelled Soviet novelist, to become its writer in residence.

"We don't know his religious or philosophical beliefs, but a man like him has to believe in the dignity of man to an inordinant degree," said Herbert H. Reynolds, Baylor executive vice president.

Retiring Utah solon shares career views

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — In his quarter of a century in the U.S. Senate, Wallace F. Bennett has seen a lot of men come and go —including three who ended up in the White House.

"They say when you first come to the Senate you look around and see all these famous men and wonder how you ever got there," says the 75-year-old Republican, who will retire undefeated next year.

"Then after you have been there for a while you look around and wonder how they got there."

Bennett defeated a three-term incumbent to become a senator in 1950—two years after Lyndon B. Johnson, two years before John F. Kennedy and the same year as Richard M. Nixon.

The use of the Senate as a stepping stone to the presidency is one of the big changes in politics Bennett says he has observed duringhis four terms —and he thinks it's a change for the worse.

"Up until 1960, candidates for the presidency did not come from the Senate. In fact, up until Jack Kennedy we had not had a senator elected President for 100 years," Bennett says, "Truman was appointed."

"Now all the candidates —the Democratic candidates —are in the Senate," he adds. "So you have a situation in which, to a certain extent, the legislative process is being sacrificed to a political program for 1976."

He points out that most Republican presidential hopefuls —at least this year —are governors or ex-governors.

Bennett is No. 10 on the Senate seniority list and, as ranking Republican on the Senate Finance Committee and senior minority member of the Banking Committee, he is one of the most powerful GOP voices in Congress.

But his is a voice that never shouts. Bennett has always preferred to do his work behind the scenes, in the office or committee room.

Two of his more famous contemporaries —Johnson of Texas and Everett Dirksen of Illinois —were also behind the scene specialists.

"Both were manipulators," Bennett recalls. "Both were wheeler-dealers. We've had nobody like them before or since."

"They both knew how to put pressure on men to do what they wanted," he adds. "Lyndon Johnson was heavy-handed, while Everett Dirksen was much more adept.

"They used to call him the Wizard of Ooze."

Bennett said Johnson took his heavy-handed tactics with him to the White House.

"I remember going to the White House with some other senators with a proposition as to how to solve a problem. But he spent his time telling us how he was going to solve it.

"Then he went around the table asking each person to support his resolution. When he came to me, I said 'No thank you. I won't do it.'

"I got one of the worst tongue lashings of my life."

Lawyer sues movie over its violence

CHICAGO (UPI) — Paul Bernstein wants $250,000 from the distributors of the movie "Papillon" because he does not believe it is fit family entertainment.

That, he said in a suit filed recently, is what television commercials had led him to expect of the film describing an escape from Devil's Island.

Instead, he said, he and his three young daughters found themselves looking at graphic scenes of decapitation, an impalement and a throat slash. Bernstein, an attorney, said, "the film caused and will cause irreparable harm to children of tender, innocent and impressionable years."

He said he would have walked out on the thing "but for the initial shock and hope that the violence would not continue."

Obituaries

She is survived by several nieces and nephews.

Private Services were held Saturday in Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona. Burial was made in the Oak Park Cemetery, Claremont.

2 at Upland High score in journalism

UPLAND — Two members of the Upland High School journalism department received honors recently from Pepperdine University, Los Angeles.

Journalism instructor Steve Eichelberger was named the outstanding Southern California journalism adviser of 1974 at the university's recent awards luncheon. Eichelberger was awarded the Doug Trout Memorial Award by the Pepperdine chapter of Women in Communications, Inc.

Eichelberger, who advises the Upland High School Plaid and teaches the school's journalism courses, was earlier named as one of the nation's top four journalism instructor-advisers by the Wall Street Journal's Newspaper Fund.

Laura McCrea, a junior at the high school, won first place in the sports writing divison of the Pepperdine High School Journalism Mail-in Contest sponsored by Women in Communications, Inc.

A staff member on the Plaid, Miss McCrea has received similar recognition for her sports writing from USC and Citrus College in their annual competitions this year.

Chaffey board to discuss budget and tax election

ONTARIO — The second preliminary budget for the Chaffey Union High School district and the need for a tax election on June 4 will be discussed at a board of trustees seminar meeting on Monday at 7 p.m. in the administration building.

The proposed 5 per cent tax increase for a two-year period would raise $4,430,850 to be used in the two-year period. The increase in the tax rate per $100 assessed valuation each year would be from $2.30 to $2.89 the first year and to $2.79 the second year.

Board members will be introduced during the seminar as will district administrators. A view of how a budget is assembled will be presented along with a two-year expense projection for the district.

Alternatives to financial problems which will result should the tax election fail will be explained with a description of cuts and the effects of such action upon the educational opportunities of students.

In discussion of the tax election, administrators will explain that voter approval of the base revenue limit increase will mean in additional income to maintain the level of district programs and in cost to the taxpayers.

Cal Poly extension

Hotel and restaurant classes slated in L.A.

POMONA — The first of a series of extension courses offered by Cal Poly's hotel and restaurant management department commences Tuesday, at the Los Angeles Biltmore Hotel.

'Big Mac' man believes in wholesomeness, baseball

By DAVID SMOTHERS
UPI Senior Editor

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ray A. Kroc made his first big splash as a major league baseball owner by insulting his team. It may be he was as surprised at himself as anyone.

But it was not really surprising from a man who had spent much of his 71 years suffering, agonizing and, by his testimony, dying with the Chicago Cubs.

Cub fans know what it is to both love and suffer. Kroc would be the Cubs' owner now if Philip K. Wrigley had not turned down Kroc's last ditch effort to buy them just 24 hours before he made his whirlwind deal for the San Diego Padres last January.

Kroc must have felt as if he were back in Wrigley Field when, on opening day at Padre Stadium April 9, he noted that his team was losing its fourth straight game, was trailing 9-2 in the eighth, and was already guilty of three errors.

He got on the public address system and told the crowd of 39,000, "I've never seen such stupid ball playing in my life."

That isn't really Kroc's style. He generally aims to please.

That is one reason he is worth roughly $500 million and could afford to shell out $12 million of it for the Padres for little better reason than that he suddenly felt like it.

Big Mac $$$$

The Chicago-based hamburger empire known as McDonald's is, of course, the big reason Kroc was able to do it.

Kroc didn't invent McDonald's. That was the work of two brothers named McDonald who used to run the most successful hamburger stand in San Bernardino, Calif.

But Kroc—Chicago hustler, high school dropout, fanatic Cub fan, honky tonk piano player, Florida real estate plunger, hot shot paper cup salesman — did create the McDonald's Corporation which now covers the United States (not to mention Canada, Japan, Australia and Europe) with more than 2,800 'burger dispensaries, with the end of it all still far from sight.

McDonald's, on March 1, reported record revenues and sales for 1973 of $51.9 million, or $1.31 per share. It is a $3 billion business and Kroc owns 20 per cent of it. That leaves him pretty well fixed.

Hamburgers and Baseball

He thinks he was able to build McDonald's because, for one thing, "You get the kind of respect that you show and that you earn." He hopes to apply the same principle to the Padres and ruminated about them, the Cubs and McDonald's in an interview, sitting behind the desk he occupies as chairman of the board of McDonald's Corporation.

Kroc is a compact and abrupt (as Padre fans discovered) sort of man, looking about 15 years younger than he is, dressed this day in a proper corporate uniform of grey chalk-stripe suit and light blue shirt, stoking his nonstop conversation with short drags on king-size filter-tip cigarettes. There are McDonald's monograms on his cuff links, on the elevator doors, everywhere.

There is no sign of the Padres around the McDonald's sanctum. The McDonald's people emphasize the team is strictly the boss's baby and no part of the hamburger empire. So says Kroc also. After all, he frankly espouses McDonald's as a religion. The Padres hardly rate with anyone in that league yet.

Sweat, blood and talent

That is not to say Kroc does not believe McDonald's

Big Mac man...

Conutinued from A-7

and the Padres make a great pair to draw to. The key is wholesomeness.

"Baseball belongs to the people and McDonald's belongs to the people and there's a meshing, so that's great," he said. "It's wholesome. And if we win it will be a lot more wholesome than if we lose.

"My first love outside of my personal life is McDonald's and always will be. The Padres will always be like a stepchild to my one and only child, McDonald's."

McDonald's was put together with sweat, blood and a few tears and the happy faculty of attracting excellent talent that grew with it.

"There's an inner something in McDonald's," Kroc said." McDonald's is not a restaurant. It's not a hamburger business. It's a religion. The people in this are believers. They believe we serve the most wholesome food in the cleanest, most wholesome atmosphere that can be put together."

Kroc was a 51-year-old peddler of malted milk mixers in 1954 when he made his move to become a tycoon.

He had dropped out of high school, lied about his age, and at 15 joined the same World War I Red Cross ambulance corps as fellow Chicagoan Walt Disney.

Then he turned the lessons he learned at the knee of his music teacher mother into a fling as a ragtime piano player around Chicago. When the Florida land bubble swelled in the '20s, Kroc was there, trying to make a buck. When it burst, Kroc was on his way back to Chicago, broke.

He got a job selling Lily-Tulip Cups and stuck to it for 17 years as Midwest sales manager. Along came the "Multimixer," a new gadget which could mix six milkshakes at the same time. Kroc became exclusive salesman. The rest, according to the annals of the McDonald's public relations department, "is history."

Enter Mac and Dick

The story, told and retold in fast food biz circles, is that one day in 1954 Kroc got an order from a place in San Bernardino for eight of his mixers. He wondered what kind of outfit would want to shake 48 shakes at the same time. He went west to check it out and found the brothers McDonald, Mac and Dick.

Mac and Dick were selling cheap hamburgers and making money hand over fist through much the same strict production control techniques McDonald's still employs.

Kroc talked his way in, gaining the franchise to the brothers' name and trade secrets. He bought his way in, by selling his malted milk franchise for $100,000 in 1960 (he also needed some money to finance a divorce) and swinging a $1.5 million loan from an insurance company.

Along the way, McDonald's Corp., was born and opened its first store in the Chicago suburb of Des Plaines in 1955. Kroc sold two McDonald's franchises elsewhere that year. By 1960, there were 228 McDonald's; by 1965, 738; by 1970 —there is no point in continuing: to the hamburger eaters of America it was, indeed, history.

Next, baseball!!

But Kroc still didn't have what he wanted. He wanted the Chicago Cubs. How he wanted the Cubs!

On the day before he bought the Padres, Kroc acted on a report that Wrigley had sold a hotel in Phoenix. Hope blossomed. "It was the only thing I ever heard of that Mr. Wrigley sold and I thought maybe that the Cubs might fall into that category and he might consider selling," Kroc said. "But he didn't."

The next morning Kroc left Chicago to meet his wife in Los Angeles. He picked up a paper to read on the way. "The first thing I did when I got onto the plane was I turned to the sports section and what do I see. Marge Everett was turned down by the National League to buy the Padres," he said.

"The wheels started turning. So the second thing I said to my wife after I said 'hello' and kissed her was, 'honey, what would you think if I bought the Padres?' My wife looked at me as much as to say, 'What is that, is that some kind of mission?' I said the Padres is the National League San Diego baseball team.' And she said, 'Well, if that's what you want, you go right ahead.'

"We get to the hotel, I grab the phone, and call my lawyer, Don Lubin, in Chicago and said, 'Get ahold of Buzzie Bavasi and tell him I want to buy the Padres.' That's how it was—a spur of the moment."

According to Bavasi, the deal was wrapped up in three three hours.

Parakeet is taking risk in baiting cat

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: My sister's parakeet, Peterkins, is one tough bird. He has got their cat, Simon, buffaloed so far. She thinks it will always be thus and snorts when I say some day Simon might be the tough guy. If I am right, will you back me up? — B.B.

Dear B.B.: Since Simon probably outweighs his feathered fly-weight opponent by a hundred to one, or more, your concern is obviously justified. Peterkins can continue to put on a fantastic front as an unbeatable, belligerent budgie only as long as Simon is in the mood. Since the bird can at any time inadvertently trigger reflexes in Simon that Simon couldn't stop even if he wanted to, the bird will be better off and longer-lived if he quits challenging the cat — NOW.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Why is Bimbo, our hound, so crazy about eating soap? Whenever he gets in the house he races for a bar of soap in the bathroom and starts chomping on it. He foams at the mouth and looks very frightening unless you know what he's doing. We know it gives him "the runs", but will it hurt him? — M.A.

DEAR M.A.: You've already noted the main effects of Bimbo's bar-biting habit. Indeed, the diarrhea from this internal supersudsing can become critically severe. While some very pure bar soaps are made of tasty, edible quality beef tallow, most are not that pure.

Even these better bars, consumed in quantity, would have a strong laxative effect. Best bet is to keep that bar out of reach or the bathroom door closed when Bimbo is barging about the house.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Octavia, my little octopus, isn't really a pet yet but she is less afraid of me and is eating a little fish now. What elese might I be feeding her? — I.G.

Dear I.G.: Octavia octopus ought to enjoy crab on the whole shell (live). Caution: Be sure she outweighs the crab by a considerable margin however.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My cat had such a terrible cold she couldn't smell her food, not even her favorite liver when I would hold it next to her nose. Does this permanently ruin her smeller? — B.E.

Dear B.E.: A neglected feline respiratory virus may leave a cat which recovers (not all do) with an impaired, but seldom eliminated, sense of smell.

Women inmates will be trained as painters

Job program at CIW joins state, union in plan to build work skills

CHINO — Beginning this month, inmates at the California Institution for Women will be able to sign up as painting apprentices under a new job training program being introduced at the prison here.

The experimental program may open the doors to jobs outside when the inmate is released, according to officials of the state department of Industrial Relations and Corrections.

The key to the program, according to officials, is the cooperation of a community labor management group that will not only enroll the inmates as state-approved apprentices, but promises to work with similar community groups around the state to place the apprentices on regular hiring lists.

Success of the pilot program at CIW, according to John W. Dietler, industrial relations consultant for the Department of Corrections, would show what can be done to make job training in all correctional institutions a first step towards meaningful job preparation for inmates when they return to their communities.

The first apprentices at CIW will be indentured or contracted by the Riverside-San Bernardino-Pomona Valley Area Painters and Allied Trades Joint Apprenticeship Committee in cooperation with the Orange Belt Painters Joint Apprenticeship Trust.

The painter apprentices will work on projects that need to be done within CIW, but under the guidance of qualified journeymen painters. Supplemental instruction classes, required for all other California apprentices, will also be a part of the CIW training.

Virginia Carlson, superintendent of CIW, said, "Our first step was to acknowledge that maintenance and services here at CIW have a training value. And now we are working to upgrade the standards of maintenance and services in order to help the inmates develop job skills that will benefit them when they leave."

To become qualified licensed painters the inmates will have to meet the state's standards for approved training as painters. The requirements include three years (6,000 hours) of on-the-job training; work experience ordinarily required of painter apprentices—preparing surfaces for painting, mixing paints and varnishes, removing old wallpaper, painting, taping, and testuring drywall; and a minimum of 144 hours of classroom training taught by credentialed vocational instructors now on the CIW staff.

James E. Stratten, state chief of apprenticeship standards, says that two other trades—lithography and intercommunication sound technician—will be added as soon as arrangements have been completed with community sponsors.

This land is your land . . .

SAN BERNARDINO — Even though you may own your own home, the state may have the deed to your mineral rights.

This occurred when mineral rights to many parcels of land were retained by the original developers and later reverted to the state.

But property owners now have an opportunity to obtain rights to any minerals found on their property.

As required by state law, the county tax collector is accepting bids from owners of property for which mineral rights have been deeded to the state.

The minimum bid is $10,

A real pet peeve: cats that leave 'calling cards'

My problem is pets—other people's pets, dogs and cats that are allowed to roam free at night and in the early mornings.

On trash collection mornings it's disgusting to look up and down the street and see overturned trash cans with contents scattered upon the street and lawns.

Don't people feed their animals? Why is it necessary for them to scavenge garbage cans for food?

And then there are those daily gifts left on the lawn, not discreetly tucked away under a bush but flagrantly deposited in the middle of the lawn for the whole world to see.

As for our feline friends, these creatures wreak havoc on a garden. We must constantly replace plantings that have been ripped out by cats covering their excrement.

We've tried everything short of poison — paper bags tied to bushes, commercial animal repelling preparations and an air pistol. Nothing works.

Pomona supposedly has a leash law for dogs. Why isn't there also a leash law for cats?

A fence will keep out a dog but not a cat. I am beginning to believe that nothing will stop those furry creatures from their appointed rounds. — P.G., Pomona.

We had heard that chili powder is a good repelleant but Bruce Richards, executive director of the Humane Society of Pomona Valley Inc., quips that it will attract chihuahuas.

He says repellants are all right indoors or under a patio roof. In the open, according to Richards, they are effective only if applied in enough quantity that they are bad for the soil. Wind, rain and the garden sprinkler reduce their effectiveness.

A study being conducted by students at UCLA, Richards reports, shows that cats create more nuisances than dogs when you count noise, trash can raids, plants destroyed and children bitten.

Leash laws for cats are difficult to achieve because a cat cannot be trained as easily as a dog. Nevertheless, there are cities which have them. Richards names among them Minneapolis, Scranton, Pa., Boston and Philadelphia.

The executive director comments that proper enforcement of such an ordinance would require "an army of men all equipped with wings."

Nevertheless, the cities of Pomona and Claremont have looked into possibilities of such an ordinance.

A cat owner may voluntarily obtain a 2-year cat license from the Humane Society by paying a $3 fee. This is a help in recovering lost pets but it doesn't solve your problem. At present we can only offer you the consolation that officials are aware of it and trying to find a solution.

We have a large backyard with a pool and have planted vegetables and flowers.

Three neighborhood cats spend most of their time in our yard and eat our plants. I bought a cat-off product with no results.

Is there anything I can get which will be offensive to them? — L.C., Claremont.

Your assistance with a very common problem would be greatly appreciated.

I am attending Chaffey College. During the spring quarter of 1973 I filled out a form at registration time to enable me to receive benefits from the Veterans Administration units, which makes me eligible for half payment.

By November 1973 I had not received my check. At that time I made three calls to the VA office in Los Angeles.

Each time I was assured that my check would be coming and asked to just be patient. I still haven't received my check. — T.M., Upland.

After we wrote the VA regional office, we were notified by phone that a check was being issued. You confirmed that you received $285.

Happily, we can report that judging by our mail your problem is no longer as common as it once was.

I would like help in getting an insurance claim paid, not to me, but to our family doctor, whom I believe has been more than lenient in waiting for a settlement.

Nearly a year ago, my son received an injury to his right index finger while playing baseball during his physical education class at school. The following day I took him to the hospital for treatment and X rays. The hospital billed our insurance company directly and was paid.

The X ray showed a hairline bone crack in the finger. My son had to make several visits to the doctor while healing was in progress.

The doctor's charges for these visits came to $45. He filed a claim with the insurance company, not once but several times. He has yet to be paid.

I do not feel that I should pay him when I am paying the insurance company a preminum of nearly $40 monthly for coverage. — H.Q. Upland.

We wrote to your insurance company and were notified a month later that your doctor had been paid.

20,000 see wide world of scouting at fairgrounds

POMONA — Running the gamut from arts and crafts to zoology, some 150 booths displaying the skills and interests of Pomona Valley scout groups were on display at Saturday's Scout-O-Rama.

Atracting an estimated crowd of 20,000 to the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds, the annual scout fair treated visitors to a visual display combining all the elements of an amusement park and a school open house.

Ron Brundage of Claremont, scout executive of the sponsoring Old Baldy Council, said the booths were designed to reflect scouting activities during the year. Most of the scout troops, cub packs and explorer posts involved in the show had spent up to five months in preparation for the event.

All the booths had sponsors and were built by youngsters in the scout group. The booths are judged and awarded prizes.

Activity at the fairgrounds was energy-packed, with scouts running obstacle courses, climbing rope ladders, crossing rope bridges, fingerprinting amused bystanders and dishing out hot dogs, sno-cones, cotton candy and soft drinks to the crowd.

Booths detailing cub crafts, woodcarving, first aid methods, bicycle safety, Indian dances and California history were featured. In addition, a live rock and roll band, sea and police explorer posts displayed their skills. A pinewood derby booth held races throughout the day for all-comers.

One of the most elaborate displays was sponsored by Explorer Post 201 of Chino. The booth detailed the step-by-step procedure involved in gold mining.

This lookout tower, constructed entirely of tree limbs and rope is manned by a number of scouts at Scout-O-Rama. The tower was built by scouts from Troop 208 of Chino as one of their projects.

LIVE HOBBITS

Twins Paul, left, and Bruce Beardwood, ages 14, of Ontario portray hobbits in a live show sponsored by Troop 301. Titled "Weird World of Sports," the show ran throughout the day. The hobbit show was only one of 150 different booth displays staged by local scout groups at Saturday's Scout-O-Rama.

DUNK 'EM!

Paul Mikel, 13, of Pomona, is dunked into a tank of water after a spectator scored the right number of points by throwing tennis balls into cans marked with different point values. The "Dunk 'Em" booth was manned by scouts from Troop 116 at Scout-O-Rama, the annual scout fair.

Bill Ewing—a lobbyist for children

By PHYLLIS CANNON
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — The poor families of Pomona have a real champion in mild-mannered, soft-spoken educator Bill G. Ewing.

Ewing doesn't call them poor.

He talks about children who lack opportunities for educational experience. He talks about low-and middle-income families, about 95 per cent of whom have only a mother and no father. He talks about teen-age parents.

Ewing, 38, the father of a 12-year-old boy, is supervisor of the Pomona Children's Center at 1351 S. Main St. where a high-caliber educational program is offered year round for 68 boys and girls 2 to 5 from these families.

At this site, Ewing also supervises a night program for 46 children 2 through 14 which operates from 2 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. Monday through Friday to lend a hand to needy parents who work swing shifts.

He also oversees the infant center at Park Avenue High School where a staff provides professional care for 26 babies of high school students in the district, keeping the young mothers in their classrooms.

His newest project is a special education program for children with emotional problems. Six children meet an hour a day at the Trinity Methodist Church with Marilue Cenoz, a consultant with the Pomona Valley Mental Health Authority, and her assistant, Diane Deeton, a clinical psychologist.

Ewing anticipates moving the program into a school, increasing enrollment to 10 and extending it to a half-day.

Mrs. Rubylee Gracy, coordinator of special education in Pomona schools, serves in an advisory capacity.

All of these programs function under the umbrella of the Pomona Unified School District and are financed with federal, state and district money.

Through all the programs, Ewing and his various staffs reach approximately 155 children.

"We've doubled the number of children we serve in a year," said Ewing. "I'm sure we will outgrow our facilities next year. I hope we will be able to expand and open elsewhere.

"I feel there is critical need here for services for children from infancy to adolescence. I feel we need services for from 800 to 1,000 children. It could be done. It just takes money."

Ewing said there is "critical" need for supervision for "many" children in the community right after school because "their parents are working and the children are left to fend for themselves.

"As long as we have a night program," he continued, "There is no reason for any family in Pomona to leave children home alone."

Ewing figures he'll need a budget of $280,000 for the 1974-75 fiscal year. Some $240,000 already is available from federal, state and local district funds. Ewing feels the still-needed $40,000 will be forthcoming, perhaps from the state.

Ewing claims the programs which were brought into being to serve families in real need are highly successful. He takes pride in the excellence of the programs. They have drawn the attention of educators throughout the state.

He points with pride to the infant center at Park Avenue High School which is being used as a model by districts throughout California faced with the challenge of keeping teen-age mothers in school.

Anyone needing services offered at the children's center, through the night program, in the special education program or at the infant center may contact Ewing by dialing 623-9504.

All-out war against Prop. 9

A second front has been opened in the all-out war against Proposition No. 9, the so-called Political Reform Initiative, on the June 4 Primary election ballot.

For weeks organized labor—the California Labor Federation, the Teamsters, the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, and United Auto Workers leaders have been hammering away against Proposition No. 9 as a denial of free speech, the right to petition, and an anti-labor measure.

This past week the California Chamber of Commerce added its potent voice to the campaign of opposition to Proposition No. 9. In a report prepared for its members, affiliated trade associations and local chambers of commerce, the California Chamber states:

"The greatest danger posed by Proposition 9, although its intent is justified, is that thousands of organizations which traditionally have supported such measures as clear water bonds, park and recreation bonds, and school bond issues will be driven from the political process or have their activities seriously impaired. Reporting and disclosure requirements are so complex and burdensome that small organizations will be hardest hit.

"California has been singled out by National Common Cause as a target state for drastic political reform even though the 1973 legislative session passed two major reform laws and the state has strict laws regulating lobbying activities. Proposition 9 duplicates the Waxman-Dymally Campaign Disclosure Act and the Moscone Conflict of Interests Act, which became effective January 1, 1974 and duplicates much of present lobbying regulation law.

"Typical of problems of overlap with existing laws is a provision of Proposition 9 which would return the statutes to the status of the 1973 Moscone Conflict of Interest Law. The legislature only this year amended the law to resolve problems which were forcing many citizens to resign public offices. The 1974 law, which the initiative would nullify, now requires public officials to list total incomes made through associations with a law firm, medical practice or business rather than list individual clients who paid them more than $250 a year.

"The initiative broadens the definition of 'lobbyist' so that substantial questions are raised whether the definition would include editorial writers, columnists and writers urging legislative or administrative action, and attorneys acting in behalf of clients, if they devote a substantial or regular portion of their time to communicating to any elective state official or agency or legislative official to influence legislative or administrative action. Since the initiative requires courts to 'liberally construe' its provisions, there is good reason to believe such persons would be covered."

As the tempo of the Proposition No. 9 campaign picks up it is obvious that more and more individuals and groups who feel their right to speak out in government will be impaired will join the fray. The measure is hardly all motherhood and the flag—and with 20,000 words of copy it is so complex that a great number of people are going to get swept up in its proposed bureaucratic maze of restrictions.

Freedom may look good

Those who seek to capitalize on the frustrations of inflation and shortages as a means of promoting further intrusion of big government into the affairs of private citizens may be in for a surprise. A knowledgeable observer of national trends notes that: "1973 was the year of Watergate, multiple disclosures of government corruption, inflation, shortages, controls that didn't work, mass invasions of privacy, higher costs and still-deteriorating service of the post office, bungling of the power problem. As a result, the American people may now be the least receptive since 1929 to the idea of turning to government for the solution to problems or getting things. done."

In retrospect, the concrete accomplishments of private enterprise that have given the country so much over the past century or more could begin to look pretty good compared to empty political promises of perpetual prosperity and abundance for all.

Land of plenty

During 1973, the cost of groceries went up about 20 per cent in the United States. Inflation hit the other countries, as, for example, Japan with 17 per cent, England with 13 percent, Italy and France 11 percent and Germany only 5 per cent. Food in the U.S. remains a bargain relative to average levels of income. The American people still spend a smaller percentage of their income for food than anyone else. But if this is to remain the land of plenty, it is time to quit disrupting the machinery of food production, processing and distribution with such things as erratic, scarcity-producing price control programs and massive bargain-basement sales of such things as wheat and feed grain stocks to other nations.

Low-cost health care centers blocked

WASHINGTON — Senate investigators have found that medical societies have put their pocketbooks before their patients by freezing out doctors who try to set up low-cost health care centers.

The societies, often made up of the wealthier doctors in the community, have created a quiet monopoly in one town after another. The result: higher costs at a time when all medical cost controls have just been lifted by the federal government.

This finding will surface this week in the Senate Antitrust subcommittee chaired by Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., who ironically looks like a stereotype of the oldtime doctor. Later this month, Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., will chair more hearings.

The ailment the senators will analyze is little known but costly to the ordinary patient and sometime fatal for the poor. It is the stranglehold that county, state and national medical societies have on almost all medical practice.

They can and have blocked doctors from forming clinics to dispense, good, reasonably-priced health care under a single comprehensive fee. Instead, the average ailing American must go to an individual doctor, or to a "clinic" set up by doctors who sock them with a separate fee for each ailment.

For poor patients, the attitude of the medical societies, often supported by government, can be disastrous. Poverty physicians have actually been banned from using local hospitals, dispensing medical information and even from practicing.

Typical of cases discovered by Hart's sleuths is that of a young idealistic physician, Dr. Daniel Blumenthal. He was determined to help a community of black cane workers in rural Louisiana.

Documents collected by Hart showed that among 107 people in the community, ranging from the aged to babies, "a total of 102 pathological diagnoses were made." Forty-two of the 107 needed immediate hospitalization.

The diseases ranged from tumors to various heart problems (including two with undiagnosed heart failure), rotten teeth, blindness, arthritis, alcoholism, various uclers, psychiatric disorders, emphysema and hernia. Ninety per cent of the children had worms.

The sugar companies paid the first five dollars of medical care, about enough to cure one case of worms.

As described in the Hart documents, the ordinary sugar worker "goes to a physician only when his children are sick with fever or pain, or when he or his wife has obvious pain.

"They usually go knowing they cannot afford the medical care and usually incur a bill that they cannot pay. The simple fact that they haven't paid their bill makes them feel guilty about going back to the physician."

As for the doctor, he spends "long hours seeing his regular paying patients" and sees the charity patients only when he must.

Blumenthal stepped into this medical nightmare and tried to help local antipoverty workers set up a clinic. Despite the fact that the clinic was only for the poor, the local medical society and doctors on a federally sponsored planning council blocked it.

When federal funds were finally obtained, the local doctors refused to approve the clinic as a National Health Service Corps site, so this ruled out a full-time government doctor.

In Arkansas, where Blumenthal had worked earlier, the county medical society and a federally funded county-hospital combined to thwart Vista doctors. After months of obstruction, Blumenthal and his poor patients sued and an uneasy out-of-court settlement was reached.

Later, in Alabama, Blumenthal served as a consultant for another poverty clinic, but was stymied by the Alabama state medical society. In this case, the Hart documents show, the U.S. Health, Education and Welfare Department refused funds to the clinic.

Blumenthal's experiences are not unique. The Hart studies have turned up similar medical outrages in Texas, Wisconsin, Massachusetts, Ohio and other states.

In Ohio for example, Charles Rawlings, then director of health consumer affairs at Case Western Reserve University, told Hart investigators how the American Medical Association killed his program.

Under a federal Public Health Service grant, Rawlings had prepared a simple slide show to demonstrate to Cleveland residents, particularly the poor, what their medical options were.

Rawlings' brisk, factual slides were accompanied by a text that said, "Private doctors have left the inner city and rural areas where people do not have as much money to pay them. Making large amounts of money is often a major consideration for many private physicians . . ."

The slide show also outlined how clinics could be set up to provide free or low-cost health care under a single roof for every disease from TB to VD.

When the American Medical Association and the Cleveland Academy of Medicine learned of the innocuous little presentation, they showed acute symptoms of soaring blood pressure.

The academy's executive director, Robert Lang, wrote a choleric letter to then U.S. Surgeon General Jesse Steinfeld.

"I am amazed . . . ," spluttered Lang. "This is obviously a piece of propaganda . . . I do strenuously object to the use of government funds. . ."

The American Medical Association published a three-column story and an editorial against the "sinisterly biased" slides. In a letter to the Health, Education and Welfare Department, the AMA suggested the grant be withdrawn.

Surgeon General Steinfeld stuck to his guns, but the AMA won anyway. Medical alumni of Case Western, the Cleveland Academy of Medicine and others put pressure on the university, which withdrew its support. A Case spokesman claimed it backed off for "academic" reasons, but other official Case sources said there was "a lot of correspondence and it wasn't the happiest."

These and other stories of medical malfeasance will make the medical establishment squirm. But there is stronger medicine still in the spoon. The Hart-Kennedy hearings may result in a formal request for antitrust action by the Justice Department against the AMA and other medical societies.

So they say

"How do you prove to the public that you're honest? You can't say it. (Spiro) Agnew said it but the words are not convincing."

Gossip for today

Want to make a fortune? Well then, take a tip from the United States Government — buy real estate and then wait for it to appreciate in value.

We purchased Louisiana for $15 million; Florida for $5 million; California and New Mexico for $15 million; Texas for $18.5 million; Arizona for $10 million; Alaska for $7,250,000; the Panama Canal for $40 million; the Panama Canal Strip for $10 million; and we assumed a $4 million debt for Hawaii. — Now take a look at what all that property is worth today.

One word of caution, however. It's fine to follow the U.S. example of investing in real estate in order to amass a fortune. But when it comes to spending your profits, I suggest you look elsewhere for advice.

Shakespeare said it first. "—a rose by any other name would smell as sweet." —Which, if nothing else, is historical evidence that a change of name has little if any effect on the basic characteristics of almost anything you care to mention.

Calling a barber a tonsorial artist has never yet improved a haircut. And a communications expediter is still a mailing room clerk who has been given a title instead of a raise in pay. —So, in spite of some very apparent wishful thinking on the part of the State Air Resources Board, I seriously doubt that government agency is going to accomplish much by insisting that from here on out smog alerts be called AIR POLLUTION EPISODES.

OUR MAN IN WASHINGTON

Nixon's survival hurt by comments

By RICK GOTCHER
P-B Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Richard Nixon's brutal comments about people, as revealed on the Watergate tape transcripts, are doing more to destroy his chances for survival than are any substantive revelations the transcripts may disclose.

All around Washington, the language of Nixon's discussions about those he worked with or planned to bludgeon with White House power is described as "vile." "The ravings of an egomaniac," or "the kind of stuff Hitler must have discussed with Goering."

While the town abounds with jokes about "deleted expletive" and "inaudible" — two administration attempts to clean up the transcript conversations — there is nothing laughable about the fact that Nixon very obviously has little regard for the people he works with, and even less for those with different views.

Time and again the transcripts show how various people within the administration were weighted against their ability to do the unsavory political missions that cropped up from Watergate.

When the President, Bob Haldeman and John Dean were discussing the payment of hush money to E. Howard Hunt, according to the transcript, it was decided to "sit on" Charles Colson.

During the conversation Nixon refers to Colson as "a name dropper" too impressed with his own status to keep quiet. Apparently, Colson's mouth is all that kept him from being privy to the payoff scheme that was the first crucial step in the Watergate cover-up attempt which came from the White House.

Bryce Harlow, another ousted Nixon aide, actually gains stature as a result of the transcript.

Blaming speaker of the House Carl Albert for a Government Accounting Office audit of White House political fund, Nixon, Haldeman and Dean decide it is necessary to "put a little heat" on the diminutive Oklahoman.

Nixon suggests sending Harlow to confront the speaker. But Haldeman, who wants to "expletive deleted" the speaker, says no — "he would just be pleasant and call him Mr. Speaker."

With such verbatim accounts as these and with others that classify former aide L. Patrick Gray as a "little stupid" and present aide Leonard Garment as the "panic-button type," Nixon has nearly washed clear the decks of his sinking ship of those administration stalwarts who have stood by him for so long.

Loyalty was an accepted credo at the White House before the transcripts. Indeed, many thought the sole reason Nixon was so reluctant to release material about Watergate was because he was returning the loyalty he seemed to so highly value.

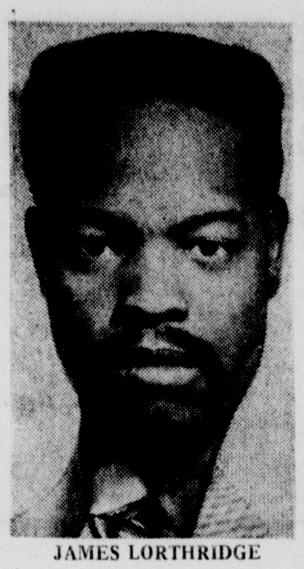
But as Nixon states in a conversation to John Dean, "Nobody is a friend of ours. Let's face it." And that clearly includes everyone outside the tight circle of Oval Office intimates, even though Nixon had assembled the largest White House staff in history.

The impression is making itself known.

Vice President Gerald Ford, at a recent correspondents dinner, guffawed about the transcripts, then seriously requested that he be considered a friend of everybody.

Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott, a previous strong supporter of Nixon's Watergate innocence, said this week the transcripts "represent a shabby, disgusting and immoral performance."

The transcripts are making Nixon look as bad as "expletive deleted."



JAMES LORTHRIDGE

New personnel director for Bonita schools

SAN DIMAS — James E. Lorthridge, principal at Ramona Intermediate School, has been named the new director of personnel for the Bonita Unified School District by the board of trustees.

Lorthridge replaces John Kowite in his new position which will become effective July 1. Kowite has requested reassignment as a district school psychologist.

For the past two years Lorthridge has been serving as principal at Ramona. He was formerly the assistant principal at Palomares Junior High School in Pomona and a staff member at Horace Mann Junior High School and Manual Arts Adult School in Los Angeles.

A native of Texas, Lorthridge received a bachelor's degree at Prairie View A&M College and has done graduate work at the University of Oklahoma, USC, UCLA and Pepperdine.

Oldest barber shop singer, 95, star of Claremont parade

CLAREMONT — Edmund C. Boynton, the oldest member of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America and the youngest member of the class of 1900 at Pomona College, will serve as grand marshal of the 1974 Claremont Fourth of July parade.

A resident of Claremont 25 years, Boynton was feted April 24 on his 95th birthday at a party at the Elks Lodge in Ontario by 250 well-wishers.

Parade publicity chairman Jeannette McSweeny announced Boynton's acceptance and said that applications for the big parade have been mailed to local groups and clubs.

Participants invited

Children's groups, church groups, service clubs, marching units, drill teams, bicycle and tricycle groups, equestrian units, decorated cars and trucks and novelty groups are invited to compete.

Special encouragement is being given to neighborhood groups to get together and submit an entry.

"Butterflies Are Free" won the sweepstakes award in 1973 for the El Barrio Park neighborhood.

A special award will be given in each of five categories to the entry in keeping with the country and western theme of "Foot Stompin' Fourth."

The first Mr. Whiskerino Contest has attracted more than 100 entries who are growing beards, goatees and sideburns to win a trophy on the Fourth.

Those wishing to enter and try to qualify at least for the "Peach Fuzz" trophy may visit one of the Claremont barber shops for an entry blank.

Three days

Mrs. McSweeny reported that tentative plans call for a continuous three-day holiday culminating in a fireworks display on the night of July 4 at the Pomona College Alumni Field. Robert C. Frampton, who has put on the show for the last 20 years, reports that the 1974 displays will contain new and exciting pieces.

A folk dance is scheduled for the Village July 2, and a square dance July 3 at Griswold's Pavilion.

The Fourth of July committee consists of Judy Kern, coordinator; Jean Funk, Jackie Siebert, and Joe Kutyla, parade cochairmen; Tom and Ellen Roach, entertainment and Mr. Whiskerino Contest; Robert Frampton, fireworks display; Betty Reinecke, chamber of commerce representative; Charlotte Connor, secretary; Angelo Agos, advance ticket sales; Jan Johnson and Carol Smith, Preschool Cowboy and Cowgirl Contest; Dale Buxton, communications; Ed Malan, Pomona College facilities; Charles Farritor, Claremont Civic Association; Gean Halliday and Sue French, youth commission; Terry Givens, chalk art and posters.

San Antonio marking 50th hospital year

UPLAND — Jack W. Kirkpatrick, associate executive director of the California Hospital Association, will be the guest speaker Tuesday at San Antonio Community Hospital during National Hospital Week and 50th Anniversary activities.

Kirkpatrick will offer "An Overview of Legislative Activity in the Health Field on both the Federal and State Levels" at a luncheon from noon to 2 p.m. in Aita Auditorium.

Events during the week begin today with a reception in the maternity unit honoring new mothers. Each new mother will receive an engraved silver spoon for her child. In addition, the oldest and the newest mother will be presented bouquets of roses.

Large-scale events for the public are not being held this year because of current construction which limits parking at the hospital, but a health career day and equipment fair will be held Thursday from 1 to 10 p.m. in Aita Auditorium for students from Alta Loma, Chaffey, Chino, Montclair, Ontario and Upland high schools.

This week's activities end Friday with an employe day tea celebrating the hospital's 50th year of operation from 2 to 4 p.m.

The hospital has been in operation at the San Bernardino Road location since Aug. 1, 1924, when 12 patients from the old hospital on San Antonio Avenue and Arrow Highway were transferred in. The first patient was admitted four days later.

From that 40-bed beginning, the hospital has expanded to a 300-bed facility. A 5.4 million construction project now underway will expand the hospital to 421 beds by 1980.

Miles of scenery

There are more than 200 miles of scenic roads in Yosemite National Park, according to the National Automobile Club.

Day leading Vander Poel's Pomona push

POMONA — Pomona businessman Roy O. Day will serve as Pomona city chairman for Peter Vander Poel of Chino, a candidate for the Republican nomination for Assemblyman in the 65th district.

Day's acceptance of the chairmanship was announced at a luncheon meeting Thursday at the Barrister restaurant.

Day, a longtime Republican leader, has directed campaigns for Pete Schabarum, Hugh Flournoy and Ernest Geddes, all former assemblymen from this area.

"Pete Vander Poel is well-known among all his associates as a successful businessman, and additionally for his outstanding service to the younger generation through his highly respected service on the Chino school board," Day stated.

"By comparison, I am certain no one of his opponents on the Republican ballot comes close to measuring up to Pete. He stands out in stature, maturity and proven ability to serve the people of this district in the manner we have come to expect," he said.

O-M board to review teacher hiring case

ONTARIO — Trustees of the Ontario-Montclair School District will review the reemployment case of sixth grade teacher Richard Shetley at a special meeting on Tuesday at 4 p.m. in the board room of the administration building.

Board members will have received the transcript of a hearing on Shetley's case before the special meeting and will review evidence publicly before going into executive session. After the executive session they will decide whether to re-employ Shetley as a teacher or dismiss him. He now teaches at Monte Vista Elementary School.

During the meeting Supt. Jack Jones will make a recommendation to the board.

The district presented 52 charges against Shetley, a probationary teacher, during his hearing. If re-employed, Shetley would be given tenure.

Chaffey High 'Dragon' will make school tour

ONTARIO — "Dragon Wagon," a 40-foot sleeping dragon supported on the backs of 18 members of the Chaffey High School play production class, will entertain children at seven Ontario, Montclair and Upland elementary schools within the next two weeks.

The presentation was conceived and directed by drama teacher Marilou Alexander. The Chaffey actors have created skits entitled "The Frog Prince," "The Word Game," "The Magic Box" and "I'm Hiding." Beverly Baker is a sleight-of-hand artist. Tracy Bartell is an airplane. Phil Caines, Paul Dana and Mark Foley play the ringmaster, the frog and a horse.

Other students in the cast are Ken Hinton, Lisa Hinton, Dennis Houlihan, Debbie Lane, Judy McKelvey, Donita Morrison and Lynn Montgomery.

Also, Mindy Rowe, Martha Smith, Scott Terry, Brian Tennant and Robin Williams.

Ken Hinton designed the sleeping dragon.

Audiences will range from 200 to 400 pupils. The "Dragon Wagon" will appear Tuesday at 1:50 p.m. at Citrus School in Upland; Wednesday, at 1:45 p.m. at Moreno School in Montclair; Thursday at 2 p.m. at Mission School in Ontario; Friday at 1:45 p.m. at Cypress School in Ontario; May 21, there will be two performances at Kingsley School in Montclair; May 22, at 1:45 p.m. at Upland's Valencia School; and on another day yet to be determined, at Bon View School in Ontario.

La Verne, San Dimas

97 students share $7,000 in civic awards

LA VERNE — Eighty-eight donors gave nearly $7,000 to 97 seniors of Bonita and San Dimas high schools towards their college expenses at the 11th annual Order of Merit Banquet held in the Fellowship Hall of the Church of the Brethren.

This annual dinner was established to recognize good scholars and give them some financial help for further education. Each recipient must have earned a 3.0 grade average or better during at least 34 years of his or her high school years. It is sponsored by individuals, businesses and industries of the two communities.

Recognition of excellent in the various departments was also given and was not limited to those who had averaged a 3.0 average in all subjects.

Departmental honors went to the following at Bonita High School: Robert Shutts in fine arts, julie Mishler in business education, Mary Row in instrumental music, Mark Western in English, Teresa Alvarez in home economics, Douglas Hickey in industrial arts, Sandra Williams in foreign laguages, Kenneth Neher in mathematics, Bob Rees in science, Charles Hedrick in drama, Cherie Hanawalt in social studies, Andrew Castro in physical education and Debra Edelbrock in physical education.

Faculty chosen awards went to Lori Drury for leadership in school spirit and Corlan Ortmayer for outsanding service to the school.

Dictionary is a problem

By ERMA BOMBECK

When the Good Lord was creating mothers He was into His sixth day of "overtime" when the angel appeared and said, "You're doing a lot of fiddling around on this one."

And the Lord said, "Have you read the spec on this order?

"She has to be completely washable, but not plastic.

"Have 180 movable parts. . .all replaceable.

"Run on black coffee and leftovers.

"Have a lap that disappears when she stand up.

"A kiss that can cure anything from a broken leg to a disappointed love affair.

"And six pairs of hands."

The angel shook her head slowly and said, "Six pairs of hands. . .no way."

"It's not the hands that are causing me problems," said the Lord. "It's the three pairs of eyes that mothers have to have."

"That's on the standard model?" asked the angel.

The Lord nodded. "One pair that sees through closed doors when she asks, 'What are you kids doing in there?' when she already knows. Another here in the back of her head that sees what she shouldn't but what she has to know, and of course the ones here in front so that she can look at a child when he goofs and say, 'I understand and I love you' without so much as uttering a word."

"Lord," said the angel touching His sleeve gently, "come to bed. Tomorrow. . . ."

"I can't," said the Lord, "I'm so close to creating something so close to myself. Already I have one who heals herself when she is sick . . . can feed a family of six on one pound of hamburger. . .and can get a 9-year-old to stand under a shower."

The angel circled the model of a mother very slowly. "It's too soft," she sighed.

"But tough!" said the Lord excitedly. "You cannot imagine what this Mother can do or endure."

"Can it think?"

"Not only think, but it can reason and compromise," said the Creator.

Finally, the angel bent over and ran her finger across the cheek. "There's a leak," she pronounced. "I told You You were trying to put too much into this model."

"It's not a leak," said the Lord. "It's a tear."

"What's it for?"

"It's for joy, sadness, disappointment, pain, loneliness and pride."

"You are a genius," said the angel.

The Lord looked somber. "I didn't put it there."

Pregnancy forecast technique is tested

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Scientists are working on techniques that would allow women to forecast the periods they can become pregnant by do-it-yourself tests of mucous secretions of the uterus, the Vatican Radio said Thursday.

The radio broadcast an interview with K.S. Moghissi, director of the gynecological clinic of Wayne University in Detroit, Mich., who participated in a recent meeting in Rome on ways to forecast ovulation.

Such forecasts would make it easier to control births by the socalled Rhythm method, approved by the Roman Catholic Church which bans artificial contraception.

Monghissi said some components of the mucus of the cervix, especially a enzyme called alkaline phosphate, decrease sharply in quantity two or three days before ovulation.

"We are currently studying ways to simplify and perfect this technique to establish if it can be successfully applied by wide strata of the population," Monghissi said." Our purpose is to put a woman in a position to determine by herself the decrease in the presence of this enzyme through a method measuring variations in the intentisity of color."

Another participant in the same round table meeting, Salvatore Mancuso of Rome's Sacred Heart Catholic University, said in a Vatican Radio interview last week tests of the chemical composition of a woman's saliva might serve the same purpose.

Locusts devour Thailand corn

BANGKOK (UPI) — A massive swarm of locusts has descended on central Thailand and destroyed 12,000 acres of corn, the Agricultural Department said recently.

The department said the locusts have appeared because of the early arrival of the rainy season. Farmland in six provinces has been affected by them.

His smoking bugs mother

By JEAN ADAMS

SMOKE SWATS: (Q.) I have been smoking for a long-time. My mother has been trying to get me to quit. Every time she has caught me at it she has gounded me for three days.

But last week she caught me and beat me with a stick. I'm 16 and too big for that.

How can I convince her I'm not doing anything bad? — Bruised in Pennsylvania

(A.) You can't convince ME that you aren't doing anything bad, so I can't tell you how to convince your mother that you aren't.

I think smoking is bad for you and that you should stop.

I agree that your mother shouldn't beat you. But you know how to stop that. Stop smoking.

NEXT STEP: (Q.) Tim and I are both 18 and we both work at the same place. He doesn't have a girl friend and I don't have a boy friend.

We talk to each other and have a few things in common, like swimming, tennis, baseball, music and history.

How can I tell him that I like him? Because I do! — Very Much in Maine

(A.) Invite him to call you on the telephone.

Or invite him to visit you at home some Saturday or Sunday when you know your parents will be at home.

Extension given on warrant ban

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Supervisor Kenneth Hahn said Monday the county's "month of forgiveness" for traffic tickets proved so successful this month that it will be extended through May.

He reported that 17,647 motorists with outstanding warrants for minor offenses paid $103,230 in fines from April 1 through April 26 to clear their records. He compared this with 4,865 tickets returned during the same period last year.

Drivers with tickets issued before Jan. 1 can pay fines between now and May 31 without paying the additional cost of warrants.

Prowler shoots Florence men

FLORENCE (UPI) — A Florence area man was shot and killed and his son seriously wounded Monday when they investigated what appeared to be a prowler in the home of a neighbor on vacation.

Police said Julio Lopez, 56, and his son, Antonio, 20, saw movement in the house next door and went to investigate. The elder Lopez was in the neighborhood's backyard when he was killed by a shotgun blast.

The younger Lopez gave chase, but was wounded after pursuing the prowler for two blocks.

He was admitted to County-USC Medical Center for treatment of shutgun wounds in the face, right shoulder and upper chest.

"Miracle Cure?"

5,000 YEAR OLD CHINESE HEALTH REMEDY FOUND

PEKING (Special)— Health researchers in China have uncovered an amazing rare old Chinese herb remedy that possesses spectacular healing qualities and reportedly has been used for 5,000 years to cure or give relief to a host of the most common illnesses suffered by mankind. Dramatic claims are being made that this "miracle herb" called ginseng, may actually hold the key to a longer healthier life. Indeed, there is one historical case of a user living to be 256 years old.

Helps Many Illnesses

Like acupuncture, the many healing properties of this remarkable herb were once considered "folklore and superstition", but modern researchers around the world are suggesting that it may actually regulate many of the body's processes to increase SEXUAL potency, help heal ULCERS, relieve ARTHRITIS, check graying or loss of HAIR, improve DIGESTION, slow down ARTERIOSCLEROSIS, relieve ASTHMA overcome FATIGUE, improve DIABETIC conditions, relieve inflammation of the URINARY TRACT, help chronic INSOMNIA, relieve BACKACHES and PAINS, and generally improve your health by increasing your body's potential to heal itself.

Safe, No Side Effects

Ginseng is not a drug, but an herb or vegetable that is extremely rich in vitamins and minerals. What's more, this amazing natural remedy is completely safe and non-toxic with no side effects. Unfortunately, high-grade ginseng is in short supply, and brokers and processors around the world are bracing themselves for a "run" on the market as the herb's purported "near miraculous" healing properties become more widely known to the general public.

Now Available in U.S.

Now you can get a generous 30-day supply of this amazing natural remedy direct from a major supplier by sending only $10.00 in check, cash or money order to Health Laboratory, Dept. 1, Box 2142, Palm Springs, Calif. 92262. This wonder herb is said to have helped millions of other people, and it may help your health problem too. Isn't it worth a try?

East awaits West's trade propositions

PRAGUE (UPI) — The Communist economic community, called Comecon in the West, is awaiting European Common Market proposals for establishing bloc-to-bloc trade relations.

"We are waiting for the Common Market to express some ideas on trade relations," said Rudolf Rohlicek, 45, Czechoslovakia's deputy premier, permanent representative to Comecon, and chief trade negotiator.

"We are ready to extend trade ties with western Europe and the United States, but efforts should also be made on the other side," the suave social scientist told UPI in an interview.

Rohlicek said disarray within the Common Market and high U.S. import duties were blocking progress.

"But I am optimistic that we shall overcome these initial difficulties and also be able to solve the problem of the unbalanced goods exchange between Czechoslovakia and the United States," he said.

Founded 25 years ago

Founded 25 years ago, Comecon links the Soviet Union, Poland, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Bulgaria, Romania, Hungary, Cuba and Mongolia. It accounts for ten per cent of world trade.

Common Market officials said in March that efforts to launch bloc-to-bloc trade negotiations with Comecon had failed because Common Market ministers had missed conciliatory signals from Moscow.

Previously, the Communists had refused to recognize the Common Market as a group and insisted on dealing with its nine members—Britain, West Germany, France, Italy, Ireland, Denmark, Belgium, Luxembourg and the Netherlands— individually.

Explaining the delay in bloc-to-bloc negotiations, Rohlicek, a tall, squarely-built, brown-haired man, said: "The problem is apparently the situation within the Common Market."

Wants U.S. trade

On trade with the United States, he said: "We are interested in intensifying trade with America. But high (U.S.) import duties have so far blocked our efforts."

Rohlicek, who took over as Czechoslovakia's permanent representative to Comecon earlier this year, said the granting of most-favored-nation trade status by the U.S. Congress to East European nations was a prerequisite for closer economic cooperation between them and the United States.

"I am convinced," he said, "that even those U.S. congressmen who up to now have refused to see reality will recognize that the world is changing."

Pakistan wants U.S. to rearm its military

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (UPI) — Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto wants the United States to rearm Pakistan.

In an exclusive interview with United Press International, Bhutto said the Soviet Union has given massive military assistance to India, the nation that defeated and dismembered his country in just 14 days in 1971.

"The climate all around is one of armament," Bhutto said, twisting a white handerchief as he spoke in the small library of his residence in this capital city.

"Pakistan's ability to defend itself, to offer a credible defense, has been in the past a deterrent to aggression in the subcontinent," Bhutto said.

He said the deterrent had been removed "and we saw what happened in 1971," when Pakistan's eastern wing was severed and the new nation of Bangladesh created.

Bhutto said two treaties, signed in 1954 and 1959 and never canceled, obligated Washington to supply arms to his country.

The United States suspended arms shipments to the Indian subcontinent when war broke out between India and Pakistan. India severely criticized Washington for previous U.S. shipments that poured into the Pakistani arsenal.

Bhutto, dressed casually in an olive shirt and matching pants, acknowledged that India "might sulk" if American arms shipments to Pakistan resumed, but said he doubted it would send U.S.-Indian relations skidding once again.

"The Soviet Union is arming India liberally, giving India massive assistance — modern missiles, airplanes, and naval equipment," Bhutto said. He added that Iraq also had received large quantities of Soviet military aid.

He blamed India for the lag in normalizing ties, which he said would "facilitate a lot of other natural developments between the two countries."

Bhutto warned that his nation and other poor countries faced extreme hardship in the future because of rising oil prices. He wants the rich oil producing states to come to the rescue of the struggling nations.

"Without economic assistance, without loans on very soft terms, we will be in a very difficult position," he said. "There is no doubt about that."

Pakistan, with all its economic problems, does fare better than the two neighbors that were victorious in 1971—India and Bangladesh.

Pakistan recently boosted the price of rice sold domestically in order to export more but rice prices here still are lower than elsewhere on the subcontinent.

Pakistan's problem, Bhutto said, is that its annual oil bill has more than quadrupled, from $70 million to more than $320 million.

He said increased oil prices have wrecked Pakistan's economic planning.

"Now the point is that some international or regional or bilateral solution will have to be found to give support to balance of payments gaps in countries like Pakistan," he said.

"The oil-producing countries will either have to devise some fund or work out something on the basis of what the U.S. has done to assist Europe and underdeveloped countries."

Or, he suggested a solution might be achieved through the World Bank or by creating new international agencies.

YOU CAN BECOME SLIM AND TRIM AGAIN

Vitamin 'E' Discovery Offers Fast Weight Loss

HOLLYWOOD (Special)- A new vitamin E diet that quickly works wonders on overweight people, is reportedly gaining great popularity across the country with glowing reports of easy weight loss "while still eating almost as much as you want."

Those who follow the simple Vitamin E diet report an average loss of up to a pound a day and even more without strenuous exercise or starvation. Testimonial files are bulging with happy testimonials from formerly overweight people who are now trim and slim again. Best of all, you can still eat almost as much as you want of the "forbidden foods" like steak, chicken, fish, sauces, gravies, bacon & eggs and still lose weight.

Chewable (candy-like) Vita-E tablets, as used in the diet plan, contain a new combination of ingredients that curbs and controls the appetite, while also giving the wonderous benefits of Vitamin E which is so essential to good health.

The use of the new Vitamin E Diet tablets and foods prescribed in the plan will, through natural action, act to help your body use up excess fat. A person with an improper diet, deficient in vitamins and exercise, can with the help of this diet plan "hasten" the utilization of body fat and carbohydrates causing loss of weight.

To get a copy of this highly successful diet and E Tablets, send $5.00 for 10 day supply (or $7.00 for 20 day supply or $10.00 for 30 day supply to: DIET-E-TABS, Dept. D7 , 20160 Allentown Dr., Woodland Hills, Cal. 91364 (Unconditional money-back guarantee if not satisfied).

Hawaii

Welfare Mecca?

HONOLULU (UPI) — Officials are trying to prevent Hawaii, long a lure for poor immigrants, from becoming a welfare mecca now that single, able-bodied persons are able to receive welfare checks.

In a major victory for the welfare rights movement but a fiscal burden for the state, a regulation keeping healthy, single persons off the state's general assistance program has been thrown out.

What emerged from the Hawaii legislature in place of the old regulation is one allowing single, able-bodied persons who have exhausted their unemployment benefits to receive welfare as long as the recipient registers with the state for employment, is willing to accept jobs and is not voluntarily unemployed.

The Department of Social Services and Housing, (DSSH), charged with administering welfare in the state, is doing its best to fill jobs from the welfare rolls while hundreds of new applications pour in each month from single persons without physical disabilities.

"We're under tremendous pressure," said Mrs. Beatrice Dawson, DSSH information specialist. "We're short of staff and short of money, but we're trying to come up with a program that will put the ablebodied to work in exchange for their welfare checks."

For decades, general assistance paid welfare money to single persons and childless couples who were partially disabled. The department required a person to produce a medical certificate of disability before granting welfare to an applicant claiming he was too sick to work.

Mrs. Dawson explained that since federal welfare programs take care of families with children and single parents, general assistance was adopted after the Depression "to help the working poor, not the freeloader." The program is totally financed by the state.

But last December, Circuit Court Judge Masato Doi ruled that the DSSH cannot legally require a person to produce a medical certificate of disability. Doi said the department could not require a welfare applicant to prove he is not able-bodied. But a glimmer of hope was offered in Doi's suggestion that the DSSH could seek to change the law.

Confident that all that was needed was a rewording of the old statute, the state administration went to the legislature with a measure denying general assistance welfare to all able-bodied persons except those with disabled spouses or dependent children ineligible under federal programs.

After much testimony from groups championing welfare rights and several re-writings, the DSSH and welfare groups compromised. Mrs. Dawson said although "we originally thought the legislature wouldn't want to support able-bodied persons, we found there was no chance the stringent measure would pass faced with overwhelming opposition from welfare groups."

The final measure allows an able-bodied resident to receive welfare if it is not his fault he is unemployed, he has exhausted unemployment benefits, registers with the state for employment and is willing to accept jobs, including public works employment, offered to him.

The burden of coming up with a practical way to enforce the stipulations is on the already overburdened DSSH. Since Doi's decision, the number of general assistance applicants has been rising at the rate of 500 per month, and officials predict it could cost the state millions of dollars a year to support the additional load.

Hawaii already has the highest percentage of resident aliens in terms of population, and it is expected that the new regulations will increase the flow even more.

Attracted by the myth of easy living in paradise, they find that the cost of living is higher than in any mainland city and employment for young people is scarce. Faced with the harsh economic realities, welfare isn't far away.

"There's a gap between the law and the actual program," Mrs. Dawson said. Welfare officials plan to assign the ablebodied jobs within state and county agencies so they would, in effect, "be earning their welfare checks."

"These are not the most glamorous jobs," Mrs. Dawson said. "They're often clerical, maintenance and janitorial. Hopefully, they will encourage the welfare recipient to seek gainful employment elsewhere."

But the labor program is just in its beginning stages, and a lot of organization needs to be done before it can be fully implemented. Meanwhile the welfare checks for the ablebodied are cranked out.

Mrs. Dawson said most of the single, able-bodied applicants who have swarmed into the office since Doi's decision are young, with about half from Hawaii and half from the mainland. The recipient receives $77.50 monthly plus his rent and utilities. Married couples receive $131.00. This can add up to quite a lot, and despite opposition from welfare groups, the DSSH is hoping to implement a new "flat grant" system where a single allotment would be provided for all expenses.

"Without flat grant, our expenses will go through the roof," Mrs. Dawson said.

"The legislature could have made things a lot simpler by passing a bill denying welfare to able-bodied persons except under extenuating circumstances," Mrs. Dawson said.

"But this is a real challenge to set up a workable program. A good one would meet real needs, encourage recipients to get off the rolls and provide the state with some services."

But acknowledging the difficulties ahead, Mrs. Dawson said "it may be that we'll just have to go back to the legislature next year and say it didn't work."

Cops & robbers game is fatal to 6-year-old

NORWALK (UPI) — An 8-year-old boy apparently accidentally shot and killed his 6-year-old brother recently during a game of cops and robbers, sheriff's deputies said.

Deputies said David Hurst and his younger brother Patrick apparently found two .38-caliber revolvers in their parents' bedroom and were playing with them while their parents were at work.

Patrick was struck in the chest by a single shot.

Deputies said the shooting was ruled accidental.

Boletin del Progreso

de la gente

EL ALCALDE de la ciudad de Mexico Octavio Senties permanece frente a una pintura gigantesca de arte mexicano, mientras dirige la palabra al pueblo de Los Angeles al esta ciudad unirse a Mexico en la celebracion del Cinco de Mayo. El alcalde Senties y el alcalde de Los Angeles pasaron el dia en compania y visitaron algunos puntos de la ciudad donde se celebraran fiestas todo el dia.

Mexico move para limitar la natalidad

MEXICO CITY — Mientras Mexico marcha muy prudentemente hacia un programa oficial voluntario con fines limitar los nacimientos, algunos observadores proponen medidas mas vigorosas para limitar en un 3.5 por ciento anual la natalidad y poner un alto a los abortos ilegales.

El control de la natalidad siempre ha sido en este pais un tema muy delicado, por razones religiosas y culturales.

Pero ultimamente se habla mas acerca de esto desde que el Presidente Luis Echeverria hizo de el, un asunto de politica nacional al crear el mes pasado el Concilio de Poblacion Nacional.

Opiniones van desde los que ven el control de la natalidad como un complot de las naciones poderosas para seguir sosteniendo su posicion, a aquellos que apoyan medidas mas vigorosas del control de la natalidad, incluyendo abortos legales.

El Ministro del Interior Mario Moya Palencia recientemente manifesto que Mexico debe estabilibar el crecimiento de la poblacion dentro de 15 a 30 anos, o "precipitar un flujo de poblacion, una catastrofe demografica."

Pero hasta ahora, oficiales gubernamentales han sido muy cuidadosos en usar terminos como "paternidad responsable" y "planeamiento de familia" y acentuar la indole voluntaria de cualquier programa de control de la natalidad que Mexico pueda idear.

Mientras tanto, en un esfuerzo para limitar las dimensiones de sus familias, aproximadamente medio millon de mujeres anualmente recurren a abortar, muy a menudo con resultados tragicos.

El Dr. Jose Rizo Santiago, presidente de la Asociacion Medica de la Secreteria de Salubridad, dice que cuando menos 5,000 mujeres fallecen a consencuencia de abortos anualmente.

El periodista Juan Jose Morales del diario matutino "El Universal" ha dicho, "Aunque ilegal, abortar es una practica muy comun."

Refiriendose a las mujeres que fallecen a consecuencias de un aborto, el escribe: "Al ver las consecuencias de esta carniceria, uno se pregunta si no seria mejor legalizar el abortar una vez por todas, para garantizar que esto debe de hacerse bajo condiciones higienicas y bajo atencion medica especializada, para que la vida de estas mujeros no este en peligro."

Un bien conocido economista mexicano ha sugerido que Mexico adopte "medidas regidas para el control de la natalidad—tal como los chinos y japonese estan haciendo — en las cuales abortar juega una parte muy importante. Donde usted conseguiria medios accesibles para todas las mujeres en edad de reproduccion para no tener hijos si ellas asi lo desean."

En su argumento por abortos legales, Morales se refirio a las practicas llevadas en Inglaterra, donde el abortar fue legalizado hace cinco anos.

Hay un aborto por cada siete nacimientos en Inglaterra, el comento. Por contraste, "en America Latina, incluyendo Mexico, se calcula que tantos o mas abortos occuren que nacimientos."

El gobierno recientemente anuncio planes para un Instituto Familiar que centralizaria tales cosas como orientacion familiar, consejos maritales, instruccion acerca del matrimonio y asuntos juveniles.

Tambien se habla de un subsidio gubernamental para familias numerosas.

La practica de union libre esta tan diseminada en Panama, que parece que ha ganado bastante aceptacion.

"Algunas uniones libres son tan estables como si las dos partes principales estuvieran legalmente casadas," dice la sociologa Valdez. "Si la union tiene establidad, seguridad y duracion deberia de dejarse asi."

En Panama, 'el mejor matrimonio es el amor'

PANAMA CITY (UPI) — Un agente de bienes raices le presume a un colega el manda sus 19 hijos a la escuela. El hecho de que el obtuvo sus hijos por medio de tres diferentes mujeres, ninguna siendo su esposa legal, apenas si causa admiracion.

Un extranjero puede sorprenderse al descubrir que sue vecino por los dos ultimos anos no esta casado con la senora con quien vive, a pesar de que la pareja tiene tres hijos ya crecidos.

Una anciana del interior del pais, quien crio una familia numerosa con un hombre con quien no estaba casada legalmente y ha sido abuela varias veces, rechaza la idea de matrimonio para ella.

"El dia que yo me case, su padre principiara a portarse mal," ella le dice a una hija mayor.

La palabra "illegitimo" es usada en Panama muy raramente al referirse a ninos nacidos fuera de matrimonio. Desde la constitucion de 1946 todos los ninos, nacidos ya sea a una pareja legalmente casada o no, son iguales delante de la ley.

Panamenos tienen un dicho: "El mejor matrimonio es amor." De acuerdo con las estadisticas gubernamentales, la mayoria de los panamenos aparentemente creen en esto. El Censo de 1970 muestra que el 29 por ciento de las personas de 15 anos en adelante viven en "union libre" contra el 26.7 por ciento de quienes estan casados legalmente.

El problema social causado por la ausencia de vinculos matrimoniales, no obstante, es ilustrado por otra estadistica. De las 60,624 personas que dijeron que ellos estaban separados de sus esposos, 45,559 nunca fueron legalmente unidos a sus esposos en primer lugar.

Que el problema se extiende mas alla de la verguenza que el termino medio de los panamenos tiene para decir "I do" delante de las personas autorizadas para celebrar matrimonios esta demostrada por aun otra estadistica. De cada 10 ninos nacidos en 1971, siete nacieron fuera de los lazos matrimoniales.

Los periodicos El Panama, America y El Matutino recientemente hablaban de la "peternidad irresponsable" en Panama, despues que un procurador general reporto que 15,000 mociones reclamando falta de pago en el sostenimiento y manutencion de ninos estaban obstruyendo las cortes de la ciudad de Panama.

La constitucion de 1946 dice que los padres tienen los mismos deberes hacia sus hijos illegitimos como para los legitimos. Leyes mas tarde dieron a las cortes la tarea de decidir que constituye "justo" sostenimiento de ninos cuando los padres rehusan a proveer por sus hijos voluntariamente.

Pero aun el peso de la ley y la incapacidad para cumplir sus obligaciones economicas ha fracasado a desanmiar a algunos.

El Juez de la Corte Juvenil Ala Fletcher, una autoridad en casos de sostenimiento de ninos, recuerda el caso de un peon quien solicito una reduccion en su pago-ordenado por la cortede dar $60 mensualmente para sus seis ninos que tuvo con una mujer a quien abandono.

Desde que el pago para su sostenimiento habia sido fijado, el replico, el habia tenido otros cinco hijos con otra mujer y su salario mensual de $140 no puede alcanzar para todo.

"El tenia solamente 29 anos de edad y ya con 11 hijos," dijo el Juez Fletcher. "Le ordene ir a hacaerse una operacion para no tener mas familia. No se si lo hizo o no. Pero evidentemente el era un peligro."

"Con tanta gente viviendo en uniones libres esto puede desintegrar la sociedad," dice la sociologista Elsa Valdez, directora dela Escuela de Servicios Sociales de la Universidad de Panama. "El individuo no pertene. Es muy importante que el hombre tenga relaciones familiares definidas."

Tradiciones espanolas han tenido menos poder en la vida de familia en Panama que en otros paises latinamericanos, quizas porque el pais es mas vulnerable a la influencia extranjera.

Inmigrantes de Colombia, America Central y el Caribe y sus descendientes forman la mayoria del millon y medio de la poblacion del pais. Normas culturales han emergido muy despacio de esta amalgama.

Stein sees dip in rate of inflation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Herbert Stein, chairman of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, predicted Friday that the nation's rate of inflation would fall to an annual level of about 6 per cent toward the end of the year. It has been running well above that level in recent months.

Foyt beats the rain to win Indy pole

Fans at Indianapolis Speedway display how they feel about A.J. Foyt

A.J.'s 191.6 m.p.h. beats 15 qualifiers

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Heavy-footed A.J. Foyt, hoping to match his three Indianapolis "500" victories by winning the pole position for the third time, was the fastest of 15 qualifiers Saturday for the May 26 million dollar auto race.

Eighteen spots remain to be filled after a thunderstorm closed the two and one-half mile oval.

The only other scheduled day to fill the field is next Saturday.

Approximately 4½ hours of qualifying time were lost by rain, but a crowd estimated by police at more than 150,000 was entertained by dozens of streakers after the initial rainfall early in the afternoon.

One of the streakers climbed the new tower at the starting line in full view of thousands of spectators.

Foyt, qualifying for his 17th straight race at Indianapolis, averaged 191.632 miles per hour —well off the record of nearly 198.5 by Johnny Rutherford last year—but none of his rivals came close to his four-lap speed.

Unless such veterans as Mario Andretti, Gordon Johncock or Mike Hiss can eclipse Foyt's speed, the Houston flier will sit on the pole for the 58th annual classic.

The first qualifiers averaged 184.252 miles an hour, more than eight miles slower than the same number last year. Because of safety considerations and the energy crisis of last winter, rule changes reduced engine power for the time trials, thus making it impossible for the drivers to equal or surpass last year's speeds.

Wally Dallenbach of East Brunswick, N.J., winner of last year's California "500," was the day's second fastest qualifier at 189.683, and Mike Mosley, of Clermont, Ind., completed the tentative front row at an average speed of 185.319.

Three rookies qualified for the first time—Bill Simpson of Hermosa Beach, Calif., Duane "Pancho" Carter Jr., of Huntington Beach, Calif., and Tom Sneva of Sprague, Wash., who just reached the pits after his 10-mile run when the rains came for the second time.

England's David Hobbs was the only foreign driver to qualify at 184.833.

Other qualifiers Saturday were Bobby Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., the 1974 California 500 winner; Gary Bettenhausen, Monrovia, Ind.; Jimmy Caruthers, Anaheim, Calif.; George Snider, Bakersfield, Calif.; Steve Krisiloff, Parsippany, N.J.; Bill Vukovich, Fresno, Calif.; Jerry Grant, Irvine, Calif., and Lloyd Ruby of Wichita Falls, Tex.

Leos too much for Stags

By DOW BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

LA VERNE — It was too much.

La Verne College's baseball team simply had too much of everything for Claremont-Mudd Saturday. The Leos had too much pitching, too much hitting and too much bench strength.

The poised Leopards clinched their third straight conference championship with a 5-1 victory over the Stags in the opener and came right back to notch an 8-1 win in the nightcap.

"It's just what I've been saying all along," grinned La Verne coach Ben Hines. "Our pitching strength is our main strength. It's going to be a big factor in the playoffs. I'm not knocking any other teams. But most other teams have only two pitchers. In order to go anywhere in the playoffs, you have to have three good starters, plus a good short relief pitcher and a good long relief pitcher."

Hines certainly has them in John Verhoeven, Dan Quisenberry and Robb Mayhew, a fine starting trio. Behind them are relievers Tim Kelly and Mike Ginocchio.

Verhoeven and Quisenberry stopped the Stags Saturday. The Leo aces each allowed the Stags a run and three hits. Both wound up the season with 10-1 records.

Quisenberry didn't allow an earned run. He finished the season with a 1.94 earned run average. His five strikeouts and two walks gave him season marks of 50 strikeouts and only 12 walks in 74 and 1-3rd innings.

Verhoeven struck out seven and walked three. The run against him was earned and he now carries a 1.35 ERA into the playoffs. Verhoeven has 81 strikeouts and 20 walks in 80 and 1-3rd innings.

The Leos apparently will draw the at-large team in their first playoff game at 8 p.m. Thursday at Quigley Park in the City of Commerce. La Verne finished regular season play with an excellent 16-2 record in the conference and a fine 28-6 mark overall.

Claremont-Mudd finished in a three-way tie for second place along with Whittier and Occidental, each with 12-6 records. However, the Stags won two of three games from each of the other two and also have the best overall record, 23-14.

The Stags now go into Monday's four-team playoff to determine the at-large berth in Thursday's NAIA Division Three Playoffs at Quigley Park.

Brad Rehn (11-4) will likely draw Monday's starting assignment against Westmont at Citrus College at 11 a.m.

In Saturday's first game, Verhoeven and Ed Matta (6-7) battled through two scoreless innings. But the Leopards broke loose for three runs in the third.

Hank Merenda started it off with a double. Paul Flemming hit a short single to right and Merenda had to hold. Matta got two strikes on Mike Alonso, but the big slugger was not to be denied. Matta's next pitch was inside Alonso. But he is so strong he was able to drive the ball to the base of the leftfield fence even though he hit it in the handle of the bat. Merenda scored and Flemming dashed around to third.

Wayne Redfearn grounded out and the runners held. But Nick Leyva singled sharply to right scoring both Flemming and Alonso.

The other two runs came in the sixth when Jeff O'Connor got a two-out single and Merenda smashed a home run over the rightfield fence.

NBA title series goes down to wire in Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — It's fitting that two such great basketball teams as the Boston Celtics and Milwaukee Bucks stretch their NBA championship series down to one, final game.

The six previous games in the series have brought the excitement to a fever pitch and resulted in difficulties with the large crowd that gathered Saturday to buy tickets for this afternoon's showdown.

Milwaukee police were out in force and ticket sales had to be halted at the Bucks downtown ticket office and moved out to the more expansive confines of Milwaukee County Stadium.

It's doubtful if any game can match the excitement of the sixth game—a double overtime affair that the Bucks won 102-101 on a hook shot by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar with three seconds left in the second extra period.

"I can't remember a playoff game like this," Milwaukee Coach Larry Costello said. "It was a real thriller."

The series has been a strange one, with the home court advantage fading into myth as each team has won twice on the other team's home court.

And Boston Coach Tom Heinsohn hit on one reason the series has been so exciting.

"We're a championship team and we're going to go out and do our thing," he said. "We're professionals."

John Havlicek, who admitted the sixth game was just a blur in his mind, talked about the attitude of both clubs, and about that same professionalism.

"We beat them there before and there's no reason we can't do it again," he said. "After we beat them there, I'm sure they felt badly but they came back thinking they could win and they did. We have to go out there with the same attitude."

The series has narrowed down to a battle between two excellently schooled teams. Both teams know what the other team is going to do and it's all a matter of execution now.

Royals rout Angels, 10-2

ANAHEIM (UPI) — Vada Pinson knocked in three runs with two doubles and a single and John Mayberry crashed a towering two-run homer Saturday night as the Kansas City Royals routed the California Angels, 10-2.

Kansas City has now won six straight Saturday massacres in a row, averaging 10 runs per game. The Royals collected 13 hits off a quintet of Angel hurlers to give righthander Steve Busby his fifth victory in eight decisions.

Cookie Rojas also collected three hits to extend his hitting streak to eight games. During that time he has collected 15 hits in 31 at-bats.

Busby was locked in a scoreless duel with loser Bill Stoneman, 1-3, until Mayberry cracked his 450-foot homer to center. The big first baseman's sixth homer followed a walk to Amos Otis with two outs in the sixth inning.

Kansas City then erupted for five runs on five hits in the seventh inning to tuck away its fifth victory in six games. Singles by Pinson, Otis and Hal McRae chased home the first three runs off Rudy May and then Rojas drove in two more with a double.

After being limited to three hits, the Angels finally scored their two runs in the seventh inning after two were out. Paul Schaal, newly acquired from the Royals, doubled in one run and scored the other on Tom McCraw's single.

Pinson's eighth inning double set up another three runs for the Royals.

Century record falls to Crockett's 9.0 seconds

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — It was something Ivory Crockett had wanted a long, long time.

He broke the world record in the 100-yard dash by a tenth of a second by flashing across the tape at 9.0 seconds Saturday and then beamed, "I wanted it so badly. So many times I've run 9.2 and got nothing for it.

"Even the record was getting crowded, come to think of it. I guess I fixed that." He broke the record at the Tom Black Classic track meet at the University of Tennessee.

The previous record for the 100 of 9.1 second was set first by Bob Hayes, now a wide receiver for the Dallas Cowboys, and later tied by six other runners — John Carlos, Charlie Green, Willie McGee, Jim Hines, Harry Jerome and Steve Williams.

Crockett said that running against highly-touted Tennessee freshman Reggie Jones helped to spur him on to the record. "I never worry about the other man but so much had been written about Jones that it helped."

Crockett also said he was glad he got the record in Knoxville. He was born in Tennessee in Halls near Memphis.

"We moved away when I was little but I'm still a Tennesseean," he said.

Crockett, who was running for the Philadelphia Pioneers, is now living in Peoria, Ill. where he is employed by IBM. He ran for Southern Illinois in his collegiate days.

Both Jones and Crockett ran 9.2 heats against the wind in prelim events.

He was timed by four judges. One judge had him at 9.1, two had him at 9.0 and one had him at 8.9. The electronic clock at the University of Tennesse had him at 8.94.

The wind gauge was within the limits allowed for a world's record, under four miles per hour, but the record will have to be certified by the American Track and Field Federation.

Locals set for NAIA playoffs

AZUSA — The schedule for next week's District Three NAIA Baseball Playoffs was announced Satuday night by Tom Nelson of Azusa Pacific.

Three teams, SCIAC champion La Verne Northern Division winner Cal State Dominguez, and Southern Division titlist APC, will begin play Thursday night with a fourth team to be chosen from a four-team playoff Monday.

Claremont-Mudd, Westmont, Whittier and Point Loma will all compete Monday for the at-large berth in Thursday's playoffs.

Claremont-Mudd (12-6) will play Westmont (1-1) Monday at 1 a.m. at Citrus College. Whittier (12-6) will meet Point Loma (15-7) at APC at 11 a.m. The two winners will meet at APC Monday afternoon at 3 p.m. with the winner of that game advancing to Thursday night's 8 p.m. playoff game against La Verne College.

Thursday's playoff games will be Commerce. APC and Cal State Dominguez open the tournament at 5 p.m. played at Quigley Park in the city of La Verne and the yet-to-be-determined at-large team play at 8 p.m.

Wynn belts three homers as Dodgers beat Pads, 9-6

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Jimmy Wynn hit three solo homers and drove in two more runs with a bases-loaded single to lead the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 9-6 victory over the San Diego Padres Saturday night.

The homers boosted Wynn's total to 11—tops in the National League and his RBIs swelled that figure to 29 and gave him the major league lead. He's the second player to hit three homers in one game— Don Demeter did it in 1959— since the club moved to Los Angeles.

Six of Wynn's homers and 13 of his RBIs have come against the Padres in six games. Wynn hit homers in the first, fifth and seventh. Willie Crawford one in the third for the Dodgers.

The win was credited to Charley Hough, who took over for starter Doug Rau in the fifth inning when the Padres scored four runs. Hough now is 1-1. Mike Corkins started for San Diego but couldn't get past the second inning and departed with the Dodgers ahead 6-0. Corkins now is 2-1.

Los Angeles got five in the second inning. Wynn drove in two with his single and Corkins balked in another. Bill Bucker's single and Rau's infield out produced the other two runs. Buckner has now hit safely in 13 games.

Nate Colbert cracked his fourth homer following Bobby Tolan's single in the fourth.

Ancient Title cops L.A. 'Cap with Pincay up

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Ancient Title maintained his record of never having been beaten at seven furlongs Saturday when he scored a neck victory in the 22nd running of the $54,700 Los Angeles Handicap at Hollywood Park in a race marred by a fatal accident of Linda's Chief.

Linda's Chief bolted into the rail shortly after the start and threw 18-year-old Steve Valdez over the fence.

Valdez suffered only bruises but Linda's Chief broke his back and had to be destroyed. He was the second leading money winner in the nation last year with earnings of $366,180.

Laffit Pincay kept Ancient Title close to the early pace of Cruisin Jack until the turn for home and then gunned his mount into the lead and held off the closing bid of Woodland Pines.

In scoring his fourth stakes victory in six starts this year, Ancient Title raced the seven furlongs in the exceptional time of 1:20 2-5.

It was the first time in six Los Angeles Handicaps that Don Pierce did not emerge the winner as his mount, defending champion Soft Victory, was third.

Tri Jet was fourth in the field of eight.

As the favorite, Ancient Title returned $6, $3.80 and $2.80. Woodland Pines paid $7.60 and $4.40, and Soft Victory's price was $2.80.

Alvaro Pineda moved Cruisin Jack out of the gate quickly. By the time the field came out of the chute to the main track, Cruisin Jack had a length lead over Ancient Title, which was followed by Tri Jet and Woodland Pines. Soft Victory lagged far back.

The horses maintained the same order until Pincay called on Ancient Title at the head of the stretch. He responded gamely and had enough speed left to withstand Woodland Pines' closing challenge.

The 4-year-old Linda's Chief was purchased last fall by Eugene, Ore., lumberman Aaron U. Jones for $1.8 million from breeder Neil Hellman of Florida.

Despite having won seven stakes last year, Linda's Chief could not gain a victory this season in seven starts. Bill Shoemaker gave up as his regular rider, relinquishing the mount to Valdez for the Los Angeles Handicap, which decided the sprint championship of the meeting.

Track veterinarians said Linda's Chief was paralyzed as a result of the accident and nothing could be done to save him.

The speedy colt was a son of Chieftain and was bred in Florida by Hellman. He had career earnings of $490,571, capturing the San Jacinto Stakes and San Felipe Handicap.

Linda's Chief was a star of the 1973 Santa Anita meeting. Among his other major victories were the California Derby at Golden Gate Fields, the Withers Stakes at Belmont and the Pontiac Grand Prix at Arlington Park.

Front office job for Hank

ATLANTA (UPI) — The Atlanta Braves announced Saturday that Hank Aaron will join the front office staff at the end of this season.

Bill Bartholomay, chairman of the board for the Braves, said Aaron's specific responsibilities will be outlined after the end of the season.

Aaron, who has hit 720 home runs, more than any other player in baseball history, is now in his 21st season at 40 years of age.

BULLDOGGING — Varsity quarterback Jim Zorn is ridden down by Dave Huey of the alumni Saturday night in Cal Poly's annual spring football game at Kellogg Field. Varsity won, 48-14.

Broncs rip alumni

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — Cal Poly's football fashion hasn't changed completely.

It's true the Broncos have new uniforms, a new coach and a lot of new character, but they still have 'some' of the same faces they had last year. Thank God!

Jim Zorn passed for four touchdowns, two to Joe Fabian and two to Mike Booker, and ran for two others as the 1974 Cal Poly Broncos crushed a mixture of former Broncs 48-14 in the annual Alumni game Saturday night at Kellogg Field before 1,500 spectators.

The highly partisan crowd sat on the front of their bleacher seats waiting to see what revelation the 'new' Broncos would come up with for the upcoming season.

The fans didn't have to wait long.

Just two minutes into the game the varsity's Robert Parades blocked an alumni punt on the 48-yard line.

Two plays later Zorn, the NCAA Division II total offense leader least year, connected with his favorite target Joe Fabian on a 46-yard touchdown pass.

Fabian, who led the California Collegiate Athletic Association in receptions last year with 1,066 ayrds, caught the ball on the 28 yard line broke for the sidelines and raced unmolested into the end zone.

First year coach Andy Vinci's team put 20 points on the scoreboard in the second period on Zorn paydirt-aerials.

The southpaw hit tight end Dave Stock for a 10 yard score and hooked up with Booker for six and four yard six-pointers.

The Alumni, who had won four of the last five games, scored on the final play of the first half former Bronco great Jack Surina hit another outstanding performer of the past Terry Lewis for a five yard score, as the varsity led 27-7 at intermission.

Zorn, who wound up completing 17 of 30 passes for 209 yards and rushing for another 87 (he was the game's top rusher), scored a third period tally on a five yard rollout.

Surina reciprocated the move early in the final stanza on a 10-yard keeper and the varsity retalliated with two more TD's on a 15 yard run by Zorn and a two yard burst by Jerrold Smith.

Surina finished the highly emotional evening connecting on 12 of 32 aeriels for 117 yards and had three intercepted, two by Scot Sanders.

The alumni wound up with just 257 yards total offense as Steve Alzugaray with 40 yards, Greg Cruz with 35 yards and Surina, a former Cal Poly total offense and passing record holder, netted 35 yards to account for the majority of their 155 yards rushing.

The varsity wound up with Darrell Stevens toting the ball 17 times for 77 yards. Fabian grabbed nine passes for 141 yards while Stock snatched five for 54 yards.

John Wiegmann, Lewis and Karl Finch each caught three passes for the alumni.

Jo Ann holds off Laura Baugh's bid

RALEIGH, N. C. (UPI) — Scrambling Jo Ann Prentice managed an even-par 72 Saturday to carry a two-stroke lead into Sunday's final round of the $35,000 American Defender Golf Classic.

The 18-year LPGA veteran's lead, cushioned by a recordshattering seven-under-par 65 in the opening round, withstood a charge by Laura Baugh, the 19-year-old blond beauty who was last season's LPGA Rookie of the year. Miss Baugh had a six-under-par 66, her lowest competitive round ever, to stand at five-under-par 139 for the tourney and alone in second place.

Miss Prentice, at seven-under-par 137 for the event, said she thought she could win the the tournament with a round of 70 Sunday but professed to be a bit worried.

"I lost something on my swing," she said. "I hope I can get it back."

In third place at four under-par 140 was 26-year-old Debbie Austin, a six-year tour Veteran looking for her first victory. Miss Austin slumped from an opening round five-under-par 67 to a one-over-par 73. She, too, blamed a poor swing that sent her iron shots astray.

Tied for fourth place at three-under-par 141 were Judy Rankin after a second round 71, Gail Denenberg after a 70, and Karolyn Kertzman after a 71.

Melnyk fires record 65, ties Hill for Houston lead

HOUSTON (UPI) — Young Floridian Steve Melnyk sank eight birdie putts to fire a course record 65 and red hot Dave Hill carded a 67 Saturday to move into a tie for the second round lead in the Houston Open by one stroke over youngsters Tom Kite and Bob Stanton.

It was Kite, the curly-haired Texan, who shared the first round lead with unknown Wally Armstrong. But while Kite slid to a one-under 71 Saturday Armstrong could do no better than par.

Armstrong's round tied him with Kermit Zarley at 139, two strokes off the lead.

A huge group of 12 golfers led by defending champion Bruce Crampton, Bruce Devlin, Ben Crenshaw and Homero Blancas finished two rounds at 140.

Melynk, 26-year-old pro from Jacksonville, Fla., said except for the putts that fell Saturday he did not hit the ball any differently.

"I've been playing pretty steady," he said after the sizzling round. "But I didn't play any better today than I have in the past two weeks. I just put it together a little better."

He birdied the four par fives with putts of 15, 5, 7 and 3 feet. He also sank birdie putts of 15 and 6 feet to offset one bogey.

Hill, who shot a 70 Thursday, eagled No. 10 with only a three foot putt to go with four other birdies, the longest on a 20-foot putt.

The 15-year tour pro from Jackson, Mich., downgraded his performance to take a shot at an official whom Hill said followed his threesome to speed them up.

Hill also criticized the cosponsoring Houston Golf Assso-ciation, and said even though he was playing "a little better" he does not expect to win the $30,000 first prize.

"They can keep it," he said. "I just want to win. I want to win and get even."

Kite, who said he shot "kind of a dull, boring round with a lot of pars," could manage only two birdies unlike his hot round in Thursday's opener.

"I hit it just about as well," he said, "but when I had it going right at the hole I didn't have the right distance."

Australian Bob Stanton collected four birdies on putts of less than seven feet, and only a three-putt green at No. 8 for a bogey took him out of a share of the lead.

Devlin, the 1972 Open winner, fired a 67 along with Jim Mccord to go with his 73 Thursday.

The warm sunny weather which followed Friday's torrential rains seemed to stir the golfers as players firing 68s were Tom Evans, Gibby Gilbert, Pat Fitzsimons, David Graham and Terry Diehl.

The 76 players firing 145 or better made the cut for Sunday's 36-hole finale.

Roscoe loses eligibility

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Roscoe Pondexter has forfeited his final year of basketball eligibility at Long Beach State by being on an AAU all-star team that will play nine games in five Russian cities, a university spokesman said Saturday.

The NCAA has not sanctioned the tour. The AAU team left for the Soviet Union Saturday.

Pondexter, a 6-7, 230-pound forward from Fresno, Calif., averaged 15.6 points to help Long Beach post a 24-2 record last season.

He was a two-time Pacific Coast Athletic Association first team all-star.

Pondexter and his younger brother, Clifton, a star freshman center at Long Beach last season, have submitted their names for the NBA's hardship draft.

Long Beach is on NCAA probation for at least two more seasons.

All-Star ducat orders

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Pirates will begin accepting mail orders June 17 for tickets to the 1974 All-Star Game to be played here July 23.

Reserved seats are priced at $10 per ticket and reserved general admission tickets are $8 each. Requests will be limited to two tickets per order.

Each order must be accompanied by a check or money order equal to the ticket prices plus a $1 mailing and handling charge payable to Pittsburgh Baseball Club, agent. A business size self-addressed envelope also should be included.

Mail orders should be sent to Pittsburgh Pirates, P.O. Box 1000 (for reserved seats) or P. O. Box 800 (for reserved general admission tickets), Pittsburgh, Pa. 15230.

The Pirates said only mail orders postmarked on or after June 17 would be accepted.

Tribe's Hermoso out for 3 months

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Cleveland Indians starting second baseman Angel Hermoso suffered torn cartilage in his left knee during a pileup with Baltimore's Don Baylor in a double-play situation Saturday, the Indians announced, and will require immediate surgery.

A spokesman for the Indians said Hermoso would be out for at least three months. The surgery was to be performed at Lutheran Medical Center by team physician Earl Brightman.

Good rookie year

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Franco Harris, the Pittsburgh Steelers' talented ball carrier, rushed for 100 or more yards in six consecutive games during his 1972 rookie season, an NFL record. The feat placed Harris in the record books alongside of Cleveland's Jim Brown, who did it in his second year as a pro.

'Hens, APC win; Poly draws blank

Regular season play in college baseball wound up Saturday.

Azusa Pacific clinched a division title and playoff berth. Pomona-Pitzer won a doubleheader and completed a rare series sweep. Cal Poly neither lost nor gained ground although the Broncos dropped two games.

APC won two games from USIU, 11-7 and 5-0. Pomona-Pitzer walloped hapless Caltech, 22-4 and 15-3. Poly drew two blanks and suffered a double whitewashing at Cal State Fullerton, both by 2-0 scores.

APC trailed 2-0, 6-4 and 7-5 before breaking the first game open against USIU with a five-run sixth. Mark Rogers' two-run home run was the big hit of the inning.

Ken Jones struck out nine in pitching the Cougars to victory in the second. Jones (8-1) walked five but was tough with men on base.

Chuck Van Schoych,'s two-run homer in the first inning was really all APC needed. Van Schoych finished the season with 14 roundtrippers and an amazing 69 runs batted in in 44 games.

APC wound up 29-15 overall and 18-4 in division play. The Cougars are slated to meet Cal State Dominguez in the opening round of the District Three playoffs at 5 p.m. Thursday.

Pomona-Pitzer raked Caltech hurling for 33 hits and 37 runs at Pasadena.

Biff Sherman went 4-for-9 in the two games, scoring five runs and batting in two. Sherman finished the season with an unofficial average of .516.

At Fullerton, Dave Klungeseter threw a five-hitter and John Allen followed with a two-hitter against Cal Poly.

Dennis Rogers got three of the Broncos' five hits in the opener. Pete Alexander and Nick Lusic got the others. Dick Parkhouse and Dennis Sherrow were the only Poly players to dent Allen in the second game.

Poly finished the season with a 9-13 conference record and in fourth place. Overall, the Broncos wound up 24-26.

BIG JUMP — Mark Wilson, a high school senior from Danville, Calif., high jumped 7-feet, 1¾ inches at the West Coast Relays in Fresno Friday. He won the event, but missed on three tries at 7-3.

Leos sweep C-M

Claremont-Mudd, held to a first-inning infield hit through six innings, came up with a run in the seventh.

Brad Koppel walked. Steve Lopez doubled down the third-base line to put runners on second and third with nobody out. Verhoeven got Jaime Opatrny on a pop to Flemming and struck out the dangerous Bill Vasek. Greg Thompson came through for the Stags with a single to center scoring Koppel. But Bob Turke popped to Rich Fielder to end the game.

Jim Sherman's leadoff home run in the second inning gave the Leos a 1-0 lead in the second game. The Stags tied it in the third on an unearned run. Errors on a tough play by Sherman at first and a wild throw by Quisenberry gave C-M its only run.

La Verne broke the game open in the fourth with four runs on four hits. There were singles by Leyva, Sherman, and Dave Long, a walk to Merenda and a three-run double by Eric Frazier.

Sherman was the top hitter with four hits including a homer and double in four times at bat.

"Our hitting is coming along," acknowledged Hines. "It's getting better right along. I'm very pleased with hitting consistency right down the lineup and with our overall defense."

Hines called Verhoeven's pitching "super" and said Mike Ginocchio, who wasn't used in either game Saturday, would be ready for the playoffs.

CIF 2-A prelims see locals qualify

By TIM CLARK
P-B Correspondent

PLACENTIA — Calvin Dupleasis has finally emerged from the shadows cast by other prep spikers this year. The Gladstone sprinter ran his best 440 of the year at the 2-A prelims held at Valencia High.

Dupleasis clocked a 49.7 in his heat of the quarter, and needless to say, won the race going away. Calvin also came up with a second in his 220 heat, finishing with a 22.7 behind Indio's "superman" Mike Harris.

Dan Hitchens of San Dimas gained a berth to the finals by finishing second in his 440 heat, with a mark of 49.9. Hitchens also anchored the Saints' Mile Relay team to a third spot in it's heat, with a time of 3:25.5 (The team's best mark of the year.)

The Hacienda League proved to be strong in the hurdles as John Lawrence of Alta Loma clocked a 14.7 for a second in the 120 highs. Shelley White of San Dimas and Jim Donaldson of Ontario also gained berths to the finals, finishing third and second in their respective heats. White's time was 14.7 while Donaldson's was 15.0. In the 180 lows, Marcus Jennings of Ontario captured a second in his heat, with a 19.7. Jennings also finished the day with a second in the long jump with a leap fo 23-1½, his best of the year.

David Warren of the Jaguars sprinted to a 10.3 clocking in the 100, finishing third in his heat. Warren also ran a leg on his team's 440 relay team, enabling them to capture third in their heat with a 43.8.

Besides Dupleasis, there were many other outstanding performances on the smoggy afternoon.

Eric Hulst of Laguna Beach, the top two-miler in the U.S., captured both of his heats in the mile and two mile, the latter rather easily. Hulst nipped Jon Konigh of La Canada at the wire in the mile heat, winning it at 4:16.4. The red-headed sophomore had an easier time in his two-mile run, hitting the tape at 9:25.4. This is actually sub-par for Hulst, who has run a 8:58.4 two-mile.

Mike Harris of Indio was possibly the day's most outstanding runner. Harris, who has the best time in the state this year in the 120 high hurdles with a 13.6, won his heat with a 14.2. Minutes later, Harris anchored his 440 relay team to a first place, with a time of 43.8.

Law peps SAL contingent

LONG BEACH — As expected, Chino High's Jayson Law will lead a field of nine San Antonio League varsity athletes and three SAL relay teams into the finals of the CIF 3-A track championships.

The super sophomore from Cowboy country qualified in two events at the CIF 3-A prelims at Long Beach Millikan High Saturday afternoon, and then ran an anchor leg in 49.7 seconds to put the Chino mile relay team into the finals.

Although he didn't turn in his best performances of the season, Law still advanced in the 100 and 220 yard dashes. He placed third in his heat of the 100 in 10.0 seconds, and then came back later to captured a first in his heat of the 220 in 22.4 seconds.

His double-qualifying performance overshadowed the victories turned in by the SAL's top half milers in Upland's Steve Scott and Ganesha's Glen Harter.

Scott, who won the SAL title in the half this season, won his heat in the 880 going away in 1:54.9. Just before his easy victory, Harter ran off with an unmolested victory in his heat in 1:56.4.

Both are ranked among the top five half milers in CIF this year, Scott running a best of 1:54.8 and Harter a 1:54.3.

Other varsity qualifiers from the SAL, who now visit Cerritos College next Friday night for the 3-A finals, include Montclair's Gerard Bryant in the 100, Chino's Don Cossey in the 100, Upland's Mark Sorenson in the mile run, Ganesha's Charles Stewart in the 180 low hurdles, Upland's Kevin Givens in the pole vault, and Claremont's John Powers in the pole vault.

Montclair's 440 relay team of Joe Speer, Filbert Gonzales, Larry Milton and Bryant advanced to the finals, along with the Cavs' mile relay quartet of Speer, Milton, Bryant and Gonzales.

Law's third leg of 49.7 took teammates Glen Davis, Steve Jacketti and Cossey into the finals as the Cowboys' mile relay quartet.

One of the disappointing performances came in the 120; high hurdles, where Pomona's Andre Hall, one of the top high hurdlers in CIF, failed to qualify after finishing fourth in 15.0 seconds. He had been running 14.5 seconds consistently for most of the season.

What wasn't disappointing was Ganesha's frosh-soph bid for a CIF title. The Giants tied with Gahr in number of qualifiers on the frosh-soph level — eight.

Ganesha coach Bud Peterson thought his younger club would have a shot at the 3-A championship, and they didn't let him down Saturday.

Sophomore hurdler Lloyd Jones qualified in two events (70 highs and 120; lows). He ran an incredible 8.8-second victory in the lows, which would have tied the CIF mark had it not been wind-aided.

Other Ganesha frosh-soph qualifiers included Frank Stiger in the 70 high hurdles, Carl Bailey in the 440, Darryl Gardener in the 220, James Bell in the long jump, Jim Lovett in the shot put and the Giants' quarter mile relay team.

But they guy who really did the job on the frosh-soph level was Garey's Stan Webster.

The super sophomore qualified in three events, setting a record in one of them. He won the long jump with a leap of 22 feet, 8¾ inches — topping the old mark of 22-4 by Morning side's Jon Sutton.

He also qualified with a second place finish in the 100 (10.2) and a third place finish in the 220 (23.2).

Pomona qualified six athletes in the frosh-soph division, while Montclair advanced five.

Trojans clinch crown with split over UCLA

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Defending NCAA baseball champion University of Southern California roared back to wallop UCLA 22-2 in the second game after losing 6-5 in the opener Saturday and win its fifth straight Pacific-8 Southern Division title.

The Trojans exploded in cheers when the score of the California-Stanford second game was announced. Cal took the nightcap 3-2 after Stanford won the first game 3-2 to move to within one win of dethroning Southern Cal in the Southern Division.

Designated hitter Steve Kemp drove in seven runs with four hits in four trips, including a pair of homers, for USC in its division-clinching romp.

Rich Dauer and Ken Huizenga also homered for the Trojans in the second contest. Dauer homered twice in the opener.

In the first game, UCLA won on a three-run seventh inning. With one out and one run in, the Bruins got a two-run homer from Mike Edwards.

USC, which has won four straight national titles, will host Northern Division winner Oregon here next weekend.

Oregon to meet Troy

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon defeated Oregon State, 10-9 and 6-5, Saturday to clinch the Northern Division title and the right to play USC for the Pac-8 baseball crown.

Oregon will be the Northern Division representatives even if Washington State ties the Ducks with an identical 12-6 record since the Webfoots have taken four of six games from the Cougars. WSU was to play Washington Sunday in doubleheader that was rained out Saturday.

Jim Willis was the hero of the Oregon attack, driving in four runs with a homer in the first game and getting another solo blast in the second. OSU threatened in the last of the ninth in the final game, bringing them within one after three runs, but a batter's interference call on a throw to second ended the game.

Cal Baptist cops net title

CLAREMONT — Cal Baptist captured the NAIA District III team tennis championship Saturday at Claremont-Mudd with 39 points.

Redlands wound up with a team total of 34 points while C-M finished third (19 pts.).

Redlands' top netman and No. 1 seed in the affair, Craig Edwards downed Cal Baptist's Dave Lucky (the 7th seed) 2-6, 6-4, 6-1 to capture the singles title.

The finals of the doubles competition will feature two Cal Baptist teams. Bengt Anthin-John Blomberg and Ron Elkins-Dave Lucky will battle for the crown Monday at Cal Baptist.

C-M's doubles tandem of Steve Kremm-Dave Waterhouse reached the semis before losing to Lucy and Elkins.

Cal Baptist qualifies for the Nationals to be held in Kansas City the first week of June.

Arrests in Indy melee

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Nearly a dozen persons were arrested Saturday at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway when a crowd of spectators got into a rock and bottle throwing melee with police.

The arrested were charged with disorderly conduct.

A half dozen police officers suffered cuts and other minor injuries from bottles and other thrown object.

One policeman sustained a bruise on his elbow and was taken to the hospital for x-rays, but later was released.

Some injuries were reported in the crowd gathered at the number one turn.

State police say the incident began when police moved in on the crowd after several persons had been spotted "streaking.."

Colts' Curtis inks for 3 years

BALTIMORE (UPI — Mike Curtis, described by General Manager Joe Thomas as "the best middle linebacker in pro football," has ended speculation that he would jump to the World Football League by signing a three-year contract with the Baltimore Colts.

Rich snaps hurdle mark at W.C. meet

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI) — Charles Rich snapped the tape at 13.3 in easy striding Saturday through the 120-yard hurdles to topple a 24-year-old relay record, one of three records to fall in the 47th annual West Coast Relays.

Rich broke the 13.5 record set in 1950 by Dick Attelsey of the University of Souttern California, which he equaled in a wind-aided run here last year.

Running with California International Track Club, Rich easily kept at bay his closest opponent—veteran Tommy Lee White of the Beverly Hills Striders, who finished with 13.5.

Vic Dias, Beverly Hills Striders, vaulted 17-6½ in the balmy night of the final day of competition, breaking Bob Seagran's mark of 17-6½ that stood since 1968. Dias won the event on fewer misses, with Kjell Issakson and Casey Carrigan both equalling the mark.

Dias tried three times at the 18-0 relays barrier, but brushed the bar to lose the bid.

Tom Gage, New York Athletic Club, toppled defending hammer throw champion George Frehn with 221-5 for the longest throw by an American this year. The field even mark easily beat unattached Frenn's 201-7 effort and the 206-7 record Frenn set last year.

The big disappointment of the meet was sprinter Steve Williams' failure in his bid to catch the elusive 9-flat 100.

7 Mounties make South Coast team

FULLERTON — Three-time defending champion Cerritos and runnerup Mt. San Antonio College dominated selections on the All-South Coast Conference baseball team chosen by coaches at Fullerton JC this week.

Cerritos placed eight players on the first and second teams and MSAC gained seven berths.

Topping the list of all-stars was Cerritos lefthander Dan Boone whose 9-1 record and 1.76 ERA earned him named player of the year honors. Falcon coach Wally Kincaid was honored by his peers by being named coach of the year.

MSAC players named to the first team were third baseman Kevin Bell, a freshman from Northview High in Covina, who batted .342 in conference games; outfielder Pat Corcoran, a sophomore who led the conference in htting with a .393 average; lefthander Bob Chaulk, a freshman from Ganesha High, who turned in a 2.18 ERA; and designated hitter Don Cashen, a sophomore, who batted .303.

Bell, who MSAC coach Art Mazmanian said was the top major league prospect he has had at the college, was signed by the Chicago White Sox this week. Bell was a first round choice of the Chisox in the January free agent draft.

Mounties chosen to the second team were catcher Steve Monka, second baseman Mark Bumstead and outfielder Jeff Corkill.

Bumstead and Bell led the team in runs batter in for the season with 28.

Five Citrus players top All-Mission

Five Citrus College players and three from cross-valley rival Chaffey were selected this week to the All-Mission Conference baseball team by conference coaches.

Citrus, which won 23 games and lost 12 on the season, placed pitchers Ron Walton and Eric Mustad, shortstop Phil Doktor, outfielder Randy Nall and catcher-first baseman-outfielder Gary Wiencek on the all-star squad.

Chaffey selections were catcher Dave Hill, outfielder Dennis Hawkins and utility fielder Dave Chavez.

Chaffey finished the year with a 22-15 record overall. The Panthers tied for the first round title in conference play but lost a playoff game to Palomar for the right to meet second round titlist San Diego, which won the conference championship in a playoff with Palomar.

Player of the year honors went to San Diego outfielder Chick Valley, who led the conference in hitting with a .412 average.

Citrus placed three pitchers on the squad with addition of Jim Arkison as an honorable mention choice. Arkison, Mustad, and Walton combined 16 winds and five losses. Arkison had a remarable 0.64 ERA.

All-Mission Conference

Dodgers, Giants renew memorable home run

LOS ANGELES — It was one of the most memorable home runs of all-time.

Ralph Branca threw the pitch; Bobby Thomson connected.

It was, of course, the home run which gave the Giants a 5-4 playoff victory over the Dodgers and the 1951 National League championship.

The memories of Dodger Giant battles are many. And the memories will be renewed on Sunday, June 23, when the Dodgers tage their annual Oldtimers Game.

The Oldtimers Game will start at 1 p.m. with the current Dodgers and Giants battling at 2 p.m.

Ralph Branca will be in a Dodger uniform again; and Bobby Thomson will be a Giant once more.

One of the first Giants to accept an invitation to perform in the game was Willie Mays. Naturally, with Mays around, Don Drysdale countered with his acceptance.

One of the great Giant heroes of alltime — Dusty Rhodes, the king of 1954 — will be present. Others who will be present include that old Dodger-killer who later became a Dodger — Sal Maglie; and also another player who performed both as a Dodger and Giant — second baseman Eddie Stanky. The list of former Giants also includes Tom Haller, Len Gabrielson, Hank Sauer, Fred fitzsimmons, Sid Gordon, and Johnny Mize.

Carson will help Strings' home debut

LOS ANGELES — Comedian Johnny Carson will give a special opening night welcome to fans at the Los Angeles Sports Arena Wednesday night, May 15, when the Los Angeles Strings make their home debut against the Florida Flamingos.

The Strings and Flamingoes are two of the 16 teams in the new World Team Tennis League.

The Strings will feature John Alexander, Marita Redondo, Kathy Harter, Karen Susman and Geoff Masters. The Flamingoes are led by South African Davis Cup player Cliff Drysdale.

Pro team tennis here to stay

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Former Stanford football and tennis star Jon Douglas believes the Los Angeles Strings are here to stay.

And the Strings, one of 16 teams in the new World Team Tennis circuit, haven't even debuted at home yet.

"The whole World Team Tennis concept excites me," said Douglas, 37, a Los Angeles real estate broker who is co-coach of the Strings.

"I really believe it will work. What we've done is take a red-hot sport and combined it with team play. This is what most American fans relate to."

With their first three matches scheduled on the road, the Strings opened their home schedule Wednesday night at the Los Angeles Sports Arena against the Florida Flamingoes. They're here Friday night against the Hawaii Leis.

Douglas, who reached the 1957 NCAA singles finals against Alex Olmedo of University of Southern California, has tabbed the Pittsburgh Triangles as the team to beat in WTT play.

"They have Ken Rosewall and Evonne Goolagong and Carole Graebner," he noted. "They should really be tough."

In spite of his title as co-coach of the Strings—with Bob Harman—Douglas concedes his job is mainly one of strategy and not instruction.

"There's no teaching, of course," he said. "But in the WTT, with play in two halves and such, there is some strategy, and this is one of the pluses.

"We'll watch and have some suggestions, mainly just reminders. It's amazing how many great tennis players sometimes forget their strengths.

"In usual tournament play, you have only yourself. There's nobody to remind you if you're doing something wrong. We'll be there to remind our players."

Australia's John Alexander, the Strings' top player, was excused from the team's first three road games due to Davis Cup duties. But he'll be on hand Wednesday and Friday nights.

The 23-year-old Alexander is the youngest player ever—at 17 —to play in the Davis Cup challenge round.

Also on the Strings' roster are 31-year-old Karen Susman, San Diego, 1962 Wimbledon women's singles champion; Marita Redondo, 18, National City, Calif.; Australian Geoff Masters, 22, and Kathy

Ontario International Road Races

Morton will display style

ONTARIO — John Morton, one of Southern California's most versatile and accomplished race driving products, is scheduled to demonstrate his smooth style during the Ontario International Road Races next weekend at Ontario Motor Speedway.

Morton, of El Segundo, will team again with Peace Corps Director Nick Craw in an attempt to score the second major triumph of the season for BMW in endurance competition.

They are entered as teammates in the Goodrich Western Three Hour event which provides the area with its first taste of night professional road racing. This B.G. Goodrich Radial Challenge Series race kicks off the formal competition on the gigantic weekend, starting at 6 p.m. on Saturday and finishing in darkness.

Also on the program Sunday is an 11 a.m. VW America Gold Cup Super Vee series race for open-wheeled, open-cockpit cars powered by Volkswagen engines and the featured four-hour Camel GT Challenge Series competition for cars in the Porsche Carrera, Corvette, Camaro, Pantera and Mustang class. It begins at 1 p.m.

Morton, a three-time National road racing champion, teams with Craw, defending co-champion of the Goodrich series, in an effort to continue their domination of this phase of International Motor Sports Association (IMSA) competition.

With Morton driving the early portion and Craw coming on at the midway point, they captured the opening event of the series at Road Atlanta (Ga.) with a two-lap margin on the field.

"It wasn't as easy as it sounded," Morton explains. "That is a highly competitive division this year and we really had to work for our advantage during the early part of the race."

Morton's superiority in this class of racing is well known. He earned national titles for Datsun in 1970-71 and '72 in the 2.5 Challenge series and was named "Datsun driver of the year" in world competition in '71.

He drove only three races in the class last year, winning at Mid-Ohio in Lexington, Ohio; running second at Lime Rock, Conn.; and leading until near the finish at Indianapolis (Ind.) Raceway Park when an engine broke.

The modest Morton's experience is not relegated strictly to the compact sedans or to the road circuits.

He also drove in three Formula 5000 races last season for more powerful open-wheeled racers. He also is going into his second year as a regular contender on the California Racing Association's oval spring circuit, where, he says, "I've enjoyed only limited success."

Morton indicates we will miss the next session for the Goodrich cars, featuring Pintos, Vegas, Gremlins and Opels, in addition to BMWs and Datsusn.

"I team with Nick only in the longer races, such as that at Ontario, where a co-driver is practical," he points out.

Qualifying for the entire three classes at Ontario Motor Speedway will be held on Saturday, stretching from 10 a.m. right up until the hour before the scheculed start of the Goodrich Western Three Hour marathon. Considerably more than 100 cars are expected to engage in the day-long practice-qualifying period.

Festivities get underway on Friday with an OMS open house scheduled from 5 to 9 p.m. when visitors will be allowed to roam the garage and pit locations, preparatory to a late practice period. It will enable Morton, Craw and others in the Goodrich series to accustom themselves to Ontario's 2.3-mile course in the period when dusk turns to darkness.

A $10 "Super Ticket," good for admission to the 700 miles of racing on boths days, is on sale in advance at track offices and at Ticketron outlets throughout southern California. single day prices are $5 for Saturday; $7 for Sunday.

Overnight infield camping on the Saturday date also is being encouraged by track officials.

Irvine Lake anglers enjoy high water level

ORANGE — Irvine Lake anglers are destined to enjoy one of the largest water storage capacity periods in recent years at the lake, according to lake concessionaire Russ Cleary.

Cleary says the water level has risen over 10 feet during the past five weeks, and plans call for the Irvine Company to raise the water level about 10 more vertical feet before the filling process is completed. Already, Cleary notes, the boat docks have had to be moved farther to the southeast along Trout Point, and the next move will be to move the docks to their high-water position in front of the tackle shop-cafe if further rising water necessitates the switch.

What this means to anglers is continued good fishing at the lake, Cleary explains. As the water level rises and continually covers new vegetation, the nutrients in the microscopic plant and animal life once on shore are mixed with the lake's water and enter the food chain. This provides food for the small lake organisms to feed upon, in turn being fed upon by the larger fishes.

Also, Cleary says, a bigger-lake helps to spread out angling pressure over a wider area and provides more cover for spawning catfish, bluegill, crappie and bass.

Trout set the pace at Irvine Lake over the weekend, reports Mrs. Alice Carlson at the lake tackle shop, although catfish, crappie and some bass were also taken. Many of the trout ranged in the 2-to 3-lb. class, she said, and limits were "fairly common if you know the lake."

A party of four — Herb, Ed, Gary and Scott Fawaz, from Cypress — checked in four trout limits, including a 3-pounder. Ray Green of Glendora had a limit to 3½ lbs.; Bob Marage of Anaheim took a limit to 2 lbs. and Al Johnson of Gardena had a limit to 2¼ lbs.

Biggest bass caught in fair action was the 5-lb. 12-oz. fish nabbed by Ron Lewis of Azusa. Catfish action continued to improve, evidenced by the two limits totalling 32 lbs. turned in by Cliff Chambers and Jim La Funt of Los Angeles. Their catch included 5¾ and 5-pounders.

Mrs. Carlson says shore angling for trout has been best off the west shore and off Trout Point, while some crappie are still being taken by anglers in the west shore coves and along the east side cliffs. Bass fishing has been fair off Rocky Point and the west side coves and catfish are hitting best in Santiago Flats.

Two stars

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI) — Two of the best backs in college football in the 1940's played at the University of Georgia in 1942.

Frank Sinkwich was the Heisman trophy winner on a team that went to the Rose Bowl and defeated UCLA. Charley Trippi was a sophomore on the same team. He came back to Georgia after World War II and was an all-America choice in 1946.

Lopez-Chacon fight doesn't figure to go full 10 rounds

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — In a fight that matches two of Los Angeles' fistic favorites, Danny "Little Red" Lopez and Bobby Chacon are set to battle in a 10-round featherweight bout at the Sports Arena May 24.

On the basis of what each man has done in the past, it doesn't figure to go the distance. Or even long.

"I plan on knocking this guy out as soon as I hit him," said the 21-year-old Lopez, the younger brother of former top welterweight contender Ernie "Indian Red" Lopez.

"If I nail a guy, he usually falls. I plan on nailing this guy."

In 23 pro starts, Lopez is unbeaten with 22 knockouts. His opponent, Chacon, is 23-1 with 21 KOs.

A native of Utah who moved here five years ago to turn professional, "Little Red" doesn't plan on changing his strategy against Chacon.

"I'll keep a lot of pressure on him," he explained. "That's what I've done in all my fights and its' worked out pretty good. When the guy you're fighting is going backwards, it's easier to nail him."

Chacon has been installed as a slight favorite because, the oddsmakers say, he's fought better opposition.

"I don't mind the odds," offered Lopez. "They don't bother me at all. The odds won't be doing the fighting. I will."

Lopez and Chacon are both top featherweight contenders now. But it took some time for Lopez to become a full-fledged 126-pounder. There is a 126-pound weigh limit for the May 24 bout.

"The difference in our weight was the reason we haven't met before," said "Little Red." I finally feel good at 25. Before, he was 26 and I was 22.

"I could never get down to 18 (the bantamweight limit of 118 pounds) again."

Lopez said he isn't worried about being stopped himself.

"I do get hit at times," he admitted, "but my style lends itself to that. But I think I can take a pretty good punch. I've been hit by some guys who can punch pretty good and I've never been knocked out."

Joe Mance of Candlewood Country Club shot a 70 recently to win the Diamond Bar Pro-Am Tournament. Runnerup in the 18-hole event was Kevin Fleiming with a 71.

Team winners were foursomes from Las Posas, Rolling Hills and Griffing Park courses. All shot 122 to win $66 apiece.

JOHN SWANSON, a Pomona resident and a member at Rancho Verde, shot a hole-in-one on the 178-yard, No. 10 at San Dimas Canyon recently.

Swanson has been playing golf four about 13 years. He used a five-iron to notch the ace.

THE FIRST ANNUAL Gil Stratton-Henry Mayo Newhall Memorial Hospital Open Golf Tournament has been set for Sunday, June 23, at the 72-par championship Valencia Golf Course in Santa Clarita Valley.

Announcement of the benefit tourney, proceeds of which will be directed to Henry Mayo Newhall Memorial Hospital's current $8.8 million building program, was made Thursday by Judge Adrian W. Adams of the Santa Clarita Municipal Court who heads the hospital's board of trustees.

Stratton, veteran Los Angeles CBS sportscaster, who has "called 'em as he sees 'em" for some 20 years, urged amateur golfers to join him and members of the sports-celebrity fraternity who will swing their clubs in behalf of the new general care facility.

"It will be agreat day for a great cause. "I'm delighted to be part of it," Stratton stated.

The Southern California High School Golf Program, sponsored by the Southern California section of the PGA, is the recipient of 10,000 "veevee" rubber molded form golf grips.

Walter Keller, PGA professional at Westwood, who cofounded the program with Diamond Bar's Howard Smith in 1965, donated the grips to the program.

The grips are being distributed without charge to high schools and colleges thruout California.

The molded grips are considered a valuable teaching aid for beginning golfers. They allow novices to take a correct grip on the club and begin hitting balls immediately.

THE NEW IRONWOOD golf course at Deep Canyon has proved a tough challenge to 40 professional golfers who failed to break par on the 7,275-yard layout.

On the first occasion the par-73 course was attacked by the pros (April 29), the pros lost. Monty Sanders of Montecito Country Club in Santa Barbara and Bob Zender, a PGA touring professional from Chicago, came in with one-over 74's to lead the field.

Despite the imposing length and degree of challenge Ironwood presents, the pros were unanimous in their praise of playing conditions and the job that was done by Glenn McGihon, Ironwood Golf and Tennis Club's golf professional and recreation manager.

The consensus was, Ironwood is the best new course the pros had seen in many years.

Sanders and Zender gained the distinction of setting the course record. Arnold Palmer, co-developer for the $100 million golf and tennis club, has scored lower on the course, but not for official purposes.

THE CLAREMONT HIGH golf team, coached by Ron Skaggs, turned in a perfect 15-0 record against other prp golf teams in the area this season. The team enters CIF competition next week.

CLARENCE AND RUSSELL Fisher shot a partner's best ball 59 to win a recent Los Serranos Men's Club tournament. The victory was good for $40 apiece in gift certificates.

Tennis Club to sponsor Invitational

CLAREMONT — The Claremont Tennis Club has announced plans for the first Claremont Invitational Tennis Tourney, to be held May 24 through 27 at the CTC courts.

The event, sanctioned by the U.S. Lawn Tennis Associaion, will feature many top-ranked tennis greats. Host pro Bob Sherman of the Claremont Tennis Club will be in action, and Sherman will be the top seed in the singles' competition.

Other names include John Faunce, formerly Bobby Rigg's doubles partner, Merwin Miller, Stan Clark and Doris Clark.

The public is invited to attend free of charge. Daily starting time will be 9 a.m

Cash only for hunt and fish licenses now

LONG BEACH — It's "cash only" from today on for people purchasing hunting and fishing licenses from the Department of Fish and Game.

The department has instructed its offices throughout the state not to accept any more personal checks from license buyers.

However, checks from business firms purchasing commercial fishing licenses or other permits can be accepted at the discretion of license agents.

People purchasing licenses, stamps and permits or paying special fees through the mail are advised to use certified checks, cashier's checks or money orders.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (UPI) — Star swimmers rate some pools faster than others and they found the pool at Belgrade much to their liking in the recent world swimming championships.

Kyle Rote Jr. visits L.A. today

LOS ANGELES — The North American Soccer League's Rookie-of-the-year, Kyle Rote Jr. leads the Dallas Tornado against the Los Angeles Aztecs at 3 p.m. today at East Los Angeles College Stadium.

Rote was the leading scorer in the NASL last season with 10 goals and 10 assists.

He attained a national reputation when he captured the "Superstars championship" and more than $53,000 in competition against the United States' most talented professional athletes in Rotunda, Fla. earlier this year.

Rote left Oklahoma State and a full football scholarship when he enrolled in the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn. The son of former New York Giants great Kyle Rote Sr. originally undertook soccer to improve his conditioning for football but its importance eventually overshadowed football.

Rote is an unusual athlete.

Although he was locked in apparently unresolvable contract negotiations with Dallas Tornado owner Lamar Hunt, he still worked out every day with the Dallas team and continued to work out in private past the time when his teammates had left the training field.

He made countless appearances throughout the country, answered numerous requests and continued his studies at the Perkins School of Theology on the campus of Southern Methodist University in Dallas. He was recently invited by Queen Elizabeth to present three awards to outstanding English athletes at the annual Fields of Great Britain Charity Ball and Awards Banquet.

He ended his contract holdouts by signing at 4:30 a.m., the morning of Dallas' NASL opener April 27 against St. Louis at Texas Stadium. Five minutes into the game, Rote scored a goal.

He had spent much of the previous night in a lengthy negotiation session with Dallas owner Lamar Hunt and Rote's agent.

Rote finally signed a three-year contract.

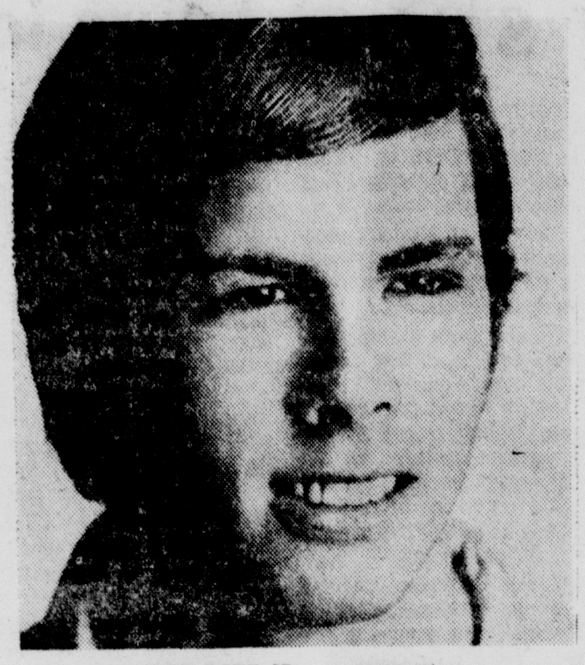
Last season, Rote and Ilija Mitic combined to give Dallas the best one-two scoring threat in the NASL. Mitic scored 12 goals and was credited with one assist.

Dallas has two new forwards flanking Rote on the front line — Albert Jackson and Tommy Gore, both from Wigan in Manchester, England. Adding depth to the Tornado lineup is John Coyne, the leading goal scorer in the Irish Republic this year.

The Tornado defense is anchored by goalkeeper Ken Cooper, a many-time NASL all-star. In 1972, he led the league with an 0.86 goals against average. Last year, he registered six shutouts and was credited with a league high 156 saves.

Dallas won th NASL championship in 1971 with a playoff victory against Atlanta. Dallas has made it to the playoffs during the past two years.

Last season, the Tornado was blanked in the championship game by Philadelphia 2-0.



KYLE ROTE JR. . . . soccer star

The presence of Kyle Rote Jr. and the Tornado in Dallas has sparked a soccer boom in Dallas. Thousands of youngsters are currently playing the sport which was practically non-existent six years ago.

"It is a remarkable sport," says Rote. "Its implications go far beyond the boundaries of any other sport. It is international and offers an endless horizon of competition to us in the United States. When we start reaching out and competing successfully in other nations and against other nations, then everyone will realize its attraction."

ON THEIR WAY — A group of distance runners from the Los Angeles Police Department took off from the U.S. Capitol in Washington Friday on a 3,820-mile "relay of goodwill" in observance of National Police Week. Plans call for the runners to finish on the steps of Los Angeles City Hall May 30. Lead runner is Eddie Esqueda.

Homosexual boys put in gay foster homes

NEW YORK (UPI) — Private child care agencies in the metropolitan area have quietly started a program of placing homosexual teen-age boys with homosexual foster parents, according to the National Gay Task Force.

The program has been conducted unofficially but with the knowledge of the state division of youth, the homosexual rights group said.

Tom Smith, director of community services for the gay organization, said he met with state youth officials and found them "pretty open" to officially sanctioning the program.

Smith said the program was started because the homosexual group "has gotten calls from hundreds of child care agencies who wanted to know if we could find housing for the kids,' who are aged 12 to 17.

"The agencies feel it is impossible to place an openly gay kid into a traditional foster setting," he said. "They just get tossed around from institution to institution until they reach legal age."

The organization does not actually place children with prospective gay foster parents, but refers homosexual adults to the private child care agencies. So far, 30 teenagers have been placed under this procedure.

Smith emphasized that the foster fathers are screened to make sure they have no ulterior motives. He said homosexual men have "long been denied an opportunity to become foster parents and a lot of gay people have expressed a desire to do so."

He added that when the teenagers are runaways, the gay rights group and the agencies have tried to contact their parents.

Smith said the group would "welcome and encourage" lesbian women to participate in such a program but none has come forward as yet.

Ron Gold, a spokesman for the group, said it hopes for official sanction which would allow gay foster parents to be licensed and receive child care payments.

He said the current program deals with "stopgap situations. They are things we are doing simply because there are no structured situations where they can be done."

Gold also said the program is not an effort to "prosyletize" homosexuality and that having a homosexual foster parent will not ultimately determine the teen-agers sexual orientation as an adult.

Northwest group opposed to Trident sub program

SEATTLE (UPI) — A fledgling organization known as CAT has sprung up in the Puget Sound area and it could throw some kinks into the Navy's multi-billion dollar plans to build the Trident submarine and base the new subs at Bangor, Wash.

CAT (Concerned About Trident) Chairman Irving Clark Jr. of Seattle emphasizes that the nonprofit corporation wasn't formed as "Citizens Against Trident," although its membership includes pacifists unalterably opposed to any new weaponry.

"This group was formed in (Bremerton, Wash.) mainly by environmentalists who want to be certain, if the project goes through, that the Navy has selected the best site for the base and will protect the environment," he said in an interview.

"I have a strong feeling the Navy hasn't even begun to give out the information that the public needs to evaluate the project. We are spending a lot of time looking at the project, and if we thought the Navy failed to comply either with the Freedom of Information Act or the national Environmental Policy Act, we probably would sue the Navy in federal court."

Clark said the Navy's recent public hearing in Kitsap County, which attracted mostly opposition to the Trident project, was relatively unimportant. He said any significant action of long range importance would have to come in court or the Congress.

Since CAT was organized last December it has been joined by such prominent persons as Walter W. Heller, economics professor at the University of Minnesota and former economic adviser to Presidents Kennedy and Johnson; Vincent Shaefer, New York atmospheric scientist; David Sive, New York attorney specializing in environmental cases, and George Lhamon, vice president of Pacific Car and Foundary, Seattle.

"We are an umbrella organization in the sense that we don't all agree with each other," said Clark, an attorney also active in environmental issues. "We have pacifists who don't want Trident or any new weaponry. We have environmentalists and we have economists who have the taxpayers' concern.

"The environmentalists are predominant because that is the local issue and we started as a local organization. We will build it nationally through the taxpayers side of it.

"I'd just as soon not see the pacifists in the forefront. They aren't going to stop the Trident by rowing a canoe out in front of a submarine —that's silly. That was their tactic in trying to stop ammunition shipments to Vietnam (from Bangor) and it didn't work.

"A larger issue, in which Heller is particularly interested, is whether it's a giant Defense Department boondogle, a ripoff of the taxpayer. That's a separate issue, but we (the environmentalists) are interested in that also."

Heller owns property about a mile south of Bangor on Hood Canal, a beautiful and relatively unspoiled natural arm of Puget Sound.

The economist said after a recent visit there that the Trident project was "a bum investment." He termed the 16,000-ton, 550-foot subs "huge, vulnerable behemoths of the seas" and said:

"We should think not just once, but two or three times about putting such a huge chunk in our defensive egg basket. I realize the Polaris-Poseidon system won't last forever, but it could be replaced sometime in the 1980s and maybe Trident isn't the logical replacement. Hurrying this thing (the Navy would like Trident in the water by 1978) will only produce higher costs and inefficiencies."

Heller said the fact he owns property near the proposed site may tend to make his opposition suspect. But he noted that as a Boeing Co. stockholder he fought against the supersonic transport (SST) because he considered it "economic nonsense."

Clark said CAT, as an investigative organization, has no plans to lobby in Congress.

"But if we reached the point where we decided it is a bad project, then I think we'd start working on members of the Congress," he said. "We have not reached that point yet."

Clark said he actively is seeking funds from local and national foundations. "I've just made a pitch to the Ford Foundation which has given funds to groups trying to get better environmental impact statements."

He said the Navy's environmental statement is well written "in lucid English" but fails to adequately answer questions about radiation problems, ground water, air pollution and alternative sites.

Clark said estimates that the Trident project will add 27,000 to the population of the Bremerton-Bangor areas of Kitsap County are causing an increasing number of residents to worry about the mammoth problems of schools, housing and sewage systems.

"Every day that goes by, fewer people in Kitsap County are for this project, at first greeted as economic good news," he said.

Clark said he has difficulty imagining a Trident sub in Hood Canal. He recalled that while competing in a sailing race several years ago, a Nautilus class sub —less than half the size of a Trident — went by "leaving a wake that washed straight over our (45-foot) boat."

"Can you imagine something the size of Trident in Hood Canal?"

Czech writer loses rights

PRAGUE (UPI) — Slovak authorities have stripped Eduard Goldstuecker, former chairman of the Czechoslovak Writers' Union, of his citizenship because of activities hostile to the state, the Czechoslovak news agency CTK said.

"The Slovak Interior Ministry has stripped Goldstuecker of Slovak citizenship because he stayed abroad and carried out activities hostile to Czechoslovakia," CTK said. "Under the law Goldstuecker loses also his Czechoslovak citizenship."

Goldstuecker, 61, fled Czechoslovakia after the Soviet-led Warsaw Pact invasion in 1968.

More oil products now than year ago

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American Petroleum Institute estimates that with the exception of heavy fuel oils, there are more petroleum products available now than at the same time a year ago.

The API weekly list showed gasoline stocks at 233.32 million barrels; up 15 million barrels from 1973, jet fuel at 30.7 million barrels; up 2 million, fuel oil at 127 million barrels; up 19 million barrels and supplies of heavier oils down only 47 million barrels from last year.

Ban on racial segregation in public schools near its 20th anniversary

By IRA BERKOW

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — May 17 will mark 20 turbulent years since that Monday afternoon. Earl Warren, white-haried and black-robed, delivered for 28 minutes the unanimous and still cataclysmic opinion of the highest court in the land.

The marble-columned courtroom was packed with hushed spectators. All the jusitices—including Robert Jackson, making a surprise appearance after a recent heart attack — listened intently as the Chief Justice read:

"To separate black school children from others of similar age and qualifications solely because of their race generates a feeling of inferiority as to their status in the community that may affect their hearts and minds in a way unlikely ever to be undone . . .

"We conclude that in the field of education the doctrine of 'separate but equal' has no place. Separate educational facilities are inherently unequal."

Thus racial segregation in public schools was outlawed and declared unconstitutional in the 21 states and the District of Columbia in which it was practiced.

Earl Warren is 83 now. Retired as Chief Justice of the United States since June, 1969, he maintains an office in the Supreme Court Building here. He remains erect-looking, tall, solidly built, with an easy smile and unpretentious blue eyes behind thin-rimmed glasses. He seems now to suffer from a slight hearing problem.

In a rare, exclusive interview, Warren recalled recently the case that is officially known as Brown et al. vs. Board of Education.

"There was drama in the courtroom, all right," he said. "You could feel the tension and the excitement. We knew this would be historic. After all, we even had the attorneys general of seven states argue the case before us. And we knew the decision would affect the way of life and the constitutional theories of millions of citizens.

"We gave the decision after prolonged consideration and collaboration among the justices."

The processes by which the justices arrive at their decisions remain secrets of history. There were rumors, however, of divisiveness among the justices. Very few major rulings of the court are unanimous. The unexpected unanimity of the court surely gave the decision greater weight among the forces which resisted school desegregation. The Chief Justice initiates and leads the discussions in the judicial conferences which precede the writings of opinions.

Thus, Earl Warren, whose greatest strength perhaps was his persuasive powers—he was once elected governor of California on both the Republican and Democratic tickets—was given much credit for the court's solidarity on the Brown case.

He believes that there was never any doubt about how the issue should have been decided.

"There was only one question in the case," said Warren. "And that was, 'Is it a violation of the constitution to separate the races in the public schools notwithstanding the fact that the physical facilities are equal?' We believe it was.

"Since 1896 in the Supreme Court case of Plessy vs. Ferguson, courts have ruled for separate but equal. But in the years preceding the Brown decision, there had been a growing change in the court's thinking. The court is evolutionary not revolutionary, don't you see. And we had been opening our eyes to the fact that many places adhered to the separate part, but not to the equal part.

"A law school in Texas for example, had admitted a black student but had refused to allow him use of the library and the cafeteria and did not allow him in class discusions. The Supreme Court struck that down. That was one of four such cases struck down prior to Brown. So there was a whittling down all the time of the separate but equal doctrine.

"Many people felt that (Brown) was more a sociological decision than anything else. I think that belief came from my statement about segregation possibly affecting little children all their lives. The fact is, Brown was decided on equal protection of the laws as stated in the Fourteenth Amendment."

Warren said that the decision was made on an impersonal basis, not formulated according to any political or personal philosophy.

Some two or three months after the decision, Warren remembers coming to his office on a Saturday morning and rummaging through his mail.

"There were only about 600 letters pertaining to the case," he said. "I was surprised at the small number." Some letter writers praised him for helping to advance the democratic process.

However, detractors write that the Court had decided against the will of God, Warren recalled. "They said 'If He had intended integration, He would have made all the colors the same.' "

"Another one said, 'If Christ had believed in desegregation, He would have had some black disciples.' There were a lot of Scripture references. I never read my fan mail after that."

Warren was asked, regarding the hate mail and the "Impeach Earl Warren" campaing that sprung up at the time, whether he was ever frightened for his life. He laughed. "I've had tougher jobs than this one and I never needed a bodyguard. It's not the way I wanted to live my life." As a prosecutor in California, his life had been threatened by labor and gambling racketeers and by the Ku Klux Klan. (He was instrumental as a district attorney in the 1920s in sending a KKK sheriff to jail for graft.)

One aspect of the Brown decision that came under great attack was implementation. After a year of arguments, Warren wrote in the so-called "Brown II" decision that each state would through its courts carry out the integration edict "with all deliberate speed," "That was an old phrase, a British admirality phrase, 'with all deliberate speed,' " said Warren. "And one of our early cases in this country used it. It is what is known as a 'phrase of art.' But education is a state function. Every state has its own table of organization, its own manner of functioning. There is one pattern under our federal system that directed our decision.

"We thought it best that desegration conflicts be taken through the trial courts because the courts are closest to the people and the procedure believed that the legislative body should have accepted that burden of implementation and nor the courts. But Warren replies, "Corporations for over a hundred years have used the courts to litigate. Corporations got themselves established as persons, with all the rights and immunities and due process. So what is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander."

One of the most controversial court decisions in recent years—the sanctioning of busing to insure integration in public schools—was a direct descendant of the Brown case. "Busing is a tool, not a principle," said Warren. "It has been used by the courts only to remedy the patterns of segregation. It is a device to implement the Brown case.

"I'm sure every parent, white or black—myself included—would want their children going to school close to home. But we have to remember where we come from. We used to bus black children 50 miles to a school when next door to their home was a school they could not attend because it was for whites only.

"Since the Court permitted the busing device, I've read that over 40 per cent of our children are bused for one reason or another. But only one or two per cent are bused for racial reasons. I think that the busing device is in the interest of better education."

Since his retirement, Warren has enjoyed going to college campuses as both a visiting professor and guest lecturer. He recalls a recent appearance at the University of Georgia. "It was hard to believe," he said. "There crowded into a room and siting all around the floor, were black and white students gaore.

"This was a trememdous change. There were no racial problems at all, and these students were collaborating with each other. I don't mean the racial problem doesn't exist anymore. I mean there has been progress in our system. We prided ourselves on having a multiple society. And we said the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag . . . and to the Republic . . with liberty and justice for all.

"Still we haven't achieved it, but we're working toward it.

"I think a lot of people overlook what has been done by Brown vs. Board of Education and it progeny. Before this, in places in the South, no black man could eat in the same restaurant with a white man or sleep in the same hotel or stay in the same hospital. Interracial marriages were illegal; a black man could not even be picked up on the street by an ambulance accustomed to carrying white people. A black man could not sit in common in a theater with whites. And the worst irony of all, the dead black could not be buried in the same cemetery with dead whites.

"Anyone who values the principles this country was founded on would have to resent such practices. And that has all changed in rulings subsequent to Brown.

"The courts have done a tremendous job since 1954, and under great difficulties, because of the recalcitrance of many. The process has not been fully developed. But we can hope, I think, for continuing progress. We've got to believe that there is more good than evil in people. If we lose faith in mankind, we've lost everything."

Chief Justice Warren continued: "We can't be satisfied until everyone in this nation stands on the same basis before the law. I don't know if we'll ever achieve it. The law, like human beings, is never perfect. But it is always striving in its attempt to institutionalize freedom and justice."

He spoke quietly, clearly, simply, without rhetorical flourishes. Even those present in the courtroom could not grasp the full signifance of Chief Justice Earl Warren's words until he drew to a close. Then, within minutes, the news was flashed the length and breadth of the land . . .

The decision was at once recognized as one of the half-dozen most important handed down by the United States Supreme Court during the 164 years of its existence.

Tablet may yield secrets of old tongue

PARIS (UPI) — A four foot high tablet of stone buried for some 20 centuries could unlock the secrets of an ancient tongue of Asia Minor that has baffled historians for years, French experts believe.

The four faceted limestone tablet, comparable to the famed Rosetta Stone which led to the deciphering of Egyptian hieroglyphics, contains identical engraved texts in Lycian, Aramaic and Greek on three different faces.

An archaeological team led by Prof. Henri Metzger of France's Lyon University unearthed the tablet last summer in southern Turkey. Metzger, who presented the find in Paris, said the Lycian Stone "should allow us to make substantial headway in understanding more about the Lycian tongue."

Other experts said they thought a study of the tablet could mean a breakthrough in deciphering Lycian, a holdout among ancient Mediterranean tongues.

The stone's inscription announces the establishment of two new gods by Pixodaros, a local governor. Metzger dated the stone at 358 B.C., the first year Artaxerxes III reigned over the Persian Empire.

By comparing the Lycian text to the better known Greek and Aramaic versions, scholars hope to determine the meaning of unknown characters. Aramaic was the official language of the Persian Empire, as well as the language of Christ.

Previous discoveries of bilingual Lycian stones helped give experts some idea of how to read Lycian but a complete mastery of the language eluded them. Ten characters in the Lycian alphabet which had no equivalent among Indo-European languages stumped the linguists.

Metzger and others now hope to solve the mystery by decoding the key characters and thus "crack" the Lycian alphabet.

The Lycians were a seafaring people who settled modern Turkey's south Mediterranean coast and rugged, mountainous interior. They are thought to have fought in the Trojan War.

The tablet, which Metzger described as being in superb condition with its engraved characters deep and clean, remains in Turkey as the property of the government.

The Rosetta Stone, discovered by Napoleon's army in Egypt, had the same text engraved in three different scripts—Greek, Demotic Greek and hieroglyphics. This find permitted French orientalist Jean-Francois Champollion to decipher hieroglyphics.

Driver, 80, held in hit-run death

LAKE ELSINORE (UPI) — Riverside County sheriff's deputies arrested an 80-year-old man Sunday on suspicion of manslaughter after he was identified as the driver of a hit-and-run vehicle.

Authorities said Margaret Ann Soper, 16, of Lakeland Village was walking along the shoulder of a road when she was struck from behind by a car driven by Raymond Morgan of Lake Elsinore.

A 15-year-old girl who had been walking with the victim said Morgan got out of his car, looked at the girl, then drove away.

The girl described Morgan's car to authorities and later identified him.

Arabs not to blame for energy crisis

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The United States would have been faced with an energy crisis with or without the Arab oil embargo, according to the president of the American Petroleum Institute.

The only thing the embargo did was make the shortage come sooner than it would have under normal conditions, Frank Ikard said.

"Beginning in 1970 our crude oil supply started falling off at the rate of something in the order of 200,000 barrels a day per year and we hadn't developed the North Slope of Alaska, we hadn't developed the marine resources," he said.

Governor, ex-governors vie in Alaska election

JUNEAU, Alaska (UPI) — The governor's race in Alaska became a "governors governor's" race when Gov. William Egan indicated he will seek reelection.

If Egan runs, the field will include all three men who have been state governors of Alaska: Democrat Egan and Republicans Walter Hickel and Keith H. Miller.

And so far three Millers have announced for statewide offices. Along with Keith, Anchorage Republican House member Jo Ann Miller has filed for lieutenant governor, and Senate President Terry Miller is seeking the Republican nomination for the U.S. Senate seat held by Democrat Mike Gravel.

None of the Millers are related.

A third major candidate in the gubernatorial race, Jay Hammond, filed last week as a Republican.

The Hammond candidacy threw the Republican primary into a wide-open race, and may cause difficulties for frontrunner Hickel, the former secretary of the interior under President Nixon.

Hickel was conceded by both Democrats and Republicans alike to be the strongest candidate facing Egan, who will be seeking his fourth term. This was based on Hickel's strong financial support, his arm lock on the conservationist vote and his previous exposure on both the national and state levels.

However, Hammond, a former president of the state Senate, is certain to corral most of the bush vote as well as the conservationist vote, plus getting strong support from the fishermen who see in him a strong spokesman against Japan's invasion of Alaskan fishing grounds.

Keith Miller, now serving as a senator from Anchorage, was the first to announce, and his declaration came as a surprise to most Alaska politicians who had expected the Republicans to field a primary team of Hickel-Miller, with Keith going for the lieutenant governor's spot. He was lieutenant governor when Hickel was appointed secretary of interior and moved into the governor's chair when Hickel went to Washington. Miller was then defeated by Egan when he ran for election as governor.

Recent polls in Anchorage showed Miller leading the Republican race so far, but the poll was taken before Hammond entered the race. Miller supporters feel Hammond will siphon off sufficient bush and conservation votes from Hickel to guarantee Miller the Republican nomination.

Hickel's biggest problem is to convince the Alaskan electorate that he is not using the governorship as a stepping stone to a national office such as the vice presidency. The Democrats are gleefully reminding voters that Hickel "ran out" on the job when he was first elected, and will probably be only a "temporary" governor if elected again. The Anchorage businessman has repeatedly assured his followers that he intends to serve his full term if elected.

Egan has said for months that he expected Hickel to run for governor, despite reports that Nixon wanted him to take on Democratic Senator Mike Gravel. Egan has also said that he hoped Hickel would get the Republican nomination as he felt he "would be the easiest Republican to beat."

Hammond is the unknown factor in the race as he is expected to receive a large proportion of the Democratic crossover vote in the Aug. 24 primary. Alaska has an open primary and it has been traditional for the incumbent's party to cross lines in the primary and support the candidate believed the weakest opposition.

But as one Alaskan political observer pointed out, often the crossover vote propels the weaker candidate into the November election where he goes on to defeat the incumbent.

There is certain to be a large crossover vote as Egan will be running unopposed by any major candidate. It is extremely doubtful if Hickel will get many of the Democratic primary votes.

The Millers forces are already well organized and have set up their various campaign managers throughout the state. The Hickel organization is acknowledged to be the wealthiest in the race, while the Hammond forces admit they have neither an organization or a war chest. "Just people," as one Hammond supporter put it.

The new campaign disclosures and limitations act will nullify some of the advantage enjoyed by both Hiskel and Egan. The governor had amassed a $175,000 war chest for the campaign, but a Republican-sponsored amendment to the campaign disclosures bill made it retroactive to include incumbents, and unless Egan can account for the sources of his contributions during the past three years, he will have to donate most of it to the state.

A rise in your particular sphere of influence is likely this year. Events will unfold in a manner that will contribute to your reputation and status.

For Monday, May 13

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't get too involved with friends in situations where you'd have to dig in your purse for cold, hard cash.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your ideas are not in harmony with those of your contemporaries on how to handle certain things. With everyone wanting his own way, goals won't be realized.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You will have difficulty in getting information that's important for your immediate needs. Don't despair. Keep digging.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) One who is usually generous won't be in a "giving" mood today. Save yourself from embarrassment. Don't ask for what's his.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Make it a point to obey all the rules of those in authority, even if it conflicts with your way of doing things.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Pace yourself where your work or career is concerned. Otherwise, you'll build up a lot of unnecessary pressure and won't perform your finest.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you're in the company of one who does not deal openly and frankly, it's best not to seek further involvement with this person.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Demands made today by your mate or associates are apt to be rather severe and dictatorial. Don't let them throw you off-balance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be sure anyone doing work or a service for you understands what you expect from them.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Desire is likely to burn a hole in your wallet, causing you to spend more than you should on something you can well do without.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Morning is the best time to tend to personal interests. From afternoon on, others will have your day mapped out for their needs.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A stronger personality will dominate your thinking if you give him the least opening. Have more faith in your own thoughts, ideas.

your birthday, May 13

Haig: Nixon feels history will judge him favorably

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's top aide says his boss feels history will judge him favorably "when all the dust is settled."

White House chief of staff Alexander M. Haig said Friday that Nixon recognizes the "seriousness of the situation" and is "confident of the outcome."

With the House Judiciary Committee finally underway in its impeachment hearings, Haig said there is a sense of relief in the White House that the facts will come out and supplant rumors.

Despite increasing talk of resignation on Capitol Hill, Haig said there has been no such discussion by Nixon and his aides.

"He knows that in July when all the dust in settled, history is going to be the judge," Haig said. "That's the way he feels.

"He's not going to resign or be forced out of office. He's confident the constitutional process will go forward."

Haig said that the Watergate tape transcript revelations have resulted in "very tough going" for Nixon, but that the President had warned they would be embarrassing.

WHAT'S COOKIN ? — Joe Field and Virginia Paulo portray the baker and his wife in "The Magic Ring," to be presented at Montclair High School by the San Gabriel Valley Civic Ballet Company at 8:15 Thursday night. The program is one of the Montclair Starlite Series offered free by the Recreation Department of the City of Montclair.

Previews set

LOS ANGELES — Low-priced preview performances of Derek Walcott's "The Charlatan" are being held through May 22 at the Forum of the Los Angeles Music Center. Tickets are on sale at the box office and all agencies.

"The Charlatan," set to open May 23, is the third world premiere of Walcott's at the Forum. Others were "The Dream on Monkey Mountain" and "In a Fine Castle."

Final show

SGV Ballet plans Starlite program

MONTCLAIR — The San Gabriel Valley Civic Ballet will present a program in the auditorium of Montclair High School at 8:15 p.m. Thursday. Admission is free.

This is the final event in this season's Montclair Starlite Series of programs offered free by the Montclair Recreation Department.

The San Gabriel Valley Civic Ballet was formed eight years ago as a non-profit educational company to afford an opportunity for talented dancers to extend their years of training in theater. Their programs provide family entertainment and promote dance as a cultural asset to the community.

The company will present the story ballet, "The Magic Ring," written especially for the group by Martial Esparros and set to the music of Lanchbery, Herold, Rossini and Glazurov; and "The Mischievous Imp," a short, fast-moving ballet to the music of Johann Strauss. Both ballets are choreographed and directed by Joseph Rickard, professional Los Angeles choreographer and teacher, assisted by Virginia L. Paulo, a member of the company and former professional dancer.

Principal dancers are Katho Ho, Lael Kazakova, Nichola Lapa, Virginia Paulo, Linda Roland, Karin Santiago and Joyce Werbick. Character dancers are Joe Field and Jeanne Nolden. Guest artists are Tom Blair, Leo Ho and Jon Olivadoti.

Also appearing are several local dancers: Cheri Crowe of Claremont, Jeanette Freehling of Cucamonga, Christine Smith of Ontario, and Candi Wardein and Debbie Whitman both of Upland.

Bradbury play scheduled at Citrus

AZUSA — The Ctirus College drama department will present a reading of Ray Bradbury's "Dandelion Wine" in the theater lab at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. Carol Bernthal, instructor of speech, directs.

Participants will give a reading and interpretation of the play. The theme is "recalling of summer rituals of a rural family in 1928." At the lecterns will be Frances Alva, Marshall Brewer, Sandra Schiele, Joe Wallbank, Thom Armstrong and Doug Fulton.

Tickets, $1.50 general admission, 75 cents for students, will be available at the door.

Symphony to perform at Bridges

CLAREMONT — The Pomona College Symphony Orchestra will present its final concert of the school year in Bridges Hall at 8:15 p.m. May 24. Admission is free.

The program will include Dvorak's "New World" Symphony, Bach's Concerto in D Minor for Three Harpsichords, Mozart's Clarinet Concerto and the "Poem" for flute and orchestra by American composer Charles Tomlinson Griffes. The soloists are harpsichordists Bonny Hough, Susan Blaustein and Steven Feldman; flutist Catherine Hayden, and clarinettist Linda Jaderberg. All were selected by audition.

HELPING HAND — Doris Ambrose Watson gets help from her husband, Paul, in arranging an exhibition of her oil paintings in the Lobby Gallery of Pomona First Federal Savings & Loan Association, Pomona. Mrs. Watson attended Northwestern University and studied at the Art Institute of Chicago. She has worked in oils and watercolors for many years but has only recently begun exhibiting. The show runs through this month. The gallery at 399 N. Garey is open during regular banking hours.

Folk dancers to give scholarship benefit

ONTARIO — The Tamburitzans, a folk dance group from Duquesne University in Pittsburgh, Pa., will present a benefit concert in Spring Auditorium, Chaffey High School, at 8 p.m. Saturday.

The program, sponsored by the International Club of UC Riverside and the Forum for International Art and Culture of San Francisco, will raise funds for scholarships for foreign students.

Consisting of over 30 artists who perform in authentic costumes, the group takes its name from the tamburitza, a Slavic stringed instrument similar to a lute. Each year the Tamburitzans present an entirely new concert portraying Slavic culture. The appearance at Ontario is part of the group's current nationwide tour.

Each member is a full-time student at Duquesne University and receives a complete scholarship in exchange for participation in the troupe. Candidates are chosen on the basis of academic achievement and proficiency as singers, dancers, or instrumentalists.

Since its formation some 25 years ago, the group has appeared all over the United States, Canada, Europe and Latin America. Serving as goodwill ambassadors for the State Department the Tamburitzans have made extended tours of Europe in 1950 and 1952; Yugoslavia and Italy in 1962; Latin America in the summer of 1968; and Romania, Poland and the Soviet Union during the summer of 1969. The most recent nine-week tour in the summer of 1972 took them to Czechoslovakia, France, Greece and Bulgaria.

Tickets at $5.50 general admission, $7.50 reserved section seating, and $3.50 for students are available at the University Commons central ticket office and at the Folk Music Center, 220 Yale Ave., Claremont.

DUQUESNE DANCERS — These are members of the Tamburitzans, a Duquesne University folk dance group, which will give a benefit program in Spring Auditorium, Chaffey High School, at 8 p.m. Saturday. The concert, sponsored by the International Club of UC Riverside and the Forum for International Art and Culture in San Francisco, will raise funds for foreign students to attend college in this country.

Florentine Baroque show national art 'sleeper'

By FREDERICK M. WINSHIP

DETROIT (UPI) — Visitors from all over the United States and some from Europe have been streaming into Detroit for more than a month to view a "sleeper" exhibition of Florentine Baroque art that has turned out to be the top art show on the national scene.

"The Twilight of the Medici: Late Baroque Art in Florence, 1970-1973" was organized by the Detroit Institute of the Arts and the Pitti Palace museum in Florence, which contributed many of the items exhibited. The show will close here next month and reopen at the Pitti this summer in time for the heaviest tourist season.

The period of Grand Duke Cosimo III of Tuscany, his two sons and a daughter (the last of the Medici who ruled Florence for nearly 400 years) is a "forgotten" era of art history, but no less glorious for long neglect. The show is the first comprehensive exhibition of late Florentine Baroque anywhere.

It richly echoes the last exhuberant gasp of a dynasty determined to recapture the magnificence of the Renaissance in which it had played the role of grand patron. More than half the objects in the show were commissioned by Cosimo and his heirs, not only from Florentine artists but from leading talents in Rome and Venice.

More than 300 paintings, drawings, sculptures, bronzes, religious objects, inlaid furnishings, tapestries, jewelry, and commemorative medals are handsomely displayed on two floors of one of the museum's capacious new wings. The unifying theme of late Baroque art was agitated movement, elaboration, distortion, and often fantasy. At its worst it was ostentatious and lacked humor. Wit and lightness would have to wait for the Rococo style which followed.

Baroque derogatory

Baroque was a derogatory term meaning "misshapen" which classicists who clung to serenity and balance applied to 17th Century innovations in architecture and art. Dr. Frederick J. Cummings, director of the Detroit Institute, sensed five years ago that Baroque had an attraction for contemporary art lovers wearied of the severity and oversimplication of modern art. It took four years to organize the exhibit.

"There's been an amazing interest in this show, and I think it is something of an antidote," said the youthful director who collaborated with Dr. Mario Chiarini of the Pitti Palace in assembling the exhibit. Individuals and groups from Texas, New York, California, Pennsylvania, Arizona, Washington, Nebraska and other states nearer Michigan have visited the unique show.

The fact that Henry Ford II and his Italian-born wife, Cristina, had contributed generously to the restoration of Florence after the 1966 floods helped in persuading Italian museums and private collectors to send irreplaceable treasures to Detroit.

"I was amazed when we got a reliquary containing the bones of six saints of the Dominican order, a most beautiful work of gilt bronze, inlaid with rare stones and roofed with rock crystal scales," Cummings said. "I didn't think they'd part with that."

The paintings, marked by dramatic contrasts of light and shadow, are grouped as virtual one-man exhibitions of such artists as Luca Giordano, Sebastiano Ricci, and Giovanni Antonio Ferretti and provide a visual banquet. Ricci's "Love Punished"—a ceiling mural showing Virtue plucking Love's wing feathers—provides a foretaste of the Rococo master, Tiepolo.

But the sculptures in bronze are the most successful creations of the Medici twilight.

Scholarly catalogue

The dominating masters of bronze are Massimiliano Soldani Benzi and Giovanni Battista Foggini. The later is also represented by a superb silver altar removed from the church of Santa Annunziata in Florence for the show.

Highlights in the vast gallery of bronzes are Soldani Benzi's panels of the four seasons, lent by the Bavarian National Museum in Munich, and his Dancing Faun and Medici Venus, both reproductions of Greek originals. The Duke of Marlborough agreed to lend the Venus, which adorned the gardens of Blenheim Palace, after the museum offered to clean off discolorations caused by weather.

"It was green and look at it now," Cummings said, gesturing toward the gleaming statue.

ANCIENT ART — This ceramic warrior from the tomb in the Mexican state of Jalisco is one of the works in "Recordings in Clay," an exhibition of ancient tomb sculpture on display through May 26 at Chaffey College Museum-Gallery. Admission is free.

Museum-Gallery

Chaffey exhibits tomb sculpture

ALTA LOMA — "Recordings in Clay," an exhibition of ancient Mexican tomb sculpture, is now on view at the Chaffey College Museum-Gallery. It continues through May 26.

The 37 ceramic pieces of folk art associated with death are the work of a people who lived in the west coast region of northern Mexico some 1,700 years ago. The people, possibly nomadic hunters from the northern deserts, expressed their way of life in terra cotta figures and vessels. The pieces include tradesmen at work, children at play, warriors in battle, musicians and dancers, and scenes of village activities.

Many of the vessels discovered in the shaft-chamber tombs held food and liquids, showing that the people believed in life after death.

The works in the exhibit are on loan from the Stendhal Art Gallery, Los Angeles, 19 pieces; San Bernardino County Museum, 12; Sam Maloof, 4; Phil Dike, 1, and James Pahl, museum director, 1.

Gallery hours are noon to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays; noon to 4 p.m. Fridays, and 2 to 5 p.m. Sundays. Admission is free.

Art show scheduled at MSAC

WALNUT — Mt. San Antonio College's 28th annual Student Art Show will open with a reception for the artists and the public at 7 p.m. May 21. The show continues through June 7.

Gallery hours are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on week days.

The juror is Joseph E. Young, assistant curator of drawings and paintings at the Los Angeles County Museum of Art. Submission include paintings in oil and acrylic, watercolors, drawings, two and three dimensional design, silkscreens, ceramics, prints, sculptures, commercial art and photography.

Except for the jurying, all phases of the show are handled by students, giving them the experience of exhibition management as well as an opportunity for exposure to other media and other students' works.

On May 23, Young will give an informal lecture on art in the gallery at 2:30 p.m. The lecture is free and open to the public.

Camera club installs new officers

ONTARIO — Clarence Scott of Upland was installed as president of the Euclid Avenue Camera Club at a recent meeting at the American Legion Hall. He succeeded Clarence Derr of Chino.

CLARENCE SCOTT

Taking office with Scott were Theodore Dunn, vice president; Robert Reyburn, treasurer; Dorothy Dean, recording secretary; William and Helen Gaffney, corresponding secretaries; and Derr, Willis Fackler, Helen Pine and Ed Fuller, trustees.

Harrietann Joseph, president of the Wind and Sun Council of Camera Clubs, was installing officer.

Plaques with gold medallions in color slide competition were awarded to Gaffney, Class A, monthly club competition and Photograph Society of America competition; Scott, slide of the year; Dunn, Class B, monthly club competition; and Joyce and Blaine Van Dusen, the Pierre Woodman Memorial Photo Essay Competition.

Second-place silver medallions went to Scott, Muriel Dunn, Lawrence Gilkerson, Howard Cramer and Reyburn.

Bronze third place medallions went to Josie Creighton, Ruby Eckart and William Dean. Van Dusen won two bronze medallions.

Reyburn was honored with a plaque in recognition of his long service to the club.

Dr. Popoff

Prayer for the sick and personal ministry in every service. Monday Dr. Popoff will show pictures of the Berlin wall. After this meeting Dr. Popoff will be leaving for oversea campaigns.

CLOSING SERVICES Sunday, May 19, 7:30 P.M.

MY TRIP TO HEAVEN. I spent 7 hours in heaven and saw the end of the world. Startling prophetic predictions for the future.

For additional information and special prayer write: Dr. George Popoff, P.O. Box 1122, Ontario, California 91762.

When you write request the book: THE THING NO ONE TALKS ABOUT. It is free. It may change your life.

New York Stock Exchange — week's high, low, close

NEW YORK — Following are prices on the New York Stock exchange at close.

All sales in hundreds (00) omitted except for those designated (z) which are made in 10 share lots and carried in full. DIVIDENDS: are annual unless otherwise identified; (a) plus extra; (b) declared or paid so far this year, no regular rate; (c) payment on accumulated dividends; (d) paid last year; (e) paid plus stock; (b) annual rate plus stock dividend; (h) paid this year—latest dividend omitted; (i) per cent in stock paid in 1972; (k) per cent in stock paid in 1973; (q) bankruptcy, receivership or reorganization; (s) capital distribution; (x) exdividend; (w) when issued; (wt) warrants.

(H) indicates new high for the year; (L) indicates new low for the year.

P-E ratio: The price of a stock as a multiple of per-share earnings derived by dividing the latest 12-month earnings figure into last sale price.

With Con Ed's problems

The little man suffers

BUSINESS NEWS

Financial

NEW YORK (UPI) — When the huge Consolidated Edison Co. of New York announced on April 23 it would eliminate a dividend on common stock for the first time since 1885, thousands of little people were hurt.

Most of Con Ed's 61.5 million common shares are held by private investors. Utility shares are commonly regarded as income rather than growth stocks. So they're attractive to people on pension as a means of supplementing social security and pension income. To such people holding Con Ed stock, elimination of the quarterly income meant the loss of 25 per cent of the expected annual income from their Con Ed stock.

Not only that, these small holders lost, at least temporarily, about 45 per cent of the face value of their Con Ed shares. In the first 90 minutes of trading after the Con Ed dividend announcement the stock fell six points from 18 to 12. And it went lower on subsequent days. That's a paper loss of about $336-million.

The troubles of Con Ed—the nation's largest power company and third largest utility—prompted Gov. Malcolm Wilson of New York to ask his legislature to provide $800 million in state aid to bail out the company. The Con Ed crisis, compared by some to the Penn Central debacle, is not reflective of the entire utitlity industry, according to industry analysts.

Con Ed spokesmen say the crisis has been caused by:

—The spectacular rise in the price of low sulfur fuel oil from $4.50 to $15 and $15.50 a barrel over a period of nine months.

—Legal restrictions in New York which forbid Con Ed to burn coal in its power plants.

—The high construction and maintenance cost of a 100 per cent underground distribution system in contrast with the overhead power lines that serve much of the rest of the country,

—The high union scales and overhead cost of doing business in New York City.

Critics of the company don't buy that. Theodore Maynard, founder of National Utility Service, a global firm that makes its living by studying the performance of power and gas companies and advising manufacturers and other big consumers how to reduce their power costs, recently charged that "Con Edison encourages waste and inefficiency, then increases its profits by gouging customers for money." Maynard also accused the New York Public Service Commission of being too liberal in granting rate boosts to Con Ed. The company has a request pending for a rate boost of $422 milion. That money is over and above the $800 million Governor Wilson wants the legislature to spend to alleviate Con Ed's problems.

Maynard also said Con Ed's electric rates are the highest in the world except in Berlin and much the highest in the United States. He said its costs also are enormous, that it reports an average net cost of generating electricity of 23.9 mills a kilowatt hour while directly across the Hudson River, in New Jersey, Public Service Gas & Electric Co. generates for 11.28 mills per kwh. Con Ed concedes its rates are about the highest in the industry.

As for charges of waste and inefficiency, Con Ed points out that when Charles Franklin Luce became head of the company in 1967, he trimmed a lot of fat by firing or retiring elderly executives and supervisors. Luce, a native of Wisconsin, had served as administrator of the Bonneville Power Project under President Kennedy and as assistant secretary of the Interior under President Johnson.

Con Ed did not report a loss for the first quarter, only a shrinkage of 21 per cent in profit to $40.6 million or 48 cents a share from 80 cents a share a year earlier. This occurred despite a revenue jump for the quarter of 30 per cent to $553.3 million.

Announcement of this shrinkage and omission of the dividend on common caused the stock to drop sharply and also was reflected in losses in Con Ed's bond issues.

The recently issued 9 per cents dropped from a range of 80-84 5/8 to about 70 5/8 and at that price the yield was a hefty 11.97 per cent. Other Con Ed Bonds with distant maturities fell sharply.

Then on May 2, a group of bondholders who had bought the most recent issue of Con Ed bonds at par, a $150 million issue marketed only two months ago, filed a class action suit against Con Ed and six Wall Street underwriting firms in New York federal court.

The suit charges "irregularities and defects" in the registration statement filed for the bonds with the Securities and Exchange Commission and violations of the securities laws.

Another major cause of Con Ed's troubles is the inability or unwillingness of customers to pay their bills on time. The company's outstanding accounts receivable rose by 21 per cent between Dec. 31, 1973 and March 31 while 26 per cent of its individual retail accounts were six months or more overdue as of the end of March. This followed, the company concedes, an approximate doubling of most people's monthly bills.

In the case of some 10,000 accounts for "all electric homes" heated by electricity bills in the winter months frequently rose much more. Householders faced monthly electrical bills nearly as large as combined mortgage and tax payments or monthly rent. These householders charged that Con Ed or the contractors who built their homes had enticed them into unsound commitments by falsely representing the cost of electric heating.

The company has an open line of bank credit of $350 million, of which $181 million is currently available, but experts say it would have to pay at least 11 per cent to use that money. Standard & Poor's has downgraded the company's credit rating twice in 15 months.

Governor Wilson's proposal before the legislature is to buy two uncompleted power plants, the Indian Point No. 3 nuclear plant in Westchester County and the oil-fired Astoria No. 6 plant in Queens for $500 million and to spend $300 million to complete them. Reports in Albany indicate the bill will pass easily.

Con Ed would get the half billion dollars swiftly to tide it over the present situation.

Luce still insists that Con Ed's financial crisis couid be solved swiftly if the city and state permitted it to burn coal instead of low sulfur fuel oil. But the state and city won't and the courts have upheld them so far.

The question then arises: What will happen if Con Ed's problems worsen? Obviously the company would find it difficult to borrow or to sell new stock and the state might have to intervene further. This intervention might first take the form of a court appointed management. If it didn't straighten out matters, the state power authority might have to take over the whole company, according to some utility experts.

Weekly stocks

No hurry to trade, investors waiting

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock prices were little changed in light trading on the New York Stock Exchange this week, with investors still inclined to wait out the sharp climb in inflation and interest rates.

One issue, Combustion Engineering, stole the show in an otherwise dull trading week. The stock was the second most active, plunging 24 3/4 points to 50 7/8 on 760,300 shares.

A Wall Street Journal article Tuesday alleged Combustion Engineering has entered into financially hazardous nuclear power plant contracts with a number of power utilities. Two of these utilities, Duke Power and Arizona Public Service, said the terms of the contracts were not unusual. Combustion Engineering called the story irresponsible but would not elaborate.

With other price movement generally narrow, the Dow Jones industrial average rose 4.54 to 850.44. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index climbed 0.18 to 91.47. The NYSE index fell 0.17 to 48.29.

There were 1,125 declines, 608 advances, among the 1,964 issues traded.

Volume totaled 61,986,925 shares, compared with last week's 60,989,950 shares and with 68,787,053 the year before.

The stocks that had the roughest go of it this week were bank holding companies. Partly responsible was the quick move Friday by many large banks to a record 11 1/4 per cent prime lending rate —that charged on loans to most creditworthy business borrowers. As Federal Reserve member Robert Holland observed earlier in the week, the nation's banks could be "in for an uncomfortable time" in view of the Fed's "anti-inflationary, tight credit posture.

Perhaps more unsettling for traders was news Friday Franklin New York Corp., parent of Franklin National Bank, will omit dividends on its common and preferred stock. Bids on Franklin's stock dropped sharply on the over-the-counter market.

Franklin's bad news cast a cloud on Big Board bank issues. Citicorp., the week's most active stock, fell 4 3/8 to 35 5/8 on 870,700 shares. First Chicago Corp. plunged 10 1/2, Northwest Bancorp 8, Manufacturers Hanover 6, First Pennsylvania 5 3/4, J.P. Morgan 5 1/4, and Bank of Virginia 5.

Overall, the stock market showed signs of life only on the last two trading days of the week. On Thursday, blue chips and glamors paced a rally, sparked in part by news wholesale prices increased by a seasonally adjusted 0.7 per cent in April, the smallest rise since last October. The Dow added 14.78 points.

The trading pace in that rally was slow, however, and the modest lead of advances over declines suggested many stocks remained neglected in the buying. Part of the caution reflected anxiety over the continued sharp rise in business loan demand, which has been held partly to blame for soaring interest rates.

Late Thursday, the Federal Reserve reported a slight drop in loan demand, but not enough to satisfy Wall Street a definite downtrend has developed.

On Friday, the market gave back the previous days gains, with some to spare. The Dow slid 15.33 points as investors watched the spread of the 11 1/4 per cent prime rate among the nation's banks. As in Thursday's rally, action in Friday's selloff centered on the higher priced blue chips and glamors.

In the glamor group, Coca-Cola rose 9 3/4 to 108 1/2, Cleveland Cliffs 6 1/8 to 79 1/2, and Corning Glass 5 1/2.

It was another bad week for the utility group, particularly for the nation's largest power utility, Con Edison. The stock fell 2 to 7 5/8 on 710,500 shares. Con Ed was selling at 18 on April 23 when the company decided to omit its quarterly dividend for the first time since 1885.

$6 billion in loans:

Mortgage record set

LOS ANGELES — Mortgage bankers in California set a new record last year by boosting their share of the real estate financing field to over $6 billion in loans produced.

And their servicing volume topped $26.5 billion for the first time in history, according to the industry survey just completed. Servicing volume consists of the management of previously made mortgages, including collecting periodic payments, paying property taxes and otherwise shepherding the loans.

"The increasingly important status of mortgage bankers in contributing to the state's economy demonstrated by the huge totals further proves the viability of the correspondence system," said James A. Walker, association president.

The "correspondence system" is a term used in the industry in explaining that mortgage banking firms often represent giant thrift institutions such as out-of-state life insurance companies, commercial banks and others in placing loans with developers of large office buildings, shopping centers and residential projects.

During the year, the 125-member firms of the association made loans totaling $6,127,346,000 on some 124,669 individual mortgages. This compares with $5,761,617,000 loans on 145,328 loans during the previous year, indicating fewer but larger investments.

Again the largest single source of investment funds came from the nation's life insurance companies, with $731,075,000 reported for the relatively few 1827 mortgage loans. Traditionally life insurance companies are heavy investors in California real estate, but two years ago, because of then-monetary conditions, their invested totals via mortgage bankers had dropped them from first place. And although the life companies retain top place, their total investment was less than last year's $888,188,000.

Commercial banks, generally headquartered in the East and Mid West, retained second place in loans produced last year by providing $539,576,000 in "imported" funds to support California's expanding economy. Again, their investment was greater on a smaller number of loans, occasioned by not only the obvious increase in construction costs but also due to the fact that out-of-state investors have chosen larger projects to finance.

Third place in total investment a year ago was held by savings banks, but in the year just closed that position went to the Federal National Mortgage Association — better known as Fannie Mae — with $512,696,000 in mortgages produced having been sold to this secondary-market purchaser.

To show the dramatic growth of the state's mortgage banking industry, a comparison with a similar survey made five years ago shows that CMBA member-firms last year made well over double the loans, $2,453,374,142, of that year.

While mortgage bankers are often identified with arranging the financing of large commercial projects, about half of the loans produced last year were for single-family residences. $1,558,967,000 went into conventional mortgages, and $1,831,843,000 financed FHA-VA insured mortgages. Apartment projects swallowed up $766,634,000 for a gain of $41,661,000. Commercial projects were supported to the tune of $1,402,533,000 in some 2,488 different projects.

A mortgage banker isn't a mortgage banker, according to the CMBA definition, unless he services the loans he makes. Hence, this is a phase of the business that shares with loan production the requirement for the mortgage banker's financial health. During the year, member-firms reported they handled the income on existing mortgages with a face value of $26,568,874,000 — more than three billion dollars more than was on their books in 1972. Of these mortgages, life insurance companies ranked first with $5,932,267,000; commercial banks again retained second place with $3,434,476,000 — down about two hundred million from the previous year — and savings banks hung in at third place with $2,605,049,000 — off some $432 million but still a substantial investment segment. Walker said it must be kept in mind that mortgages are constantly being paid off, sold or otherwise eliminated from servicing portfolios, thus the overall increase in servicing to $26.5 billion is deemed highly significant.

In commenting on the survey's demonstration of the health of the mortgage banking industry in California, Walker said the lead-time in placing mortgages must not be forgotten. Many of last year's loans were formulated many months before the first of the year, he said, in comparing usual indexes such as housing starts and similar indications of the business climate.

"Yet," he added, "despite fluctuating costs of money, the commodity of our industry, the survey shows inescapably that mortgage banking is matching the progress of all other arms in the real estate financing world."

Walker was within recent weeks elected to the presidency of CMBA, having served during the previous year as the group's vice president. He is executive vice president of E. S. Merriman & Sons, a well-known San Francisco-based mortgage banking firm.

ROSE M. DEMETRIFF, broker of the Century 21 real estate office at 105 E. Arrow Highway, Pomona, attended the Century 21 western division's broker-management seminar in San Diego. More than 300 brokers and sales managers attended. Mrs. Demetriff was on a panel which discussed listings.

Foreign investment in U.S. shows big growth

CHICAGO — Foreign investment in the U.S. has seen dramatic growth and this is expected to continue.

Stanley J. Marcuss, majority counsel for the Senate Subcommittee on International Finance, made this observation when speaking to members of the National Association of Realtors.

Marcuss, member of a three-man panel on foreign investment in U.S. real estate, reported the level of foreign investment more than doubled during the 1960s. This went from $331 million per year during the first half of the 1960s to $751 million per year during the second half.

Figures for 1973 are estimated at $3 billion or more.

Reasons for the increase in both the level and rate of such investments include dollar devaluation and foreign currency realignment; world wide inflation; a decline in prices on the U.S. stock market, thereby making acquisitions relatively cheap; a rise in wage rates abroad; and the desire of foreign interests to obtain assured sources of raw materials.

"On the other side of the coin, investment by U.S. companies abroad has reached $94 billion," he added.

"Recent reports of growth in foreign investments here, however, have resulted in a feeling of fear with respect to foreign investment in real estate.

"As I've thought about it, it seems to me that there are several possible reasons for these adverse feelings," said Marcuss.

He cited the possible concerns:

— Foreign investment could drive up prices; it would add nothing to the overall economy; foreign investment could be used to divert raw materials abroad; it could be used for exclusionary purposes; foreign investment in land is difficult to trace; land is sacred and should be reserved for U.S. citizens; and that some foreigners may hold land for generations and disrupt the normal trading patterns in real estate.

The second panel member, Dean R. Hinton, deputy executive director of the President's Council on International Economic Policy, reported that the Administration, after looking at the issue, has concluded that an open door policy or a policy of "national treatment" whereby foreigners should be treated like Americans is in the nation's best interest.

"In general, we expect foreigners to adhere to U.S. laws and if this is done, there are no problems," he said. "Any major exceptions to this open door policy relate to matters of national security."

Hinton agreed with Marcuss that there is fear with respect to foreign investment in U.S. real estate. And the major reason for this fear is an emotional one that America is for Americans, he added.

"We must remember, however, that there is more American investment abroad than foreign investment here."

The Administration is making a major effort internationally to produce a more open economic system, said Hinton. "And restrictions on foreign investment tend to divide countries when what we are striving for is unity."

Fred Stoken, associate director of trade and promotion and development for the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, reported it was difficult to say when investment is good or bad.

"But," he noted, "too stringent limits are a mistake. We must be careful not to discourage positive investment."

Four presidents for Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Argentina had four presidents during 1973.

Gen. Alejandro Lanusse, head of a military government, was succeeded on May 25 by elected President Hector J. Campora.

Campora resigned July 13, and the office went to Raul A. Lastiri, president of the Chamber of Deputies.

On Oct. 12, Lastiri was succeeded by Juan D. Peron, winner of the special election held the previous month.

'Dream' home includes proposals by builders

By HIAWATHA ESTES

Letters are received from prospective builders, explaining in detail what they want included in the design of their dream home. This home has been planned to include as many of these favorite ideas and features as possible.

From a roofed porch, which is protected from the elements, double doors open to an entry from which all areas of the house are accessible.

The more formal living room is located at the front of the house while the informal family room faces the rear yard to which it has access through the sliding glass doors opening to the patio.

The kitchen has been designed to eliminate traffic which would interfere with meal preparation. The room offers an enormous amount of storage. To obtain a more open feeling, only cabinets — including an extra long eating bar — separate the kitchen from the family room. The separate dining room is on the opposite side of the kitchen.

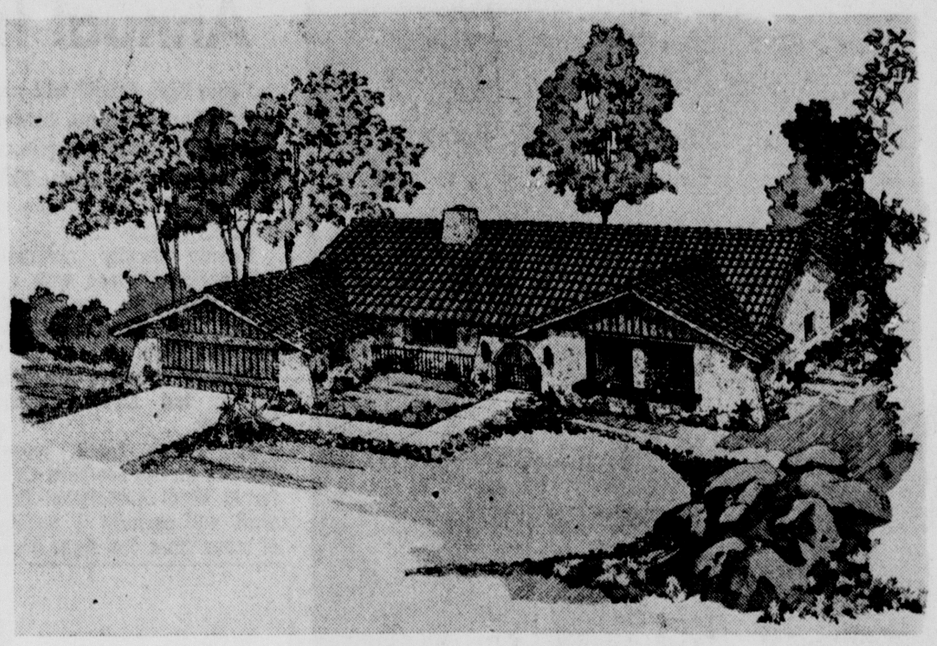
For privacy, the master bedroom is located at the rear of the home. It is very generous in size and features a dressing area and private bath.

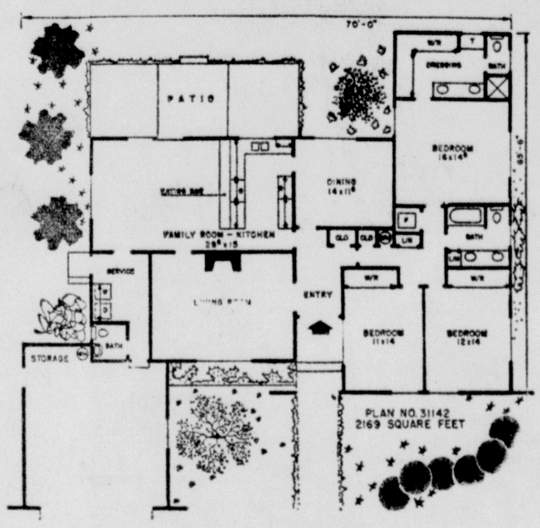
Doors open from the garage to the rear yard and service.

The front wall of the bedroom extends to form an arch entry with ornamental iron gates. Light fixtures are on each side of the arch. The beauty of the Spanish exterior is further enhanced by outlining the bedroom windows with wood and a flower pot shelf, supported with band sawn corbels.

This same exterior, plus a Contemporary exterior, are also available in a four bedroom floor plan, at a different price structure, and are illustrated in our book, Ranch & Modern Homes.

Complete working drawings for plan 31142 can be purchased for only $12.55 for the first set and $6.30 for each additional set ordered at the same time. This plan will be available at these special prices until Sept. 5, 1974. Please allow two to three weeks for delivery. A specification booklet is available for $1.05. A large reproduction rendering of the exterior is available for $1.05. The following home plan books are also available: Distinctive Homes — $1.31; Prize Homes — $1.31; Hallmark Homes — $1.31; Town & Country Homes — $1.31; Homes by Hiawatha — $1.31; Ranch & Modern Homes — $2.10. All six books — an $8.65 value — for only $6.83. Orders for less than three books, please add an extra 20c per book for postage and handling. Prices include sales tax. Send all orders to: Hiawatha Estes, PO. Box 404-PO, Northridge, Calif. 91324.





Kaufman and Broad, Inc.

Builder of local homes wins award

LOS ANGELES — The Southern California division of Kaufman and Broad, Inc., has won the multi-national housing company's President Quality Cup of 1973, said Eugene S. Rosenfeld, president.

The division constructed single family homes in Walnut, Chino, Corona and San Dimas, ranging in prices from $20,000 to $34,000.

"Southern California's Jim Hintz is a production perfectionist," said Rosenfeld. "Our national director of consumer affairs reports that Southern California's homes are models by which to measure the production quality of our other six U. S. divisions."

The President's Cup tradition began in 1966 where the division with the best performance record was rewarded. In 1972, the tradition was updated with the addition of a quality cup in recognizing production excellence and positive customer response.

In accepting the award, Hintz commended his Southern Califonnia team of supervisors, inspectors and service representatives.

Kaufman and Broad, listed on the New York Stock Exchange, has 77 housing developments underway in 58 cities in California, Illinois, Michigan, New York, New Jersey, Canada, France and West Germany.

Rogers: can't use security for an alibi

DAVIS (UPI) — Former Secretary of State William Rogers said here Tuesday night that he feels that national security can not be used as an excuse for questionable acts by government officials.

He cited as one example his feeling that Egil Krogh had no business breaking into the office of Daniel Ellsburg's psychiatrist to steal records. He said that national security could in no way be cited as a reason for such an act.

Rogers noted that Watergate, which he called "plain stupid," has changed the complexion of the Nixon Administration. He said that its opponents formerly labelled the administration as being too powerful and now criticize it as being ineffective.

Rogers stressed that he personally feels that the Nixon Administration is still functioning effectively.

New homes open near golf course

ONTARIO — Fairway Homes, a 68-home community adjacent to Ontario National Golf Course, has been opened by Kingsway Construction Corp.

"Our primary aim has been to provide a community of homes with extra ordinary amenities at very reasonable prices," said C. E. Andrews, Kingsway vice president.

Andrews, who received the National Home Builders Association "home builder of the year" award in 1972, personally managed the entire construction of these homes.

The development features 7,200 square foot lots, fireplaces, underground utility lines, and wall-to-wall shag carpeting.

Homes are priced from $27,950 to $33,700, with VA, FHA and conventional financing available.

Buyers have their selection of five floor plans and 14 elevations in the three and four bedroom structures.

Model homes are now open for public inspection. To reach the community, take the Pomona Freeway to the Vineyard Avenue offramp, then go south to Walnut Avenue.

INFLATION IS TAKING MORE OF YOUR DOLLAR EVERY DAY OF THE YEAR!

A TYPICAL HOME* THAT COST $28,000 IN 1974...
COULD COST $38,095 IN 1978!

*A single family, three bedroom, detached dwelling of from 1,400 to 1,500 square feet.
Using an annual inflation rate of just 8%.

The national cost of living index was up a whopping 10% higher in February over just a year ago. The energy crisis, inflation, material shortages, and consumer demands all add to rising costs that the industry predicts will cause new homes to inflate 8% and possibly 14% by year's end. But you can beat inflation by investing in a new Kaufman and Broad home today. And when 1978 rolls around, you can look back to 1974 and know you made a wise investment.

Annual home concert slated at Chino High

Chino High School will present its annual home concert May 15, 16 and 17 at 8 p.m. in the multi-purpose room. Tickets are $1. The theme is "Here's To Life."

Twenty faculty members will perform, along with the Jazz Ensemble, the Treble Tones, the Chorale, Choir, and Glee Club.

Concert directors are Ken Novak and Mrs. Lorraine Richartz.

The Treble Tones, recent winners at the Southern California Vocal Association Festival, will perform a medley of tunes from the stage show "Mame." A special dance sequence was arranged by Jo Glidewell.

Faculty members Bud Beck, Gaye Tanner and Kate Yanez will be featured with the Chorale in a jitterbug number entitled "The Little Old Lady in Tennis Shoes." The Chorale also will sing "High Noon," "The Summer Knows," "Dream" and "All of my Laughter."

An "Andrews Sisters" arrangement of "Bei Mir Bist Du Schoen" will be performed by Randi Smith, Molly Glidewell and Patty Lumpkin.

Faculty men will join the Treble Tones for a song and dance number titled "Take Me Out to the Ball Game."

The Choir will sing "My Favorite Things," "Where Is the Love" and "Rainy Days and Mondays." The Glee Club will sing "My Fair Lady" and Wouldn't It Be Loverly," "More" and "Sweet Gingerbread Man."

Council says lift moratorium

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The City Council Monday approved a motion to urge President Nixon and the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to lift a moratorium on housing funds expenditures.

The council asked that impounded funds for senior citizens' housing be released and that sufficient funds be appropriated to continue existing programs.

Councilman John Ferraro, who introduced the motion, said senior citizens are "desperately in need" of decent housing.

Boy from Syracuse now an Indian sikh

NEW DELHI (UPI) — "What's a nice American boy like you doing in that turban?" ask the housewives sipping lemonade on the verandas of New Delhi's diplomatic enclave when they see the rose peddler.

"Sometimes they buy roses from me for weeks before they notice that something is strange," said Ralph the Rosewalla, as he has been affectionately dubbed by his clients. "Some really do a doubletake when they realize I'm American and not Indian."

The outfit he wears symbolizes the change in Ralph Rakieten, as he was born 26 years ago in Syracuse, N.Y., into Ralph Singh, the surname he shares with every other member of his adopted religion.

From the carefully wound turban which covers his head protrudes a large bump indicating the hair he ceased cutting nearly three years ago and now has fastened with a comb into a bun. A full beard covers his face, a steel bracelet dangles on his wrist and a dagger is strapped across his chest.

These accoutrements mark Ralph as a Sikh—a member of the powerful sect of Indian religious crusaders and warriors.

Uniform of Sikhism

"Every organization has its uniform," Ralph said. "It's a part of accepting the authority of that organization to wear it. These symbols are simply an expression of my commitment to Sikhism."

Ralph's story goes back to when he completed his studies in Japanese history at Columbia University in 1971 and left his home in Islip, N.Y.— where his father is engaged in cancer research—to travel to Asia.

"I was actually on my way to Japan where I wanted to observe communal societies when I came to India," Ralph said. "My first night in India I slept by the Golden Temple at Amritsar which is a great holy place of Sikh pilgrimage. There was music coming out of the temple and when I listened something spiritual moved me."

Ralph made inquiries about Sikhism and found his way to Gobindsadan, a community of Sikh farmers just outside Delhi.

"I had never even heard of Sikhism before I came to India," Ralph said. "I became a Sikh because they hold onto those values I traveled to the East to glean. They keep the sense of community and each individual's responsibility to the community that we've lost in America."

Started rose plots

After settling down at Gobindsadan, where community elders arranged a marriage for him with a young Sikh girl who works at the Delhi planning board, Ralph became a rose cultivator.

"We grow wheat, rice and corn and raise cows on the farm,' Ralph said with pride. "I started the rose plots when I got there and now they are my specialty."

The day is long and hard at Gobindsadan. Ralph and his brother Sikhs rise at two a.m. for four hours of individual and community prayer and song. At six they bathe, then move to the fields and community kitchens for work which continues long past sundown.

Foreign privileges

As a foreigner Ralph has become something of a celebrity in the community and has been allowed certain privileges.

"Most people live in the resident compound but my wife and I have been allowed a private house," he said. "I just can't eat in the community kitchen because I have a weak stomach and can't take all those chills."

Ralph, who demonstrates a missionary's zeal when he discusses Sikhism, intends to return to the United States soon to try to arouse a sense of community in the American people.

"I don't expect to have any difficulties over my turban or dress," Ralph said. "My father came out here for my wedding and although he has some misgivings he accepts and tries to understand what I am doing. I think people in America are ready for the kind of help I want to give them."

Former White House secretary happy she's not there today

By VONNE ROBERTSON
Asst. Women's Editor

A former White House staffer who has been visiting Pitzer College this week really knows the problems of working for a President of the nation and sums it up when she says "I wouldn't want to be a part of the White House staff today."

She's Letitia Baldrige, better known as Tish, who served as social secretary to the White House from December 1960 until June of 1963 at the request of the John F. Kennedys.

Now a professional lecturer and owner of her own public relations firm in New York City, Miss Baldrige was brought to the campus as a Woodrow Wilson Senior Fellow.

In describing her role at the White House, Tish says "There's a major difference between protecting your boss from stress, fatigue and the public and in committing perjury for your own gain.

"While I served in the White House there were many times when, as the social secretary, I was asked to make phone calls or contact people as a buffer between the Kennedys and others.

"I was considered the ideal person for this because I could often soften the message and prevent hurt feelings. This was a part of the job and I considered it my duty."

Her position was a 24-hour a day, seven-day a week job. Even when the Kennedys vacationed at Hyannis Port, she remained at the White House. Often, she was responsible for hosting visiting Heads of States and other dignitaries while the First Family was gone.

"President Kennedy thought up at least half of his plans while vacationing," Tish adds, "But I was constantly in contact by phone. Even the White House garage knew where I was at any given moment.

"If I was playing tennis when a call came, a car was dispatched to the court to bring me back to work."

The only time during her tenure in the White House that Tish tried to entertain on her own didn't go according to her plans.

A very close friend had returned to Washington recently widowed with three small children as the result of her husband's sudden death while serving in the foreign service. Tish felt obligated to entertain her friend, but Vice President and Mrs. Johnson had planned their first major dinner party and, for the social secretary, it was a command performance.

Tish explained her problem to Lady Bird who insisted that the young widow join the dinner. Mr. Johnson not only broke all rules of protocol by seating the young woman to his right, he toasted her and her late husband — causing moist eyes around the table and giving the widow the moral boost she needed.

"At the time, I thrived on the life and really enjoyed my job," recalls the vivacious Miss Baldrige who is a statuesque 6 foot, 1 inch tall.

"But I resigned in June 1963, a few months before the assassination of President Kennedy because I was totally exhausted and realized that I must really have a life of my own.

"I heard about the shooting while in a restaurant and was invited into the kitchen to watch television with the staff.

"I raced home, packed my bag, flew to the White House and pitched in. In fact, I remained at the White House for two weeks after the Johnsons moved in to help train their staff."

Miss Baldrige says she expected Mrs. Kennedy to react as she did during the tragic days after the President's death.

"She has guts and the ability to rise to any situation. But I honestly believe her courage and behavior at the time has had a profound effect on other widows. They use Jackie as a model of behavior."

Tish lives in Manhattan now, in an apartment overlooking Central Park. So when Jackie is in New York City, the two occasionally lunch together.

"Of course, we're still friends, but our lives have taken widely divergent paths in the past decade." She describes Caroline Kennedy as a beauty who resembles the Kennedy clan while John, says Tish, looks more like his mother.

Miss Baldrige came to the White House well qualified for her role. A graduate of Vassar in 1946, she also studied at the University of Geneva in Switzerland. In addition, as the daughter of a Congressman from Nebraska, the political arena was familiar to her.

Her first job was as social secretary to Ambassador and Mrs. David Bruce in Paris and she later held the same post while Clare Booth Luce was Ambassador in Italy.

"All great people are hard to work for," Miss Baldrige comments. "They have to let off steam in private. Once you realize that this is part of your job and you handle it, you are a trusted member of the group."

In her best-selling book, "Diamonds and Diplomats," Tish records many of her famous "bloopers" while in the White House. While they are hilarious reading now, they weren't so funny at the time, she recalls.

President Kennedy had a quick temper and used to fly into a rage easily — often using the secretary as his target. About 75 per cent of the time, the attack was undeserved, she says. But she soon learned to combat him by jumping the gun and "apologizing" before he said anything. This often left the President in laughter.

Since leaving the White House, Miss Baldrige's life has continued to be hectic, but much different. In December 1963, she married Robert Hollensteiner, a real estate consultant whose work takes him all over the country.

The couple has two children, Clare and Malcolm, who attend schools in New York. In fact, Miss Baldrige will be the June commencement speaker at her son's school, where she is also a trustee on the board.

As the head of Letitia Baldrige Enterprises, a public relations firm whose accounts include Clairol, Colgate Palmolive, Elizabeth Arden and Erica Wilson creations, Tish spends a great deal of time with the younger generation keeping abreast of current trends and marketing demands.

Her stay on the Pitzer College campus was sponsored by the Lilly Endowment of Indianapolis under a grant administered by the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation which brings nationally known careerists, administrators, artists and educations to college campuses.

This is the first time Pitzer College has participated in the project and Miss Baldrige's first visit to Pomona Valley. During the week, she has consulted with individual students, met for informal discussions with groups, addressed luncheons and made her self available to interested persons.

In advising young women about careers, seeking a job and future plans, she warns them that their appearance and attitude when applying for a job has as much influence on an employer as their academic qualifications.

"First, wear a dress and be well groomed. Second, be organized and assured. Third, be enthusiastic and humble.

"Today's students are highly motivated. They seek careers before marriage," she says. "Of course, I hope that every young person eventually finds happiness in marriage and parenthood.

"There is no reason for career conflicts if a person selects a mate carefully. If a man resents it when a girl breaks a date because of job responsibilities, she's been warned and should probably not marry him.

"On the other hand, many girls are not ambitious for careers and are perfectly happy living in the shadow of their husbands."

She describes her husband as a wonderful person who shares her goals. Both travel a great deal in their careers (but plan carefully — he's home with the children when she's gone). She says she's greateful that she is not a golf widow—the family shares weekend activities.

Already the author of four books and numerous articles, Miss Baldrige is committed to writing a book on the problems of coping with family life today.

"I have to," Tish laughs. "I have a contract with Viking Press and I've already spent the advance."

So that takes care of her summer vacation this year.

Cal Poly Library Friends set reception for General

Gen. Yeh Tsui-pai, internationally acclaimed painter of Celestial Horses, and his son Ning Yeh of Claremont Graduate School, follow the Yeh family tradition going back to the General's grandfather of painting horses in the Chinese brush-ink style.

The general, who recently arrived in the United States, will be exhibiting his "splash-ink" technique of painting at the Cal Poly Library on Saturday. Devotees of art, horses and Chinese philosophy are invited as guests of Friends of the Library to be present between 3 and 5 p.m.

As the famed scholar-general explains it, "The Celestrial Horse is the philosophical and physicial essence of the horse." It is the free spirit of the horse, forever alive, vital, galloping the sky.

The general's love of horses is widely known. When he was invited to exhibit at Cal Poly, he was delighted to find at the university a center for breeding and showing Arabian horses.

He watched the young colts cavorting in the fields and commented, "I can capture the spirit of the horse in brush and ink, but never the sheen of his coat."

Beside demonstrating his art, the general will present the Friends of the Library, sponsors of the demonstration-reception, a painting for the permanent library collection.

His paintings will be on view and may be purchased from May 18 to May 26 at the library.

FRIENDS OF LIBRARY RECEPTION

Gen. Yeh Tsui-pai gets acquainted with champion Arabian mare "Koulyfa" as he talks to Joan Coldwell on Cal Poly campus. The general will have his paintings on display in college library.

Learning strategy for crisis is new approach

PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Had a good crisis lately?

Flat tires, cats with lost tails, and peanut butter on a velvet chair don't count.

A good personal crisis may rattle your bones, shake your fillings, and change either your lifestyle or job.

"We live in a crisis culture and it affects the individual's ability to deal with the normal, personal crises of adulthood," say anthropologists George and Nena O'Neill —authors of "Open Marriage" a few years back, a best-seller.

In a new book, "Shifting Gears," M. Evans, the O'Neills come across as crisis doctors.

The Chinese say every crisis has in it danger and opportunity. Change is the survival word, according to the O'Neills. Unless you shift gears smoothly —changing without trauma — there's trouble.

"We are constantly told . . . that we must adjust to change imposed on us," O'Neill said.

"These are changes we never bargained for but must deal with. Only nobody ever told us how to change. 'Shifting Gears' tries to help."

Now, in a personal crisis, the psychological bases for our lives are shattered. Yet panic can be eased and anxiety mitigated if we know what to expect, according to the anthropologists.

"Crisis puts us in a position from which we cannot retreat," Mrs. O'Neill said. "It is the point of no return."

The worst strategy in a crisis: avoidance. The O'Neills said that is self-defeating.

Here, from the O'Neill's "Shifting Gears," is some advice to help you make crisis and change work for you:

—It is not the nature of the crisis that determines its impact but rather our attitude toward it. If we thought we were home safe —in a secure place —our attitude will be bad. If long before the crisis you recognized that there is no such thing as a secure place, the impact won't devastate.

—Try not to panic. You do this by agonizing over what might have been or by getting physically ill. To some extent you will do both these things but the quicker you pass through those stages and get on to phase three, the sooner you'll be shifting gears smoothly.

—Phase three is a period of remobilizing resources, with positive activity for solution. Move forward.

—Go into a crisis. The O'Neills said they mean "experience it fully . . . don't try to defuse it."

"You may experience considerable discomfort at first," they said. "But those who come through crisis with real change and growth are often those who seem to take the crisis the hardest."

What the O'Neills call the "maturity myth" generates its own crisis. This is the idea that you work hard, put some away and reach a really safe place in life sometime in the forties -or even later.

The myth is that you can't get to such a place without having a new crisis. And that comes over wonderment over having made it. You ask over and over —"Is this all there is to life."

O'Neill, a professor of anthropology at the City College of New York, said instead of gulping that maturity myth people should head toward "open maturity."

This was described, to their way of thinking,'by a young lawyer who told the O'Neills in an interview:

"The trouble is they think they are middle-aged and that life has passed them by, that they are not in the mainstream of life, anymore.

"For me, being in the mainstream means you are still growing, and that should never stop. For me, middle-aged is sixty-five and over, if you have to call it that.

"From age thirty, and I'll be there in two days, to age sixty-five is really middle youth."

The O'Neills reminded that crisis, handled properly means growth. So, to have this open maturity described by the young lawyer just wish for crisis after crisis after crisis.

It's good for you.
It makes you strong.
It keeps you young.
Who knows?
Crisis may be the fountain of youth!

Actress divorced

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actress Anna Maria Alberghetti Friday was granted a default divorce in Superior Court, ending her eight-year marriage to Claudio E. Guzman.

Miss Alberghetti was granted custody of the couple's two children, Alexandra, 8, and Pilar, 4, and awarded $1,000 a month in child support.

The actress also was given $200 a month alimony for the next 10 years and the couple's home in Benedict Canyon.

Guzman and Miss Alberghetti were married Sept. 12, 1964, and separated last year.

Back trouble remedied

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Mrs. Lupe Fragoso, 32, who was worried about that lump on her back, is more comfortable now that the gearshift knob was taken out.

Ever since she was involved in an automobile accident two years ago, Mrs. Fragoso has had trouble with her back, although the puncture wound she suffered had healed on the sucface.

Worried about a tumor, she recently went back to the doctor, who removed the black plastic gearshift knob that had been imbedded near her shoulder-blade.

Attention, brides

The Progress-Bulletin Women's Department looks forward to printing the stories of your engagement and wedding.

Please pick up engagement and wedding forms at the newspaper office and return them with the picture you wish used.

Engagement forms are not accepted if they are received less than six weeks before the wedding, and wedding forms should be returned within two weeks after the wedding with a picture of the bride only.

Snapshots, polaroid and color pictures are not acceptable for wedding pictures, although most color photos will be accepted for engagement announcements.

BUTTERFLIES — Flowers and butterflies of bright fabrics are arranged as decorations for St. Paul's choir fashion show by Mrs. George Chilberg and Mrs. Albert Brutocao.

Spring fashion show scheduled by choirs

Bright decorations will be arranged in the Parish Hall of St. Paul's Episcopal Church for the Friday fashion show planned by the church choirs.

Mrs. John Horton is chairman for the 8 p.m. event which has as its theme "Spring into Summer" and features fashions from Expres-Sew Fabrics of Claremont with Mrs. Clara Berg as narrator.

Prior to the show, at 7:40 p.m., members of the Don Lugo High School Choir in Chino will present a concert.

Proceeds from the show will be used to buy new vestments for the youth and adult choirs. Refreshments will be served.

Other choir members assisting with plans for the evening are Mrs. Jill Fulton, tickets and programs; Mrs. Joseph Pestrito, refreshments; Mrs. Richard Tiff, door prizes; and Miss Susan James, entertainment.

Tickets may be obtained from any choir member, by calling the church office at 622-2015, or at the door.

MSAC dean to address secretaries

Observations of the Soviet Union will be presented at the Wednesday evening dinner meeting of the Professional Secretaries Association.

Robert Meierding, dean of business education at Mt. San Antonio College, will discuss the Soviet Union's businesses, customs, dress and shops observed during his visit to Russia.

The public is invited to join the meeting at Michael's Restaurant in Glendora. Reservations may be made by calling Macaleen Spaulding at (714) 629-5111 or Donna Sell at (213) 969-3434.

Theater presentation set for AAUW Branch

The Tuesday meeting of the Pomona Branch, American Association of Unversity Women, will feature a Readers Theater presentation.

Members of the branch will participate in the 7:30 p.m. program at Great Western Savings, Pomona Mall.

Men, as well as women, will be interested in the Readers Theater program, a communicative art form in which readers bring works of literature alive without the use of props or a set.

The presentation will be "Women of All Ages" which was complied and written by Jane Longo from the Goleta Valley Branch, AAUW. The plot stresses looking at the status of women in literature from antiquity through the present to determine if woman's role in literature has changed along with her role in society.

This Readers Theater was presented by the Goleta Valley Branch at last year's state convention. Dorothy Dupler will be director and narrator. Readers are Eugenia Brubaker, Pam Dalsimer, Marilyn Gaddis, Barbara MacKenzie, Barbara Oglesby and Sally Orr.

Winner selected in contest

MRS. NABAKOWSKI

Mrs. Margaret Nabakowski of Pomona was first place winner in the Fair Valley Grange sewing competition.

She made a polyester double-knit outfit of pants and vest. The outfit will now be entered in state competition of the grange.

A native of Pomona, Mrs. Nabakowski has been a member of the grange for 25 years and is active in the First Christian Church. She and her husband, George, have three sons, Floyd, James and Richard, and three granddaughters.

Travelers to see slides

Herbert Tay of Pomona will present a travelogue, "Colorful Scandinavia," at the Wednesday meeting of Pomona Valley Travelers at 2 p.m. in St. Ambrose Episcopal Church, Claremont.

Friends are invited to the travel program which will show the fjords, chateau country, flower markets and arts of the Hans Christian Anderson country.

Tours planned for May include a visit to the Garden Grove Community Church and Knotts Berry Farm on May 19 and a tour to Catalina island on May 21 and 22.

The Spring Tour of Parks from May 28 to June 6 will include visits to Sequoia, Kings Canyon, Tahoe, Sacramento, San Francisco, Carmel, Hearst Castle and the Madonna Inn.

Voters' League

Officers announced

Officers and directors of the League of Women Voters of Pomona were elected at the 17th annual meeting.

Serving will be Mrs. Sara Nunn of Diamond Bar, president; Mrs. Patricia Marti, first vice president; Mrs. Virginia Siler, second vice president and chairman of local programs; Mrs. Helen Coonrod, secretary; and Mrs. Nina Mangrich, treasurer.

Directors for the year are Mrs. Dorothy Baker, voter service chairman; Mrs. Elizabeth Honer, public relations chairman; Mrs. Norma Johnson, unit meeting chairman; Mrs. Sophia Pearman, observer chairman; Mrs. Barbara Trieselmann, finance chairman; Mrs. Delores Hall and Mrs. Gloria Hewett.

Members of the nominating committee are Mrs. Joan Stronach, chairman, Mrs. Grace Lewis and Mrs. Helen Jones.

Mrs. Nunn received a B.A. degree magna cum laude from the University of Arizona and earned her master's degree in political science at the University of Wisconsin. She is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

She worked in Washington, D.C, as a legislative Assistant for Senator Joseph M. Montoya of Arizona before moving to Diamond Bar two years ago. She will attend the national LWV convention in San Francisco.

The League of Women Voters of Pomona has received 3,500 copies of the California Election Special (Pro and Con arguments) for the nine propositions on the June 4 primary ballot.

The information has been compiled by the League of Women Voters of California. Arguments for and against the propositions are not necesarily those of the league.

The Election Special is available at the Pomona Public Library and will be distributed at public meetings on Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the library of Lorbeer Junior High School, Diamond Bar, and on May 30 at 8 p.m. in the small community building at Palomares Park.

Voters may receive a copy also by mailing a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Mrs. Nina Mangrich, 3072 N. Garey Ave., Pomona, 91767.

A speakers bureau will explain the Pro and Con arguments for interested groups. Speakers are Mrs. Dorothy Baker, Mrs. Muriel Dunnett, Mrs. Janet Hoxsey, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Marti, Mrs. Nunn, Mrs. Siler and Mrs. Stronach.

MRS. SARA NUNN

Organizations wishing a speaker during May should call Mrs. Baker, 595-7682, or Mrs. Nunn, 595-0016.

Luncheon, style show announced

The Ontario Deanery, Diocesan Council of Catholic Women has planned a salad luncheon and fashion show Tuesday at noon at Our Lady of Lourdes Parish in the Father John C. Mackey Memorial Hall, Montclair.

Mrs. A. A. Velto of St. Joseph's parish, is in charge of the fashion show and will act as narrator with members of the various parish organizations acting as models.

Mrs. Lee Hendren, president of the Etiwanda Altar Society, and Mrs. Henry Lucas and Mrs. John Ganger of St. George Altar Society, are assisting with general arrangement. Decoration will be handled by women of St. Peter and Paul Altar Society, Alta Loma, and Mrs. Lloyd Wallace of St. Margaret's in Chino, will be in charge of coffee. Mrs. Arthur Novelli, president-elect of Our Lady of Lourdes Altar Society, is in charge of publicity and will be a hostess.

Other women assisting are Mrs. Herbert Minor and Mrs. Everett Gingerich.

Free babysitting will be available from noon until 3 p.m.

Remember horizontal stripes are for thin figures . . . not wide ones. No matter what the width of the stripe, they add inches.

Edison presents:
Entertaining with ease.
(And also ways to conserve electricity.)
Lots of people are entertaining more at home these days. And here in Southern California our casual lifestyle calls for friendly, relaxed parties. Open houses. Casual buffets. Informal sitdown dinners. Can you think of a better time to try out some new recipes? Mixing them with old favorites can be fun for everyone.
To help you plan your next party, we're presenting "Entertaining with Ease." You and your friends are cordially invited. There'll be recipes for such exciting treats as Sesame Cheese Balls, Zippy Cocktail Sausages, Antipasto Salad, Burgundy Meat Loaf, Lime Cheese Pie—and more.
The program will also highlight ways to conserve energy through lighting and interior color schemes. This is part of Edison's continuing Consumer Education Program.

Kovar-Zeigler vows said in Claremont

MRS. FRANK KOVAR

Miss Janice Rae Zeigler and Frank Joseph Kovar exchanged wedding vows in a double-ring service read by the Rev. James Dallas in the United Methodist Church of Claremont.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyce R. Coleman of El Paso, Tex., gave their daughter in marriage. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Darval of La Verne.

A floor-length gown of lace and satin was worn by the bride. It was fashioned with an empire waist and long sleeves. Tiny seed pearls decorated the bride's gown and her floor-length veil which was caught to a tiara of lace flowers.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and gardenias with blue baby's breath and long white streamers.

Mrs. Debi Anderson was her sister's maid of honor. Other sisters, Diana and Julie Ziegler, were bridesmaids. Gina Anderson was flower girl.

Russell Koval was best man for his brother and Frank Espinosa was the usher.

A reception at the church followed the rites.

After a honeymoon at the beach cities, Mr. and Mrs. Kovar will reside in Ontario.

Clubwomen to organize new group

The Christian Women's Club, in association with Stonecraft Ministries, will hostess a brunch on Tuesday at Pomona National Golf Club to organize a new club for women in the Hacienda Heights, Rowland Heights and Diamond Bar areas.

Mrs. Lucy Ross and Mrs. Orv Mestad, area representatives for Christian Women's Clubs, will be in charge of the meeting.

Christian Women's Club is an international ministry with over 1,100 clubs. It is nondenominational. There are no membership dues or special requirements for membership.

Brunch will be served at 11 a.m. Reservations may be made by calling (213) 339-3793 or (213) 966-9301.

Sorority to honor husbands

Pomona Valley Alumnae Association of Kappa Delta Sorority will meet Saturday at 6:30 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Machulies, 2284 La Paz Drive, Claremont.

Husbands of members will be honored at the potluck dinner. A slide program on wildflowers will be presented by E.C. Harrison.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. Machulies, 621-2267, or Mrs. Clem Svoboda, 984-5563.

Juniors will install officers on Tuesday

MRS. LARRY ADAMS

Newly elected officers of the La Verne-San Dimas Junior Women's Club will be installed following dinner at Griswold's in Claremont Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

Taking office as president for the second year is Mrs. Larry Adams. Other officers to to be seated are: Mmes. Joseph Wessel, first vice president; Robert MacChesney, second vice president; Gary Jann, third vice president; Crosby Nagengast, parliamentarian; John Baldidge, secretary; and James Toile, treasurer.

Other officers of the club assuming their duties that evening will be Mrs. James Anthony, publicity chairman; Mrs. Paul Rippens, historian; and Mrs. Tom Hunszicker, telephone chairman.

Mrs. Billie Mann, district president, will conduct the installation.

The La Verne-San Dimas club was chartered a year ago. Young women between the ages of 18 and 35, who would enjoy giving service to their community, are invited to contact the president at 599-1325.

Amaranth schedules breakfast

Della Robbia Court 130, Order of the Amaranth, has scheduled its annual Mothers Day pancake breakfast today.

The breakfast will be served from 8 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at the Upland Masonic Temple, 611 N. 3rd Ave., Upland.

The public is welcome and donations may be made at the door, according to Mrs. Ruth Adams, royal matron.

Square dance class open

The Foot 'n' Fiddle Square Dance Club's beginner class is still open to newcomers, according to Kenny McNabb, instructor.

The class, for couples only, meets from 7:30 to 10 p.m. at La Verne Community Center, 1550 Bonita Ave.

Members of the club assist in the instruction by dancing with beginners.

Silver Tea planned

Funds to aid Adobe

A Silver Tea at the Yorba Slaughter Adobe, 17127 Pomona-Rincon Road, Chino, will provide funds for the continued restoration of the adobe, which is now a branch of the San Bernardino County Museum.

The Chino Valley Woman's Club will sponsor the tea Friday from 2 to 4 p.m. The public is welcome.

Tea will be served in the dining room of the adobe. The remainder of the adobe and two other buildings on the premises will be open with tour guides present to offer information.

The adobe occupies part of a Spanish land grant. It was first occupied by the Raimundo Yorba family in 1852. It was purchased and enlarged in 1868 by Fenton Mercer Slaughter. The restoration of the building and collecting of family furnishings were started by Julia Slaughter Fuqua as a memorial to her father.

Since March 1973, it has been operated as part of the county museum with O.L. Scranton as resident curtor. It is open to the public on Saturdays and Sundays from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Tea hostesses on Friday will be Mrs. John T. Tomlinson, club president; Mrs. Paul Wade, president-elect and past presidents Mmes. John DeMille, Leo DeZoete, George Schucard, James Bruno, William Kramer and Miss Willora Williams. Mrs. Ed Pine is tea chairman and Mrs. Merle Worthy is a committee member.

Hadassah members to present program

Four talented members will present the program at the Wednesday meeting of Sharon Chapter of Hadassah.

Titled "Adventure in Aesthetics," the 10 a.m. meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Ina Penner, 4237 La Juna Drive, Claremont, and will feature artists who each work in a different media.

Mae Augarten will display her wall hangings and jewelry using many fibers, beads and feathers and incorporating macrame techniques. Toby Schulman will present her unique technique for producing three-dimensional glass art pictures.

A demonstration of her methods and her pen and ink drawings and oil paintings will be presented by Rachael Malmquist. Mrs. Penner, an artist in the old world technique of marquetry, will display her wood inlay pictures and explain the process she uses to produce them.

Mrs. Jerry Donin, donor chairman, has announced that the annual Sharon Chapter Donor Luncheon will be at the Pasadena Hilton Hotel at 11:30 a.m. on May 29. Reservation are due by May 22 with Mrs. Donin at 593-2166.

DO WANT ADS WORK?

DO MICE LIKE CHEESE?

The answer to both questions is a roaring "yes".

Why mice prefer cheese over all other types of food is something we two-legged creatures will never understand.

Why Want Ads work, at a lower cost and greater effectiveness than any other form of advertising, is easy to understand. It is because Want Ads provide people-to-people communication, bringing buyer and seller together.

If you've never used a Want Ad, you have a pleasant surprise in store for you.

THE AREA'S MAJOR NEWSPAPER

New secrets created faster than old ones declassified

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government is busy with a program to declassify secrets, but it may be making new secrets as fast as it lifts security restrictions from the old ones.

A federal review board set up to monitor President Nixon's 1972 executive order revamping the system used to classify information on national security grounds said that millions of government documents and records have been reclassified since 1972.

However, the panel hinted that "secret" stamps are going on new papers almost as fast as they come off the old ones.

In a report to the President, the Interagency Classification Review Committee said all 13 agencies covered by Nixon's order had made "significant progress" lifting the official wraps on material not directly involving U.S. defense and foreign policies.

The Defense Department, according to the report, cut its pile of top secret documents by 25 per cent last year alone, and similar actions were reported at the Atomic Energy Commission, the Justice Department and other agencies.

The board also said that the number of persons authorized to classify material as top secret, secret or confidential dropped from 59,316 to 17,364 — a 71 per cent reduction.

The committee acknowledged that "there is still much work to be done" and said it had not determined whether the total government inventory of classified documents and records was actually declining.

"While it is too early to see if a definite downward trend has been established, the committee has been informed by several agencies that they estimate that there have been marked reductions in the number of documents classified this year," the report said.

52-cent theft costly to man

VICENZA, Italy (UPI) — A court recently convicted postal worker Placido Padovan of embezzlement in stealing 52 cents worth of loose postage stamps he found among the mail.

It sentenced him to 17 months in jail, suspended the sentence, barred him from public office for the same length of time and fined him $40.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE INVITING BIDS

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids will be received at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Los Angeles County Flood Control District, Room 106, 2250 Alcazar Street, Los Angeles, California (mailing address, Terminal Annex P.O. Box 2418, Los Angeles, California 90051) up to 11:00 a.m., Thursday, May 30, 1974; and then will be publicly opened and read in room A-111 at the above address for the CONSTRUCTION OF REINFORCED CONCRETE CONDUIT FOR SAN JOSE CREEK, SOUTH SAN JOSE CREEK, UNIT 2, FROM 900 FEET UPSTREAM OF TEMPLE AVENUE TO 1958 STORM DRAIN BOND ISSUE PROJECT NO. 567, WEST POMONA, IN THE CITY OF POMONA, CALIFORNIA

The work involves, but is not limited to, the construction of approximately 7,890 linear feet of reinforced concrete conduit (including transitions) consisting of trapezoidal concrete channel, open rectangular concrete channel varying in size from 30'-0" WIDE by 8'-0" HIGH to 12'-0" WIDE by 9'-0" HIGH, and reinforced concrete box varying in size from 30'-0" WIDE BY 8'-0" HIGH TO 12'-0" WIDE by 8'-3" HIGH; side drains; confluences and upstream protection; an invert access ramp; headwall, channel and right of way fencing; access road surfacing; utility support and protection; sanitary sewer construction; and appurtenant work.

Appurtenant work includes, but is not limited to, clearing and grubbing, excavation, backfill and fill and other related work.

Excavation permits for test hole borings drilled within District right of way prior to award of the construction contract must first be obtained by the prospective bidder from the District and the applicable fees paid. Contact the Construction Division (213-223-2111, Extension 74341) to make the necessary arrangements.

THE BIDDER'S ATTENTION IS DIRECTED TO THE BID OPENING DATE WHICH IS THURSDAY, MAY 30, 1974.

Each bid must be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check or bidder's bond in an amount equal to ten (10) percent of the amount of the bid, payable to Los Angeles County Flood Control District as a guarantee that the bidder will, if awarded the contract, enter into a satisfactory agreement within fifteen (15) days after the date of the award and furnish a bond in the amount of at least fifty (50) percent of the amount of the accepted bid for the faithful performance of the work in accordance with the contract and specifications therefor and a bond in the amount of fifty (50) per cent of the accepted bid to guarantee the payment of the materialmen and laborers. Each bid must be made on the proposal blanks prepared by the District. The bidder's bond must be duly executed by the bidder and a financially sound surety company authorized to transact business in this state and whose name is on file with the County Clerk of Los Angeles County as an approved and financially sound surety company.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids not suited, in the judgment of the Board of Supervisors, to the best interests of the District.

Further information will be furnished and sets consisting of proposal blanks, drawings, and copies of the specifications may be obtained at the office of the Chief Engineer of Los Angeles County Flood Control District, Room 116, 2250 Alcazar Street, Los Angeles, California, upon payment as follows:

If drawings and specifications are picked up at the District's offices, the purchase price is $2.63 for each set which must be paid at the time the set is picked up. A mail address must be left with the District at that time which the prospective bidder agrees is sufficient to reach him. Please note that upon payment of the appropriate purchase price the drawings and specifications become the property of the purchaser and are not to be returned to the District for refund.

If drawings and specifications are requested by mail the purchase price is $3.63 for each set and the request must be accompanied by a check or money order in full payment for the number of sets desired. A return address must be furnished with such request which the sender thereby agrees is sufficient to reach him. Please note that upon payment of the appropriate purchase price the drawings and specifications become the property of the purchaser and are not to be returned to the District for refund.

The above prices include sales tax.

PREVAILING WAGE RATES

The Board of Supervisors of the Los Angeles County Flood Control District has ascertained the prevailing rate of per diem wages in dollars, based on a working day of eight hours, for each craft or type of workman or mechanic needed to execute any construction contract which may be awarded by the Los Angeles County Flood Control District. The current prevailing wage rates are as adopted by the Board of Supervisors on April 17, 1973, including all subsequent rate changes, adopted by the Board of Supervisors by reference.

The above-mentioned prevailing wage rates, including subsequent rate changes, are incorporated herein by reference and a copy is available at the office of the Board of Supervisors, Room 383, Hall of Administration, 500 West Temple Street, Los Angeles, California 90012.

The Contractor is required to pay prevailing wage rates and, pursuant to Section 1775, Labor Code (State of California), he shall forfeit twenty-five dollars for each calendar day, or portion thereof, for each workman paid less than the stipulated prevailing rates for any public work done under the contract by him or by any subcontractor under him. The Contractor is hereby required to post a copy of the above-mentioned prevailing wage rates at each job site.

By order of the Board of Supervisors of the Los Angeles County Flood Control District made April 30, 1974.

James S. Mize
Executive Officer-
Clerk of the Board of Supervisors

Labor Education Advancement Program (LEAP)

This is a Promotion and Development Project in which the Los Angeles Urban League, Inc.—Labor Education Advancement Program and the Los Angeles Building and Construction Trades Council cooperatively promote and develop more apprenticeship jobs in the construction trades and promote the wider use of minority youth as apprentices.

It has the endorsement and full support of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors. While not a mandatory condition of this contract, the successful bidder's participation in this worthy program is earnestly solicited.

GENERAL

WHAT A PRICE— $16,950
Small 3 bedroom home at a price anyone can afford. Owner installed new roof last year but has been forced to leave the area. Large back yard makes this an ideal home for that young family that needs the privacy of a home with an apartment budget. Let us show you how low the monthly payments could be.

ROLL UP YOUR SLEEVES— $17,950
Bring a paint brush and make the best buy of your life. A modern 3 bedroom 2 bath house way under market. Good northeast location. Seller had it rented but has left it vacant for quick move in. If your not afraid of work and are really looking for a deal, then move on this one today.

FINANCE SPECIAL— $19,950
Owner must leave area. Take over 7½% FHA loan with low, low down. 3 bedrooms and 2 baths with double attached garage. No long wait for loan qualifying, just move right in after small down payment. Won't last. Call now!

BELOW APPRAISAL— $20,000
Newly painted inside and out with a brand new roof. All of this and priced below FHA appraisal. Good Northeast Pomona location. Buy with nothing down but closing costs. Give us a call and take a look today.

JUST BIG ENOUGH— $20,500
Are you the forgotten couple? They don't build homes anymore for folks whose kids are raised but still want to live in a home with 2 large bedrooms and only need 1 bath. They are hard to find but we have one. It's not new but you can't tell by looking. We can take your larger home in trade or help you burn your rent receipts. Take a look and see if this lovely home won't fit your needs.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — When washing shoelaces I fasten them with a safety pin to the toe of a sock. The laces do not get lost in the rest of the wash. — GWEN.

DEAR POLLY — To help open sardine cans that come with a key that usually gets stuck before the can is fully open, I use the end of an old spoon or fork. Insert the end in the key to turn it, guiding the key so it turns farther before getting curled up. — SHELLY.

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, % this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — When I have a spotted suede coat or man's felt hat I rub the spots with coarse cornmeal, let it stand a while and then brush off with a stiff brush. The spots usually disappear. — MRS. W.G.M.

DEAR POLLY — When I see a small recipe in the paper, a magazine or on a can label I just cut it out and tape to a recipe file card rather than copying it. If the ingredients are not listed separately, I underline each of them, so when shopping nothing is forgotten. — PATTY.

DEAR POLLY — When washing lingerie I add a drop or so of hair shampoo to any stained places and rub with a small brush. This also leaves a fresh, clean smell. — J.E.

DEAR POLLY — Large metal sewing machine bobbins make excellent holders for embroidery thread. After opening a skein, wind it around a bobbin. — BEVERLY.

DEAR POLLY — Styrofoam wig holders and wig pins come in very handy for macrame projects, as the strands can be securely anchored and separated. — JEAN.

DEAR POLLY — If your snow boots are hard to get on and off, cut the vinyl down the center front and on each side make three or four holes (about 1½ inches apart). Run an 18-inch lace through the holes. Round laces are best. — MRS. M.L.A.

DEAR POLLY — During a long illness, one gift that will always be remembered is the several hours time one friend spent scrubbing and waxing my floors and cleaning the kitchen and bathroom for me. — MARY R.

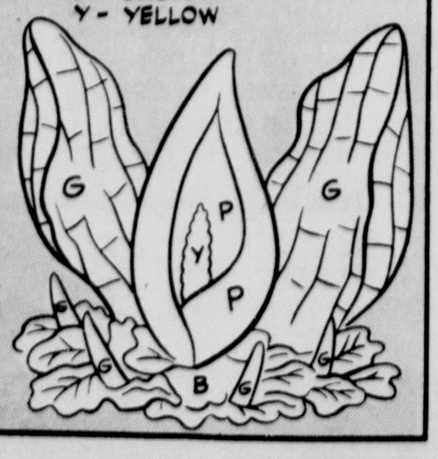
SKUNK CABBAGE

SKUNK CABBAGE GETS ITS NAME BECAUSE IT HAS A STRONG SMELL LIKE THAT OF A SKUNK AND ITS LARGE LEAVES SOMEWHAT RESEMBLE A CABBAGE



THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

SCOTT SWANSON OF JAMESTOWN, NY, ASKS:

"WHY DO OLDER PEOPLE HAVE WRINKLES?"

WHEN WE ARE YOUNG OUR SKIN IS STRETCHABLE, LIKE A RUBBER BAND. THE SKIN ON OUR FACE FITS TIGHTLY. BUT AS WE GROW OLDER, OUR SKIN LOSES SOME OF ITS STRETCH. AS THE YEARS PASS, OUR FACE SHRINKS A LITTLE, BUT THE SKIN DOES NOT. IT BECOMES TOO LOOSE FOR THE FACE AND LITTLE FOLDS APPEAR ACCORDING TO THE WAY IN WHICH THE SKIN HAS BEEN MOVED FOR MANY YEARS. THESE LITTLE FOLDS, OR CREASES, ARE WRINKLES.

Sears Highway Passenger Tire Guarantee

If you do not receive the number of miles specified because of your tire becoming unserviceable due to (1) defects, (2) normal road hazards, or (3) tread wear-out.

We will: At our option, exchange it for a new tire or give you a refund charging in either case only the proportion of the then current selling price plus Federal Excise tax that represents mileage used. If the tire is unserviceable due to any of the above causes before 10% of the guaranteed mileage is received, the replacement or refund will be made with no charge for mileage received.

Nail punctures will be repaired at no charge.

Guarantee applies to tires on vehicles used for private family purposes

Bushmen of the Kalahar

The Bushmen people of Southern Africa—a group whose prim
tive lives were filmed in detail 20 years ago by anthropologis
John Marshall—are revisited by Marshall to study the changes i their existence, in "Bushmen of the Kalahari," fourth of thi season's National Geographic Society color documentaries, pro duced in association with ABC News, and airing on ABC, Frida at 8 PM. Marshall, whose expeditions to South Africa to stud the lives of the Bushmen began in 1954 and extended over eigh years, produced a classic film on the subject.

Under an endowment from the National Geographic Societ in 1973, Marshall returned to the Kalahari Desert to look for som of the tribesmen he once knew, and to record the changes i Bushmen life. Marshall, who had lived with the Kung people had learned their language and had been given the name of hi teacher, Toma, set out on his trip from Francistown, a moder city in northeastern Botswana. Two messengers were sent ahea to tell the people that Marshall was waiting to see them. Finally they came, including Toma, and there was much excitement an conversation. In the evening, Marshall showed some of the film he had made 20 years before, including a notable giraffe hunt.

Next, the expedition penetrated the north central part of th
Kalahari Desert to look for other Bushmen. In a deserted village a broken pump told a poignant story: the people had left the are because the failure of the pump meant a lack of water. Deep i the desert, Marshall found the former inhabitants of the villag who told him of their hardships. Imploring Marshall to "fix th pump so we may return to our own land where our fathers are buried," the people were assured of his help. And so, the nex morning the long trek began across the desert to a faraway village

At journey's end, there is happy news. The pump is fixed; the water once again plentiful. Eventually, the Bushmen will settle at permanent waterholes and they will control their own lands—af firming their rights.

MAGICAL MYSTERY TRIP

The "ABC Afterschool Specials" series returns to the interesting area inside a person when Timer, a character from an earlier "... Afterschool Specials" ("The Incredible, Indelible, Magical, Physical Mystery Trip") presentation returns to take the audience on "The Magical Mystery Trip Through Little Red's Head." The fully animated hour show airs on ABC, Wednesday at 4 PM. Larry and Carol are taken by Timer inside their big sister's head as they go on a journey to learn about insight, understanding, the senses and the emotions. Through the use of music and nine new specially recorded songs, the two children and the audience gain an understanding of themselves. Herbert Klynn directed the script by Larry Spiegel for the DePatie-Freleng Production. "The Big D," representing 12 of the major nerves of the brain come on with a song called "You Gotta Learn To Relax" as they frantically perform in rock style. They are only one group of the many new characters introduced in the show.

KNXT SPECIAL ABOUT CANCER

"I'm Lee Grant . . . Think of fifteen women you know. Your mother . . . your sister . . . me . . . you . . . One of them will at some time in her life develop breast cancer. In the next hour, we're going to talk about breast cancer. The material is explicit and recommended for a mature audience."

Thus begins the opening narration of "Why Me?," an hour-long KNXT Special about one of the most tragic experiences a woman can undergo, cancer of the breast and surgical removal. Its only plus is that it can be a life-saver. It will air Monday at 10PM on Channel 2 in place of Medical Center that night only.

In the opening scenes of the broadcast actress Grant observes: "The loss of a breast is an unbearable thought. Maybe that's why so many women refuse to even think about breast cancer. They ignore it, they run away from it. And that is the most dangerous thing they can do.

"Every day in this country 170 women are told they have cancer of the breast. Every day in this country 85 women die of breast cancer. Fifty percent of all women who develop a cancer in their breast are dead within five years —and the cure rates are no better today than they were 35 years ago. "So you can't run away from it. The best thing you can do is know all the facts about breast cancer—how to know if you have it, what to do if you get it, how to live with it for the rest of your life."

Gina is among a group of women who relate their very personal experiences with breast cancer—the discovery, surgery and survival.

In KNXT's "Why Me?" ten women who have undergone breast cancer surgery tell their very personal stories about discovery, the surgery and their survival. The broadcast focuses on one woman who discovers a lump in her breast. And the KNXT cameras follow her progress from the night before the surgery, through the operation itself and to the time when she wakes and discovers the answer to the painful question that she has been trying not to think about.

And in what is probably a first for Los Angeles Television a young woman demonstrates on camera how a self-examination for breast cancer is conducted. Women will also see other methods of cancer detection that search out suspicious cells even before their own eyes and hands can make the discovery. "Why Me?" will also look into the controversy over the surgical treatment of operable breast cancer — with doctors in agreement that the important fact to remember is that breast cancer is curable in a large percentage of cases.

This important KNXT documentary special was produced by Joe Saltzman and executive producer Dan Gingold, a Channel 2 production team that was responsible for the highly acclaimed "Rape." "The Junior High School," "The Unhappy Hunting Ground" and "Black on Black."

Gina didn't think it could ever happen to her... but it did.

Gina developed cancer of the breast. Every day in this country 170 women are told they have the disease. Tonight, for one hour Gina and a lot of women like her will talk about breast cancer. What it is. How to recognize its symptoms. What to do if you develop it. And the treatments in use today. The material in this special program is candid and recommended for a mature audience.

If you're a woman...or a man who cares about a woman... this could be the most important hour of your life.

Why Me?

COVER CLOSE-UP

For Judy Norton... Schools Out!

Judy Norton believes one of the best things about growing up as a child actress is that it got her out of going to public school.

"ANYTHING is better than school," says the girl who plays Mary Ellen, the eldest daughter on The Waltons, (Thursdays, 8:00PM) on CBS. "It isn't that I don't approve of school, just the system," she says. "There are times when they won't let you on campus and other times when you need to leave and they won't let you off."

Naturally, she must go to school at the studio, three hours a day whenever public schools are in session in Los Angeles. Her classmates are the other younger members of the Walton family, Erin (Mary McDonough), Ben (Eric Scott), Jim-Bob (David Harper) and Elizabeth (Kami Cotler). Their schoolroom is either a room set aside on the stage or a trailer parked nearby. Between filming seasons she goes for a short time to a school near her home in Van Nuys but feels little rapport with the other students.

"The reason is that we live in different worlds and don't have time to get acquainted," she says. She has no interest in going to college. She believes she learns just as much at the studio classes as she would in a normal school. At age 16, Judy is about to get her first car and she can hardly wait. "I'd like to have a Corvette but will probably settle for an economy car," she says. Meanwhile, her mother, Connie, drives her to the studio in Burbank from their home in Van Nuys. Mrs. Norton, by the way, was born in England. and as Toni Lynn was a top acrobatic act in that country for eight years.

Born in Santa Monica, Calif., Judy at age 7 was taken to the Screen Extras Guild by her father, Hank, a truck driver for Standard Oil Co., after friends repeatedly said "she ought to be in pictures." After playing many brief roles, she got an agent and soon got increasingly larger parts including roles on Felony Squad, The Tammy Grimes Show and in the motion picture, "Hotel."

Having spent most of her life on sound stages, Judy is constantly asked if she regrets "giving up" the childhood activities her contemporaries enjoyed. "I don't think I've missed much because there wasn't much to miss," she believes. "Besides, I prefer associating with adults."

About three years ago she became interested in Scientology which she describes as "an applied religious philosophy which leads you to an awareness of yourself." "It is a scientific approach to mental health," she says. "You name a problem and they supply the guidance. It is very helpful for people who are shy or who are having trouble relating to others realistically. It's valuable for an actor because the more you understand other people the better you can understand what the author has written.

"It has also made me less gullible. I used to take a situation at face value but now I have learned to evaluate it. I think anyone, in any theater of life, can profit from improving his or her affinity level. "They teach 'A.R.C.' which stands for affinity, reality and communication. These are qualities which help you develop poise, awareness and direction."

Weekends Judy spends sewing, knitting, crocheting, playing guitar and enjoying all sports. She has a brother, Dave, 13, and a sister, Ricki, 18. They have a dog, Rusty, a cat, Rascal, and a tankfull of tropical fish. Because she plays a depression child with a threadbare wardrobe, Judy makes up for it by wearing stylish dresses, pants suits and mini skirts. And, of course, jeans. She has several boy friends who take her to movies, concerts and dinner "if they have enough money."

Will she continue acting as a career? "I will as long as the jobs keep coming," she says. "Otherwise I'll have to find something else to do." She doesn't believe she ever needed to go to acting school. "I'm learning more now than I could from a teacher just by working," she says. "In fact, I've had more acting experience than some of the teachers."

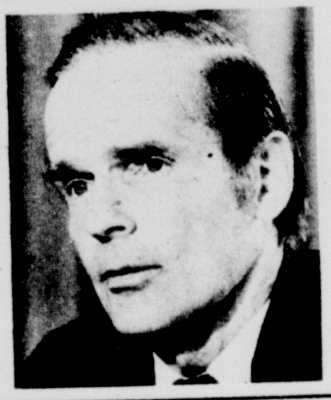
Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.



FOR SEN. WILLIAM PROXMIRE (D-Wis.)

You have been critical of the oil industry for years. Don't you feel that by your criticism you have contributed to the present energy crisis?—R. D. Collins, Midland, Texas

● It is true that I have criticized the special oil-industry tax treatment—the depletion allowance, the tax loopholes that allow oil companies to write off in one year what most companies must wait 8 to 12 years to write off, and the golden gimmick that treats "royalties" paid abroad as "taxes" and allows the companies to get away with paying little or no taxes at home. Most major oil companies pay from two to ten percent in federal income taxes. Other companies pay 48 percent! But there is no way that my criticism has contributed to the energy shortage. These loopholes go on. The oil companies continue to pay little or no taxes. If I had been successful and done away with the depletion allowances and other gimmicks, they might have a case. But we hardly put a glove on them, as the saying goes. No industry in history has had more incentives to produce than oil companies. The problem is they have been pampered with excesses.

FOR HARVEY KORMAN of "The Carol Burnett Show"

On "The Carol Burnett Show," you sometimes start laughing in the middle of a skit. Is this rehearsed?—Christi Grossman, Orange, Calif.

● Most of the people I work with on the show know that I break up easily, and they deliberately throw me off. Most of the time I just can't help it. I'm a great audience for other comedians.

FOR MARGARET TRUMAN DANIEL

How did it feel to be a young girl living in the White House?—Marge Lake, Troy, N.Y.

● We were able to live very privately on the second floor of the White House. I could have my friends in, and I kept a refrigerator on the third floor well-stocked just for our use. There was no raiding the big refrigerators downstairs, because they were kept locked. There were too many security men, secretaries and others about who liked to snack.

FOR WILLIAM FRIEDKIN, director of "The Exorcist"

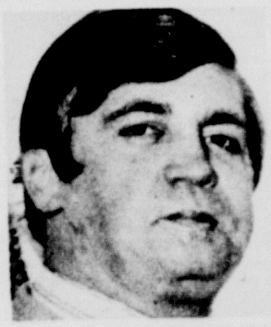
Do you feel any pangs of remorse when you hear about people being almost turned "psycho" by your movie?—Helen Wallace, Bloomington, Ind.

● Anyone who is blitzed by seeing "The Exorcist" was in trouble going in. People get from the film what they bring to it. To me it's a film about the mystery of faith, the mystery of goodness. A lot of people are apparently coming out with a negative image. I didn't put it there.

FOR ROSEY GRIER

Did anyone make a crack about your doing needlepoint after your book "Needlepoint for Men" came out?—D. L. Lansing, Merced, Calif.

● One guy did, and I think they're still looking for him. Actually, I don't resent it. I feel everyone should do what he wants to do and not bother about its being labeled masculine or feminine or whatever.



FOR BUFORD PUSSER, real-life hero of "Walking Tall"

"Walking Tall" is supposedly the true story of how you cleaned up a crime-ridden county in Tennessee. How much of the movie was really true?—James Dolan, Canton, Ohio

● About 80 percent. We made some changes because some of the innocent people still living there would be hurt if we said what relatives of theirs had done. I was shot eight times and stabbed seven times, and many of those incidents weren't shown in the movie. But the important facts are there, so I don't hesitate to say it is a true-to-life movie.

FOR DONNA FARGO, country singer

Is it true that you're a teetotaler?—A. F., Kingsport, Tenn.

● It's true that I've never had a drink. Back in college, people were always trying to trick me into it, too—but I always knew immediately if somebody had switched drinks on me while I was away. And I'd get mad. They're the same kind of people, I think, who throw you in a pool and try to drown you, saying you'll sink or swim.

FOR DORIS DAY

I have heard that you would never wear the fur of any animal. Is this true?—Kay Gorelsky, Savannah, Ga.

● I don't believe it's right that an animal should be killed for a frivolous reason, and I can think of no more frivolous a reason than to provide a woman with an adornment to feed her vanity. I am in favor of wearing synthetic furs, which can be very attractive.

FOR HANK AARON

Babe Ruth used to swing mammoth 50-ounce bats. What are the dimensions of yours?—Dane Roysden, Marion, Ind.

● I use a "Hank Aaron" bat made by Hillerich and Bradsby. The model number is A-99 and it's 35 inches long. The weight varies between 33 and 33½ ounces. Not as big as the Babe's, I guess.

FOR THE ASK THEM YOURSELF EDITOR

What's the story on the romance between Al Pacino and Tuesday Weld? Any chance of their marrying?—Oren Wadell, Hamilton, Ohio

● Not as of this moment. Al and Tuesday—who were quite cozy together for many months—had a big battle and went their separate ways. Al seems to be happy dating just about every beauty in sight, but Tuesday is licking her wounds and being consoled by her former husband, Carl Harz, with whom she's still friendly. And Dudley Moore, the English actor, hovers prominently on her horizon.

Interview by Alan Ebert

An Open Mother's Day Card To Our Mom, Jane Powell

"Her homelife was just that: a home life."

Sissie

Lindsey

"When I decided to take my own apartment at 17," says Sissie Steffen, "Mom didn't exactly love the idea. But she raised me to be like her—independent. Today she lets me know she's very proud of me. Very few people at age 21 own 12 horses, a stable and a reputation as one of the best trainers of hunters and jumpers in the state. I owe that to my mother."

"I'm the baby of the family," says Lindsey, "and Mom has always had a little trouble learning how to let go. Last summer she nearly had kittens when I told her I didn't want to appear in summer stock. Previously, I had spent four summers playing with her in 'The Sound of Music,' 'The Boy Friend' and 'My Fair Lady.' But I grew tired of being Jane Powell's daughter. I wanted to do something that was solely me. So I ran a concession stand and doubled as a waitress and loved every minute of it. Do you know, when Mom adapted to the idea, she slapped me on the back and wished me good luck when she saw how happy I was. That's what she cared about."

"That reminds me of the time I embraced Buddhism," says Sissie. "Mother was skeptical to say the least, but she did something super. She attended our meetings, and after listening and observing, recognizing we were sincere, she said, 'Okay, if that's what you want.' Do you know what made it doubly special? For as long as I was interested in Buddhism, she would talk to me about it and try to understand the ideology that appealed to me."

"Actually, Mom's what you would call a feeler-outer," says Lindsey. "She'll never say no to something we want, at least not until she investigates it. Most often, as soon as she determines that it's not harmful, she'll give in. She knows that at 18 I have a lot of growing up to do, but she is allowing me to do it my way rather than hers. Two years ago, when I met Mike, he became my whole life. I don't think it was a conscious decision suddenly to exclude my mother, but I did. And she never complained. I think she understood it was something I had to do then and that it would change as soon as I matured."

"One of the reasons Mother's career died for a while is because she wouldn't do Broadway; wouldn't leave the family; wouldn't miss one minute of our growing up."

"Lindsey having a steady at 16 was a bit of a shock for Mom," laughs Sissie, "considering how slow I was in that area. I was first allowed midnight curfews at that age! Mom is a very old-fashioned mother in some ways. She insists on knowing where her children are. Frankly, I always liked that. No one ever raised us kids except Mother. She was a mother and homemaker first, then an actress. If she ever felt a conflict between her career and her life at home, I never felt it. Even when I went with her to the set, she was always my mother first and then Jane Powell. Much later, when we all went on the road summers to do summer stock, she would also never allow rehearsals to interfere with the family's time. One of the reasons Mother's career died for a while is because she wouldn't do Broadway; wouldn't leave the family; wouldn't miss one minute of our growing up."

"You know, I think Mom's lonely in New York without us," says Lindsey. "Despite her bubbliness, Mom doesn't make friends easily. What friends she does have, she has had for ages —like Roddy McDowall, who's almost like an uncle to us. I think he's Mom's only real show-business friend. I know she adores Red Skelton and is fond of Dean Martin, but Mother has never brought her Hollywood life into our home. Her homelife was just that: a home life."

"Mom's always said, 'Just be yourself,'" says Sissie. "That's great advice. I did just that. In fact, she kids me that I chose the farthest thing from Jane Powell to be myself. Mom is positively and absolutely allergic to horses. I am not jealous of Mother's work or stature. I'm happy for her and proud."

"Mom loves her work," says Lindsey. "She'll tell you otherwise, but she's miserable when she's away from performing too long. She's always ready, constantly in shape, even during the layoffs. I have never known a morning when she didn't grunt-and-groan for a full 30-minute workout. She's taken dance lessons every Monday, Wednesday and Friday for as long as I can remember. I laugh when I read an interview in which she says she hates the life of a stage actress. She loves it! She loves to sing and she loves the applause."

"But it is more than just that," adds Sissie. "Mom loves to make people happy. I think now that we're grown, Mom will work at her career again."

"She felt unwanted by the public for a very long time, but now this incredible reaction to her in 'Irene' has changed that," says Lindsey. "You see, Mom really feels love for her audiences. Now that it is being returned, I think she has a fulfillment she's denied herself."

"Lindsey is right," says Sissie. "Work to her is living, and her motto's always been to live."

"So Mom, if you're reading this, know our best wishes are with you. After all you've done for us, you deserve this new life for yourself. Now—go out there and knock 'em dead!"

Love,
Sissie and Lindsey

"Jane Powell is Irene" advertise the posters and billboards of the long-running musical in which MGM's former girl-next-door darling-of-millions makes her Broadway debut. But . . . Jane Powell is really Mother to two daughters—Suzanne ("Everyone calls her Sissie") and Lindsey, ages 21 and 18 respectively. Theirs is a unique family. "We all do our thing," says Sissie, who owns the Sissie Steffen Stables and is horse trainer at Will Rogers State Park. "And," adds sister Lindsey, "particularly Mama. She beat us all last year in a downhill slalom race."

People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

What Really Makes People Creative?

True or False: Women who have many romantic fantasies are likely to possess a high creative potential. (See number 5)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Creative people live in a different world from the non-creative.
2. You can be highly intelligent and lack creative ability.
3. Creative people live longer.
4. You're likely to be more creative if you were brought up on a farm or in a small country-town environment, where the family activities and diversions were of the simple, homespun variety.
5. Women who have many romantic fantasies are likely to possess a high creative potential.
6. It's easy for a person to increase his capacity for creative thinking.

ANSWERS

1. True. As one authority observes in summing up the findings of leading studies on creativity, "The creative person's originality derives, in part, from his ability to perceive the world differently than do other persons. Less bound than others by cultural conditioning, the creative person retains an open mind and a childlike capacity to experience the world in a personalized, innovative manner. He also possesses a childlike ability to fantasize, to imagine and to express curiosity." These capacities are present to some extent in a great many individuals, but, more often than not, they are allowed to remain dormant. It follows that only to the degree that they are awakened and cultivated is a person's creative potential realized.

2. True—as evidenced by psychological studies at Case Western Reserve University, which showed that though intelligence may facilitate the development of creativity, it does not insure it. Even though a person's IQ is high, there are many other factors that relate to creativity. For example, it's pointed out that "rigidity [closed-mindedness] as a personality trait may limit creative expression." And research on creativity at Princeton University bears this out.

3. True. Two leading studies of longevity have shown that the ability to express oneself creatively tends to go hand in hand with good health, a general feeling of well-being, good morale—and a life-span that averages appreciably longer than that of the general population.

4. False—according to a university study of hundreds of schoolchildren who were administered a battery of tests relating to five measures of creativity. The results were compared with the family backgrounds and life-styles of the parents. It was found that "parents of highly creative subjects preferred a complex and stimulating environment for themselves and for their children."

5. True—as shown by research at a leading university, where it was found that women who daydreamed frequently, who entertained myriad fantasies about love and romance, were apt to possess a marked creative potential. Women who never had such fantasies at all "appeared to be a bland, passive and conventionally feminine group." Furthermore, research into the personality characteristics of creative women, conducted at the University of California, showed that women who had distinguished themselves in creative fields (artists and writers) differed from other women in that they were more emotional, aggressive, adventurous, imaginative and self-sufficient. Women authors were found to be "more sensitive and less controlled than women in general."

6. True. The secret of getting more mileage out of your creative powers with no more effort than pressing a button has been demonstrated at Middle Tennessee State University, where studies were made on the effect of sound on creative performance. Subjects were given creative-thinking tests, and scored for fluency, flexibility, originality and elaboration of ideas. They were tested under four sound conditions: speech, music, industrial sound and quiet. Findings: "Subjects' mean performance was higher under music in all creative categories—except elaboration. And industrial sound accounted for the lowest performance on all creative scores except fluency." Other results: Subjects were more fluent, original and elaborate in quiet surroundings than when the sound of people talking was audible to them.

How to collect from Social Security at any age!

© 1974, Good News Publishing Co.

Would you like to know how much money you have invested in Social Security right to the penny? Then would you like to know how to get the most from that investment including all the brand new Social Security benefits? Now you can do both by using the short easy coupon at the bottom of this page. Here is the way it works. The left half of the coupon will be sent to the proper government office. They will run a check on your account and then send you a report in a confidential sealed envelope. This report will tell you how much of your earnings have been recorded in your Social Security account year by year. There is no charge for this service, not even postage.

The right half of the coupon will be used as a shipping label to send you a copy of a new book entitled, "How to collect from Social Security at any age." If you think that you have to wait until retirement age to start collecting your Social Security benefits, this book will really open your eyes. Here are some of the little-known facts about Social Security you will find out about in this book:

- How to increase the amount of your payment if you are already on Social Security.
- How to collect your share of the brand new Social Security benefits just passed by Congress.
- How to qualify for Social Security disability pensions at any age.
- How to increase your Social Security benefits.
- How to report your Farm income for Social Security.
- How to make your whole family eligible for Social Security benefits, even your youngest children.
- How to replace a lost Social Security card.
- How to replace a lost Social Security check.
- How to get a refund if you have overpaid your Social Security taxes. (Studies show that two out of three people overpay.)

To get your benefits you must know how to apply for them. The book tells you how to qualify, who to contact—including all necessary addresses, and what to say. This is a 100% no risk offer. If you do not like the book, return it and your $3.00 will be immediately refunded. You will still get the confidential report on your Social Security account.

If you do not take advantage of your new Social Security benefits, you are only cheating yourself, after all, you have already paid for them. It is easy to start getting your new Social Security benefits. Just fill out both parts of the coupon below. Mail the coupon and $3.00 in cash, check or money order to The Good News Publishing Co., 7576 Freedom Ave., North Canton, Ohio 44720. The book will be sent to you immediately by return mail. Your confidential Social Security report will be mailed to you separately as soon as the government has finished checking on your account. Checks and money orders should be made payable to The Good News Publishing Company.

Something for menthol smokers to think about.

There are menthol cigarettes and there are menthol cigarettes. And if you're a menthol smoker you certainly know by now which one you really enjoy smoking.

So what makes us think we'll ever get a crack at switching you?

Well, we're going to try.

Because if you're like a lot of cigarette smokers these days, you're probably concerned about the 'tar' and nicotine stories you've been hearing.

Frankly, if a cigarette is going to bring you flavor, it's also going to bring you smoke. And where there's smoke, there has to be 'tar.' In fact, in most cigarettes, the more flavor, the more 'tar.' Except for Vantage.

You must know that Vantage cigarettes have a special filter which reduces 'tar' and nicotine without destroying flavor.

What you may not know is that Vantage is also available in menthol.

Not surprisingly, what separates Vantage Menthol from ordinary menthols is that Vantage Menthol gives you all the flavor you want, with a lot less of the 'tar' and the nicotine that you probably don't want.

Now Vantage Menthol is not the lowest 'tar' and nicotine menthol you'll find. It's simply the lowest one you'll enjoy smoking.

Since you're the best judge of what you like about menthol cigarettes, don't just take our word for it.

Try a pack of Vantage Menthol and then you'll know for sure.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

Filter: 10 mg. "tar," 0.8 mg. nicotine, Menthol: 11 mg. "tar," 0.9 mg. nicotine—av. per cigarette, FTC Report Sept. '73.

Today there is a new emphasis on health, longevity and a trim, attractive body. Here's a special section designed to cut through the propaganda and zealotry—and provide the basic, common-sense facts you and your family should know.

Those "Good-for-You" Foods Can Be Great-Tasting, Too!

Laszlo

Nutrition-wise, this is a perfectly balanced table setting. Recipes include: Baked Whole Stuffed Fish, Marinated Flank Steak, Barley-Mushroom Pilaf, Quick Lemony Sautéed Liver, Cottage Cheese Vegetable Salad, Blushing Yogurt Dressing, Orange-Glazed Beets, Raw-Vegetable Mélange, and Green Beans with Basil.

Baked Whole Stuffed Fish

⅓ cup plus 2 teaspoons corn oil
⅓ cup finely chopped onion
3 cups (¼ inch) stale bread cubes, about 5 slices
1 cup chopped celery, ribs and leaves
¼ cup finely chopped parsley
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons hot water
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
1 (3-5 lbs.) whole fish (striped bass, bluefish, red snapper, carp, lake trout), rinsed and cleaned
Parsley sprigs
Lemon wedges
Carrot slice

1. Heat ⅓ cup oil in medium skillet. Add onion and cook, stirring, about 5 minutes.
2. Add bread cubes and stir until coated with oil. Remove from heat. Add celery, parsley, lemon juice, water, salt and pepper; mix well.
3. Preheat oven to 500°F. Line 15x10x1-inch baking pan with foil and oil lightly.
4. Place fish in pan. Stuff body cavity with dressing. Close with wooden toothpicks. Brush fish lightly with remaining oil. Continued

A Great New Liver Dish With a Lemony Taste!

5. Bake 5 minutes on rack in middle of oven. Reduce heat to 400°F. and continue baking 40-65 minutes (allowing 12 minutes per pound), until fish flakes easily with fork.

6. With two large spatulas, remove from baking pan to heated serving platter or wooden plank. Garnish with parsley sprigs and lemon. Cover fish eye with carrot slice. Serve immediately. Makes 4-6 servings

Calorie count, assuming all of oil is consumed:

MARINATED FLANK STEAK

1½-2 lbs. flank steak
¼ cup sesame seed
¼ cup corn oil
¼ cup soy sauce
¼ cup dark corn syrup
2 tablespoons dry sherry
1 small onion, sliced
1 clove garlic, crushed, or ⅛ teaspoon garlic powder
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
¼ teaspoon ground ginger

1. Trim steak of excess fat. Cut steak diagonally ⅛ inch deep to score. Snip narrow end of meat to prevent curling.

2. Stir remaining ingredients together.

3. Place steak in marinade, turning to coat both sides. Cover with foil or plastic wrap and refrigerate several hours or overnight. (You may also use a heavy-duty plastic bag to marinate steak. Fill bag with marinade, add steak. Close securely. Place bag in pan to prevent any spills, refrigerate as above.)

4. Preheat broiler if necessary. Place steak on broiler rack and broil 6 inches from source of heat, turning once. Broil about 5 minutes first side and 3 minutes second side, a total of 8 minutes for medium rare.

5. Place steak on serving platter or board and slice thinly on the diagonal, across grain of meat.

Makes 6 servings, 200-225 calories per serving

QUICK LEMONY SAUTEED LIVER

¼ cup corn oil
½ cup sliced onion
1½ lbs. beef liver, sliced (½ inch), cut into 2x½-inch strips
½ teaspoon salt
Few twists freshly ground black pepper
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ cup finely chopped parsley

1. Heat oil in large skillet. Add onion and sauté until golden, about 5-8 minutes. Remove to paper towel, cover.

2. Add liver to skillet and sauté quickly over medium-high heat, stirring frequently, until browned on both sides. (Takes about 5 minutes.) Season with salt and pepper.

3. Sprinkle with lemon juice and parsley, toss. Arrange on serving platter, top with onions.

Makes 6 servings, 260 calories per serving

KNOW YOUR "BASIC FOUR" FOOD PLAN
(It's the Easy Way to a Balanced Menu!)

1. MEATS

Importance: Basic source of protein.

Amounts recommended: Two or more servings per day of 2-3 ozs. of lean cooked meat, poultry or fish.

2. FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

Importance: Basic source of vitamin C (citrus; fresh strawberries; broccoli; brussels sprouts; peppers) and vitamin A (dark-green, orange and deep-yellow vegetables).

Amounts recommended: Four or more servings every day, including one serving of a good source of vitamin C, and one serving every other day of a good source of vitamin A. The remaining servings may be of any other vegetable or fruit.

3. DAIRY PRODUCTS

Importance: Source of bone-building calcium; vitamin A and vitamin D.

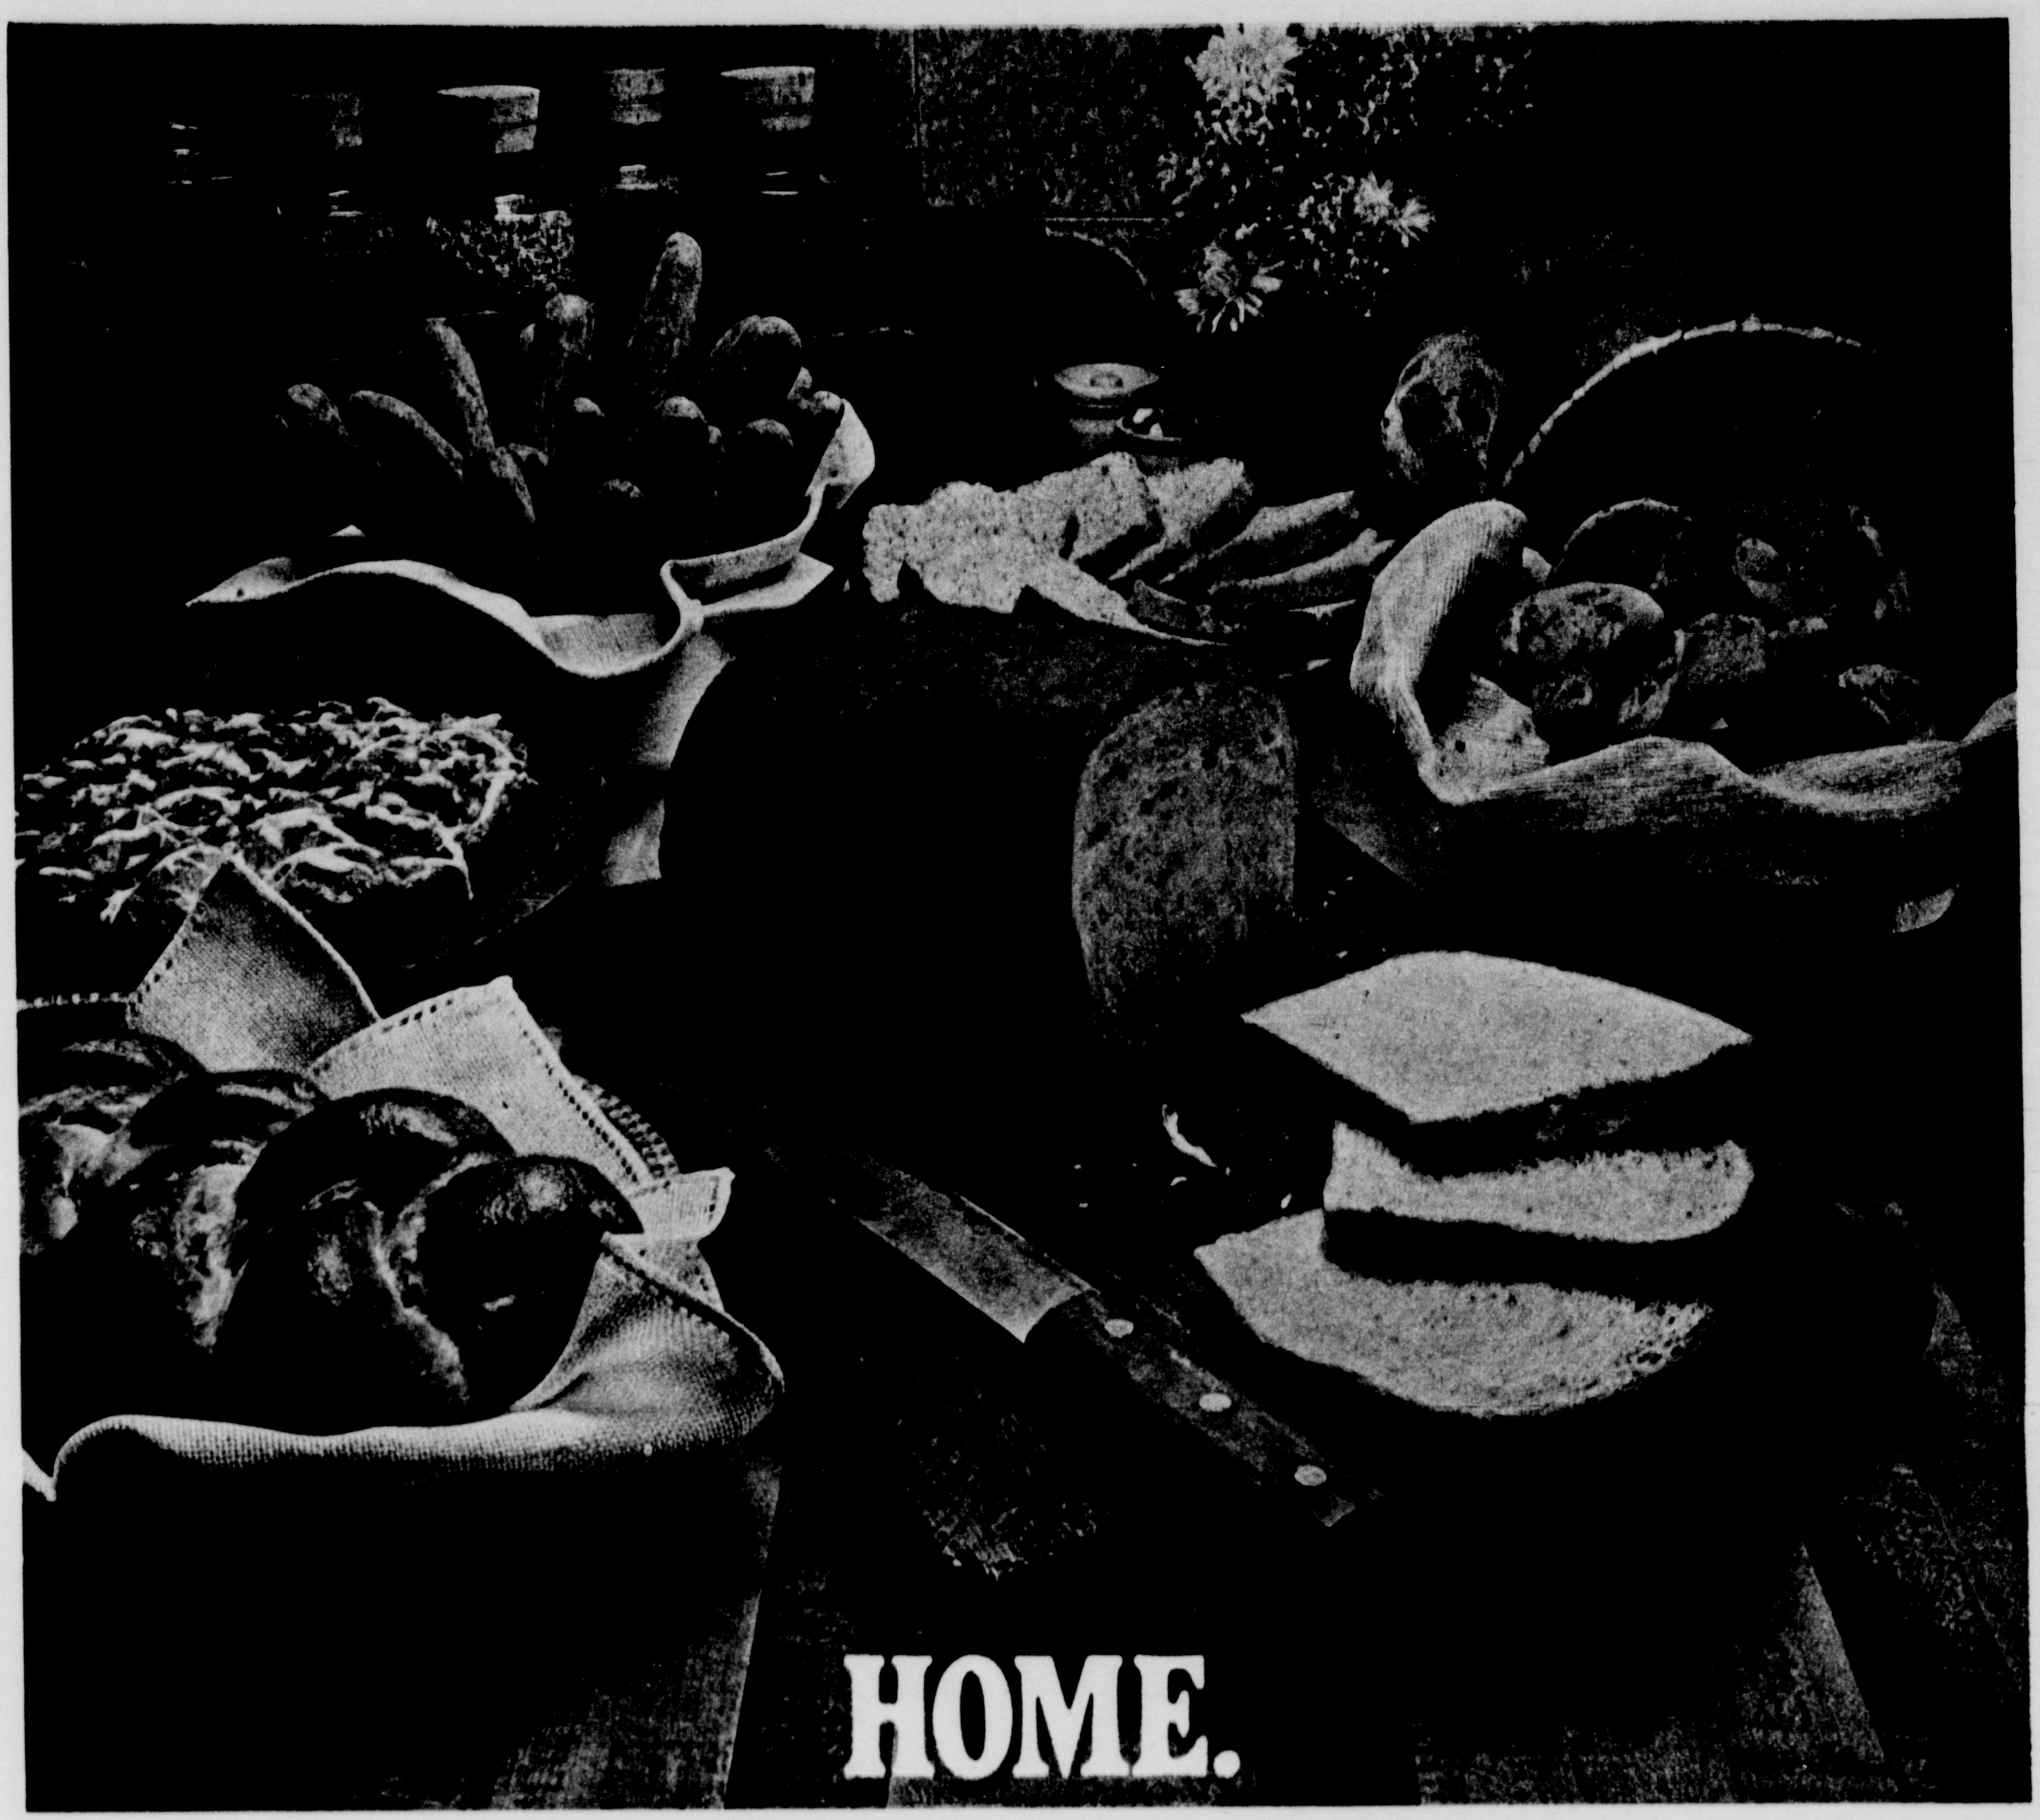
Amounts recommended: Children under 9: 2-3 glasses milk; children 9-12: 3 or more glasses; teenagers: 4 or more glasses; adults: 2 or more glasses.

Milk products such as cheese, ice cream or yogurt may replace part of the milk directly or in cooking.

4. BREADS AND CEREALS

Importance: Carbohydrates (for energy); B vitamins; calcium.

Amounts recommended: Four servings or more daily. Count as one serving: 1 slice of bread; 1 oz. ready-to-eat cereal; ½-¾ cup cooked cereal, cornmeal, grits, barley, macaroni, etc.



Remember the rich, warm feeling you got in your mother's home every time she baked? The smell? The taste?

It seemed to tell you just how much she cared.

There's nothing stopping you from giving your own family the same good feeling.

All it takes is fine ingredients like Fleischmann's Yeast, a little imagination and love.

You too, can bake beautiful breads and cakes like these the first time you try. It's that easy.

To start, why not try an Apple Cake, some Rye Bread Sticks, a basketful of Breakfast Bow Knots, Cheese Bread or any one of the seven tempting baking ideas pictured above.

These Recipes Emphasize Flavor, Boast Few Calories

BARLEY-MUSHROOM PILAF

2 tablespoons margarine
½ cup sliced mushrooms
¼ cup chopped onion
¼ cup coarsely chopped green pepper
1 cup medium pearl barley
2 cups chicken broth
½ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
¼ cup finely chopped parsley

1. Heat margarine in 3-qt. saucepan. Sauté mushrooms, onion and green pepper 5 minutes, stirring frequently.

2. Add barley, chicken broth, salt and pepper; stir. Heat to boiling. Reduce heat; cover and simmer for 45-55 minutes, or until barley is tender and liquid is absorbed. Stir occasionally, add water if necessary.

3. Stir in parsley lightly with fork just before serving. Makes 8 (½ cup) servings, 133 calories per serving

COTTAGE CHEESE VEGETABLE SALAD

6 crisp lettuce leaves or cups
2 cups cottage cheese
1 medium cucumber, peeled and thinly sliced
¼ lb. fresh mushrooms, sliced
1 medium zucchini, cut in strips
2 medium tomatoes, cut in 12 wedges
Blushing Yogurt Dressing, recipe on Page 14

1. Arrange lettuce leaves on serving platter, leaving space in center.

2. Divide cottage cheese and place a small mound in center of each lettuce leaf. Arrange cucumber, mushrooms, zucchini and tomatoes around cottage cheese.

3. Place small bowl of Blushing Yogurt Dressing in center. Makes 6 servings, 101 calories per serving without dressing

ORANGE-GLAZED BEETS

1 tablespoon margarine
½ tablespoon minced onion
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
½ cup orange juice
2 tablespoons light corn syrup
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Dash salt
Dash pepper
2 cans (1-lb. size) sliced beets, drained

1. Melt margarine in 3-qt. saucepan over medium heat. Add onion and cook 1 minute, stirring. Remove from heat.

2. Stir in cornstarch until smooth. Mix in orange rind and juice, corn syrup, lemon juice, salt and pepper. Heat to boiling, stirring.

3. Add beets, stir. Cover and simmer 5 minutes until thoroughly heated.

Makes 6 servings, 72.5 calories per serving

QUIZ: SO YOU THINK YOU KNOW WHAT'S GOOD FOR YOU...

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. It's a good idea to take one food of animal origin at each meal.
2. Teenage girls require as much food as teenage boys.
3. Acne is caused by improper diet.
4. Vegetable food values are not affected by the amount of water used to cook them.
5. Fattening a baby improves his health.
6. Potatoes boiled with "skins" on retain more vitamin C than if cut up.

ANSWERS:

1. True. Foods of animal origin, such as skim milk, do not have to be very high in cholesterol; also, animal proteins balance proteins of vegetable origin.
2. False. They require about two-thirds to three-quarters of the quantity eaten by boys. But girls do require almost the same quantity of protein, vitamins and minerals.
3. False. The AMA reports that acne is not caused by improper diet. There's no proof that fatty foods make skin oily. Certain foods, like chocolate, may worsen the skin problems of some individuals — but skin cleanliness is thought to be the best control.
4. False. The use of as little water as possible is recommended to preserve vitamins. (Steaming is an excellent cooking method—place vegetables on a perforated rack over water.)
5. False. Children who are overfed during the critical ages from birth to two years and from eight to 12 years tend to develop more fat cells than children on normal diets. These fat cells remain throughout life. Therefore, overfeeding a baby can create problems he will never be able to overcome.
6. True. Exposure to air destroys vitamin C.

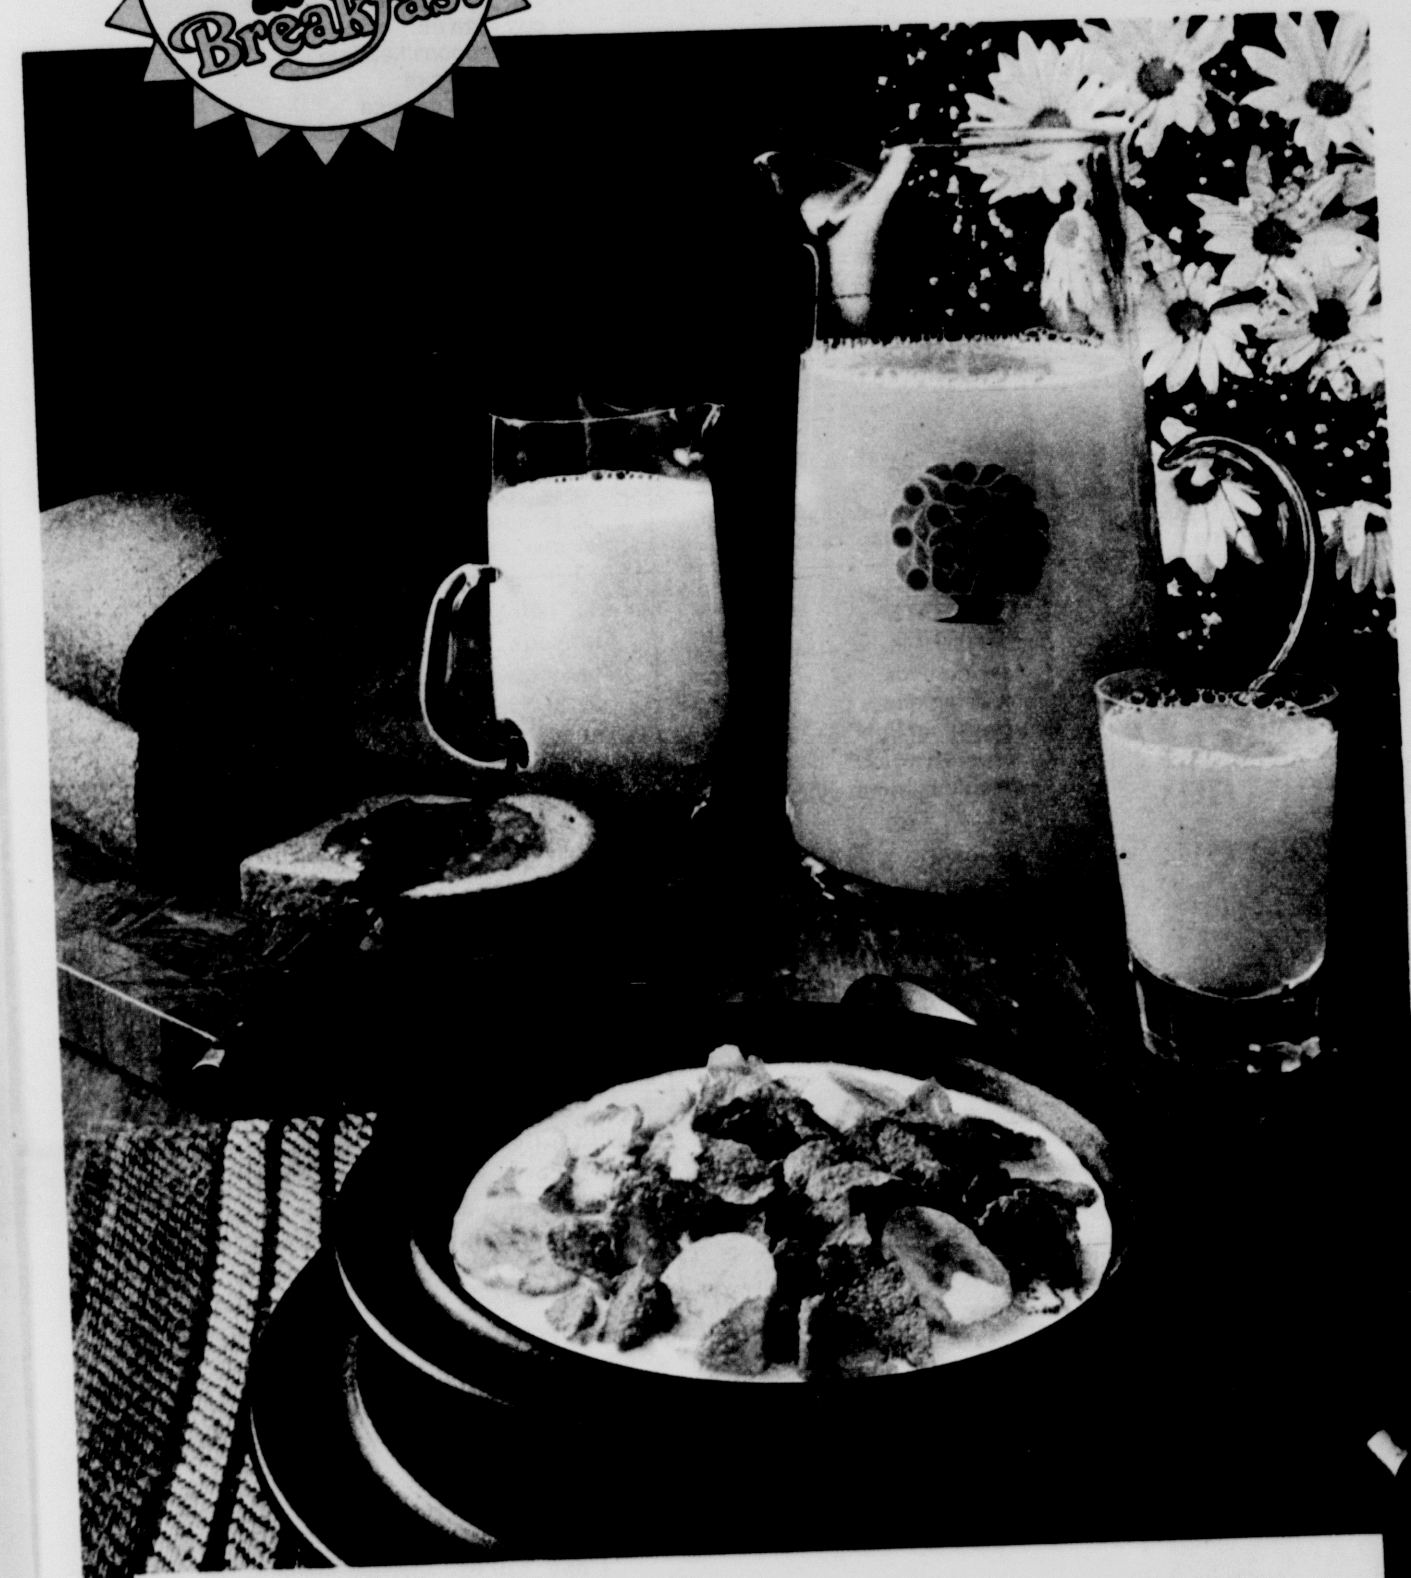
A better you starts with a Better Breakfast

Better Nutrition at Breakfast



A nutritious breakfast gets you going and helps you keep going all morning long.

Having a good breakfast often makes the difference between getting off to a sunny start or a drab day. Our bodies need a nutritious morning meal to break the fast after the night's rest.

The Iowa Breakfast Studies showed persons who skipped or skimped on breakfast started slowing down by midmorning. Good breakfast eaters stayed mentally and physically alert right up to lunchtime.

Don't you miss out on any of life's good mornings. Start enjoying a better you by beginning every day with a better breakfast.

WHAT MAKES A NUTRITIOUS BREAKFAST?

A good breakfast should supply about one-fourth of our daily requirements for calories, protein, vitamins and minerals.

There are many kinds of morning meals that meet these nutrition requirements. One of them is the basic cereal and milk breakfast. It gives you ready-to-eat cereal with milk, 100% pure orange juice from Florida, and bread or toast with your favorite spread.

You get the good nutrition your body needs to start the day right, and all the good taste you could want. An added bonus is how quickly it can be served up when you're in a hurry.

We're treating you to a 22¢ savings today, to help you enjoy a Better Breakfast tomorrow.

BLUSHING YOGURT DRESSING

½ cup corn oil
3 tablespoons ketchup
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon dry or liquid low-calorie sweetener

1. Combine all ingredients in blender, cover. Blend 20-30 seconds, until smooth. Or combine ingredients in jar, cover tightly and shake well. Makes about 1¼ cups, approximately 46 calories per tablespoon

RAW-VEGETABLE MELANGE

1 cup sliced celery
2 cups coarsely shredded carrot
2 apples, cored and diced
2 teaspoons grated onion
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon milk

1. Toss vegetables together with salt. Thin mayonnaise with milk; add to vegetables just before serving.
2. Refrigerate covered if not serving immediately.

Makes 6 servings, 116 calories per serving

GREEN BEANS WITH BASIL*

1 tablespoon corn oil
3 tablespoons water
1 lb. green beans, tipped and rinsed, or 1½ pkgs. (10-oz. size) frozen green beans
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dried basil leaves or 3 fresh basil leaves
Dash pepper

1. Pour oil and water into medium saucepan with a tight-fitting cover. Add rest of ingredients, cover. Cook over low heat about 10-12 minutes, just until vegetables are tender. Shake pan several times to prevent sticking.
2. If using frozen green beans, turn block frequently during first few minutes of cooking and separate vegetables with a fork. Cook covered 5 minutes. Makes 4 servings

*Green Beans With Dill: Omit basil and use ½ teaspoon dried dillweed or 1 sprig snipped fresh dill.

Calorie count:
1 lb. green beans: 63.5 calories per serving
1 pkg. (10 ozs.) frozen green beans: 50 calories per serving

CARROT AND PEANUT BUTTER BREAD

1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
½ cup chunk-style peanut butter
¼ cup corn oil
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
2 eggs
2 cups finely shredded carrot

1¾ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground allspice
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
½ cup milk
½ cup raisins

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Grease or oil a 9x5x3-inch loaf pan.
2. In large bowl with electric mixer at high speed, beat brown sugar, peanut butter, corn oil, vanilla extract and eggs until creamy. Beat in shredded carrot at low speed. Clean beaters and scrape side of bowl.
3. On sheet of waxed paper or foil stir together flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt, allspice and nutmeg.
4. Alternately stir flour mixture and milk into peanut butter-carrot combination.
5. Add raisins, mixing at low speed. Turn batter into prepared pan.
6. Bake for about 60 minutes, or until a cake tester poked in center of loaf comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes on rack, then turn loaf out of pan to complete cooling.

Makes 1 loaf, 18 (½ inch thick) slices; approximately 195 calories per slice

WHAT SHOULD YOU WEIGH?

An approximate guide to what an adult should weigh is his weight at age 25 if he was in good physical shape.

The AMA says a person who leads a moderately active life needs 15 calories per pound every day. So look at a height-weight chart and find out how much you should weigh for your sex, body-build and age. Multiply by 15, and the answer is the number of calories you need to keep that weight.

If you want to lose weight, figure how many pounds you want to lose in a week. (Two pounds a week is the AMA suggested limit for a safe rate of loss.) There are 3,500 calories in a pound of fat. So if you want to lose two pounds a week, you have to cut back 7,000 calories, or 1,000 calories a day.

CEREAL PEANUT BUTTER BARS

- ¾ cup light corn syrup
- ¼ cup sugar
- 1 cup creamy or super-chunk peanut butter
- 4 cups ready-to-eat flaked cereal

1. Lightly oil a 9x9x2-inch pan.

2. Mix corn syrup and sugar in 3-qt. saucepan and bring to boil over medium heat, stirring.

3. Remove from heat; stir in peanut butter until smooth. Stir in cereal.

4. Spread in prepared pan. Cover with foil or plastic wrap, cool in refrigerator until firm.

5. Cut into 24 (1½ x 2¼ inch) bars.

Makes 24 bars, 115 calories per bar

The Doctor Lets You In

New Contraceptive Shot—With One Slight Drawback

The Pill works. But it must be taken daily—and for women who forget, that's a problem. But there's a new birth-control substance—in the form of an injection—that needs to be given only once every three months. It's a hormone called Depo Provera, or medroxyprogesterone. The FDA has allowed its use under restricted conditions until more is learned about it. But it's for women who cannot, for some reason, take the Pill or use other contraceptive methods, or for whom other means of contraception have failed to work. Depo Provera has been under study for ten years. Its effectiveness is the same as that of the Pill. But it has an important drawback: There is a risk of prolonged or even permanent sterility after the use of the drug is stopped. If you must take the new injectable contraceptive, you should be aware of this.

And before you get an injection, ask the doctor to read to you the package insert that comes with the vial containing Depo Provera. The FDA has demanded this as a condition to allow it on the market. P.S.: There is also on the drawing boards a non-hormonal, safe contraceptive to be taken as a pill or as an injection once a month. It is one of the prostaglandins, about which you will hear much more in the future. But this is not available yet.

ALAN ALDA:
"What's Wrong With Us Men Staying Home for Awhile?"

"Men also suffer from stereotyped attitudes about the sexes," says Alan Alda, star of "M*A*S*H." "We're taught that it is in our interests to go out and be breadwinners, even at jobs we don't like, because that's how it is supposed to be. Sometimes we drop dead of heart attacks with all that pressure. What would be wrong with reversing roles for awhile and letting the man take care of the house and go to school to study a field of interest while the wife worked? Men are deprived in other ways, too—like not being able to express the soft side of ourselves. Also, I think if men and women could mix on an equal basis at an early age, we would be able to work better side by side and have much more rewarding relationships. Look what happens when we go out to relax. The men talk to the men; the women, to the women. My point is that if we could end sexual stereotyping, maybe men would be happier, too."

The Young Golfer Nicklaus Picks to Win a Million

BEN CRENSHAW

First there was "Arnie's Army," who followed their hero, Arnold Palmer, around golf courses. Now it's "Ben's Wrens," a crowd of female admirers who trail after Ben Crenshaw, the golf world's latest sensation. Crenshaw is a 22-year-old Texan with a dewy-eyed, angelic appearance and a mop of long blond hair that make all his "Wrens" want to mother him. . . . Despite his disarming looks and his comparatively small size, he packs tremendous power in his drives and is a tough competitor who goes out on the links "absolutely determined to win." In only seven months as a pro, he's won over $100,000 and caused the winningest golfer, Jack Nicklaus, to comment that he'll win $1 million in prize money faster than anyone ever has before. . . . Crenshaw got off to perhaps the flashiest start in history when he won the first tournament he entered as a pro and finished second in two major tourneys that followed. His charisma also established him as a prime gate attraction. . . . Crenshaw learned golf as a child from his father, a lawyer in Austin, Texas. He entered his first tournament when he was only in the fourth grade and was so consistently good he was dubbed "the child prodigy of golf." At the University of Texas, he became the first freshman ever to win the NCAA golf title. He then won the NCAA two more times and added ten other amateur championships to his string. . . . Golf fans have been impressed with Ben's honesty as well as his skill. He failed to qualify in one tournament because he insisted on calling a penalty on himself. "My dad told me I've got to play by the rules and I've always followed what he told me," he explains. . . . Crenshaw has what golf buffs call "the long swing." He takes the club all the way back before bringing it forward. The force of his swing stems mainly from the power in his legs. . . . Although many golfers get the jitters when fans follow them and insist that they be kept at a distance, Crenshaw welcomes the crowds. "Their support and cheers make me play better," he says. "When the fans whoop it up for me, it makes me try harder than ever." . . . Crenshaw is the idol of the new young pros. "Ben beats you to death, but you can't help liking him," says Allen Miller, one of the young set. "As a young player, we feel he's representing us and our era. When he finishes ahead of the older players, we feel he's scored a victory for us as well as for himself."

Famed European health and beauty authority reveals how to RID YOURSELF OF UGLY FAT...LOSE THOSE LUMPS, BUMPS AND BULGES YOU COULDN'T LOSE BEFORE in a startling new book that exposes CELLULITE.

In 224 revealing pages, Mme. Nicole Ronsard deals with a problem affecting 8 out of 10 women . . . the problem of the lumps and bulges that won't go away no matter how much you diet . . . no matter how much you exercise.

If diet doctors, pills, salons, exercise gymns, spas and steam rooms haven't helped, chances are that you have cellulite and can be one of those fortunate women that will benefit from the secrets in this sensational new book.

WHAT IS CELLULITE?

Don't let the word frighten you. Millions of women everywhere have cellulite and live their lives with it . . . simply because they have never been able to recognize it, and thus have not been able to do anything about it. Now, thanks to the efforts of Mme. Nicole Ronsard, the prayers of many can be answered.

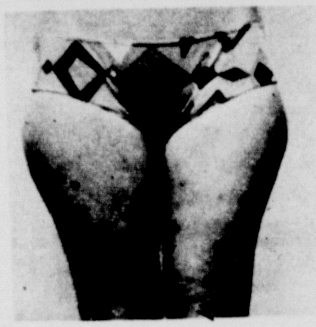
Cellulite, which causes unsightly lumps and bulges, is more than simple fatty tissue. It is a gel-like substance made up of fat, water and wastes trapped in immovable pockets beneath the skin.

Mme. Ronsard deals with every aspect of cellulite. You quickly learn where to look for it . . . recognize it . . . and, most important, rid yourself of it forever!

Think what this could mean to you. Unsightly bulges around hips, thighs and buttocks—gone. Flab and pockets of fat around knees, upper arms—gone. Wear clothes you never dreamed you could wear; bathing suits you never dared to even try on; gowns and evening clothes made only for others . . . not for you.

Yes, new life awaits you within the pages of this exciting new book. Say good-bye to "jodhpur thighs" and "saddlebag buttocks" . . . never again be embarrassed by "cottage cheese" textured skin.

While cellulite is recognized throughout Europe, this is the first and only book published in America that deals with this relatively unknown blight to femininity. Every aspect of the problem is discussed and explained in easy-to-read language. For any woman who suspects she may have a cellulite problem, no matter how slight or advanced, this book is a "must."



HOW TO RECOGNIZE CELLULITE

Visually, ordinary fat and cellulite are different. Regular fat, when squeezed, is smooth in texture. It does not show ripples or lumps.

To discover if you have a cellulite problem, take one simple test that cannot fail: Squeeze the tissues between the thumb and index finger or between the palms of both hands. If cellulite is present, skin ripples and looks like an orange peel. At a more advanced stage, ripples will be noticeable without any pressure.

PRAISE FROM THE PRESS

WHAT LEADING EDITORS SAY ABOUT MME. RONSARD'S REMARKABLE CELLULITE CONTROL METHODS:

HARPER'S BAZAAR QUOTES NICOLE RONSARD:

"Cellulite can be licked. It's knowing what the problem is and how to solve it that makes the difference."

A LEADING BEAUTY EDITOR SAYS:

"Mme. Ronsard is an expert in the treatment of cellulite. In her salon she uses the French treatment method; but one need not go to a salon to have it done, one reason she wrote the book, "Cellulite—Those Lumps, Bumps and Bulges You Couldn't Lose Before."

VOGUE MAGAZINE:

"If you ask Nicole Ronsard about cellulite, she could write a book. And she has—Cellulite: Those Lumps, Bumps and Bulges You Couldn't Lose Before. The very first of its kind, it's devoted exclusively to cellulite—a subject Mme. Ronsard has been studying all her life.

BEAUTY STUDIOS, MASSAGE SALONS AND PEOPLE EVERYWHERE ARE THRILLED AND DELIGHTED BY THIS REVEALING NEW BOOK.

"My copy of Nicole Ronsard's 'Cellulite' has proved to be about the best investment I have ever made".—H.H. Glendale, Ca.

"When I discovered your book . . . I was very excited. I instantly felt that this book is going to help me change my life. And it really did".—E.M.K. San Francisco, Ca.

"May I forward my greatest admiration to Madame Ronsard for her enhancement and perpetuation of the leadership of beauty as a pride of every French Woman. Every woman who looks at my book that I ordered from you last October first, is anxious to order one".—A.L. Palm Beach, Fla.

"I was very impressed with the material and the way you presented it! I am a physical educator. My main interests are dance, exercise and physical fitness. Never throughout my college career did I come across a book with so much information and good, common sense".—C.L.P.

When you order "Cellulite: Those Lumps Bumps and Bulges You Couldn't Lose Before," you do so with the understanding that if this sensational book doesn't help you overcome your most difficult figure problems, you may return for full money back. If you are not satisfied in every way with Nicole Ronsard's contribution to a more beautiful you, then simply return the book and it has cost you absolutely nothing.

Mme. NICOLE RONSARD . . . the author

She is a graduate of the world renowned Ecole Superieure de Paris in Esthetique Corporelle (science related to body shaping techniques).

Under the tutelage of Rene Morice, she probed the causes of cellulite, and with intensive studies in anatomy, physiology, histology, nutrition, calisthenics and manipulative therapy, developed a successful method of treating it.

Mme. Ronsard's salon in New York has gained widespread fame for the remarkable results achieved in thousands of cases. Women in all walks of life, from housewives to socialites, have praised her—for she helped when all others had failed.

To reach the thousands throughout the country who suffer from cellulite, Mme. Ronsard has written her book with the hope that they may be helped. Her wealth of knowledge may now be shared with women everywhere.

THE HANSON QUINTS
Or . . . the famished five

With the ever-increasing rise in food prices, what is a mother of quintuplets to do? "It wasn't so bad at first," says the mother of the Hanson girls, the first set of quintuplets to be born in Britain in a century. "They managed on baby food with, perhaps, a casserole or some kind of fish during the week." Now the quints are older and Mrs. Hanson is finding it harder to feed them. Here is the average fare for a week: three giant packs of cereal, four pounds of sugar, two pounds of butter, 21 quarts of milk and seven bottles of orange or black-currant juice. "Fortunately, they like chicken and it is a good buy right now," adds Mrs. Hanson, who has a sixth daughter, Rachel, 22 months old. Imagine what the food bills would be if the quints liked steak!

QUOTE: John Kenneth Galbraith describes the Peking Department Store: "It has three sales floors, each about half the size of one at Saks Fifth Avenue. . . . Presumably because there are no high incomes in China, there is a notable absence of big-ticket items. No furniture, no appliances except for one refrigerator, no television sets, but unfortunately, a growing supply of transistor radios. Turnover is about $100,000 a day . . . the store is open seven days a week from nine until seven. Employees, of whom there are 2,300, average 63.00 yuan (roughly $31.50) a month. . . . The Chinese advantages: no slow-moving high-end items, little or no showing of styles, little or no fitting of clothes, high consequent output per salesperson, low returns, no credit, no credit cards, no green stamps, no advertising, no shoplifting. The store would not do well in Westchester County, New York. It seems right for Peking." From "A China Passage" (Signet, $1.50). UNQUOTE.

Michael Douglas, star of the TV series "The Streets of San Francisco" and son of actor Kirk Douglas, once got a commendation from President Nixon for saving a man's life during filming. "While we were working in the San Francisco Bay, a stunt man was run over by a speedboat and pretty well chopped up by the propeller. I jumped in, pulled him out, then gave him first aid and artificial respiration. It took months before the man was well enough to get around again. That's why I got the President's National Merit Life Saving Award."

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

SINK SONG

Whoever named the sink a sink
Did really rather well, I think,
For sink is what my spirits do
If I should chance our sink to view.
Our sink is not unkind or vicious,
But it is filled with pans and dishes
As well as things I hate to face
That ought to be some other place.
With dish and glass our sink is sunk,
It shows what we have eaten, drunk.
Indeed, piled almost to the ceiling,
Our sink gives me a sinking feeling.

A major airline provided its switchboard operators with instructions to follow in case of a bomb threat. The first directive was to notify the police. Soon, an operator got the chance to use the instructions. "I'm sorry," she informed the caller. "We don't take bomb threats. You'll have to call the police."

Our friends' small son and his parents went to visit some friends who lived on a farm. City-bred little Billy was fascinated with the farm animals, tractor, etc. Needless to say, he had had no previous experience with eating foods straight from the garden so when he returned home he was quite excited.
